WALLACE CALLS ON U. S. TO HELP IN SAVING WORLD

Fifth in Cabinet to Beat War Drums.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—Vice President Henry A. Wallace today beat a tattoo on the administration's war drums in a vigorous speech in which he argued that it is the duty of the United States to help establish a true peace in the world.

Henry A. Wallace.

"The threat of war brings powerfully to our attention that we have duties no less than rights," Wallace said, "and when the danger of war is past, if we are to succeed this time in establishing a true peace at home and abroad, we shall establish that true peace only by carrying on the full duties that are the strength and support of democracy.

"We know now that the failure of peace after the first world war was partly the result of our own mistakes. We did our duty in the war and we won all that any war can give—the right to make the terms of peace.

Points to Second Chance.

"But when we had won the right to make peace we were tired of facing hard responsibilities; and peace is a hard responsibility, at home and abroad. So we quit. We decided to go in for isolation, to mind our own business and let the world go where it would. The world has gone there.

"Now we have a second chance to take up the responsibilities of a great nation in a world that desperately needs our help. This time our responsibility is greater than it was 25 years ago. This war will decide whether the Nazi tyranny shall impose its new order on the world, or whether the free peoples have another chance.

"This time, when we are called upon to play our part with the other free nations, to build and year after year to maintain a fair and democratic peace, we dare not shirk our responsibility."

Addresses Radio Broadcasters.

The Vice President carried forward the administration's drive to create war sentiment in this country in a radio address from Washington to the convention of the National Association of Broadcasters in St. Louis and to the nation.

At almost the same time his successor as secretary of agriculture, Claude Wickard, was furthering the administration's war drive in a speech at Raleigh, N. C., urging use of the American navy to convoy supplies to Britain. Wickard said the United States "must see" that American food and munitions for Britain "get there—get there safely and get there in time."

Wallace and Wickard swelled to five the number of officials of cabinet rank who have been seeking to rally the country to war. Already Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson have contributed speeches to the drive.

Borrows Theme from Wilson.

In his address Wallace borrowed a theme from the speech in which Woodrow Wilson declared war against Germany in 1917. Wallace labeled Germany's Nazi leaders as "gangsters" and argued the United States has no quarrel with the great bulk of the German people.

In declaring war against Germany on April 6, 1917, Wilson told congress that "We have no feeling against them [the German people] but one of sympathy and friendship." Wilson said the United States would not fight the German people but German autocracy.

"The German people are not the same as the Nazi gang that has seized control over Germany," Wallace said. "Most Germans are not gangsters. In Germany the majority of the people are caught in a trap.

"Let us do our part to show here in America that we can distinguish between the great majority of Germans, whom we know to be good citizens, and the few who belong to the Nazi gang."

Roosevelt Approval Reported.

It was reported at the White House that the Wallace speech had been seen and approved before delivery by President Roosevelt. The President

GERMANS WARN RED SEA SHIPS WILL BE SUNK

See Threat Ignored

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—The United States will ignore German warnings against sending ships into the Red sea area and will rush plans for getting supplies into that gateway to the Mediterranean, informed circles believed tonight.

German threats to extend sea and air warfare into the zone were anticipated here when President Roosevelt recently reopened that route to American shipping.

In New York intercoastal shipping operators said they would turn over about 20 ships to the government within the next 30 days and 20 more by mid-July to rush supplies to Egypt along the Red sea route.

BERLIN, May 14 [Wednesday]—(AP).—In the face of President Roosevelt's opening of the Red sea to American shipping, the German government early today announced that the northern part of the sea was a war operations zone and that all vessels traveling there risked destruction.

Whether any American ships are in the area or en route there was not known publicly here. No specific mention was made of the United States, but the warning to that country was plain.

Plan to Mine Area.

Every ship traveling in the waters defined as an operations zone "exposes itself to destruction by mines or other weapons of war," the communique said.

Presumably mine laying German planes and bombers will be sent into the Red sea zone in view of developments in the eastern Mediterranean.

German planes already have been active in the Suez canal zone to the north, and at least one German surface raider has been operating in the Indian ocean far to the south.

[The British recently announced the destruction of one German surface raider by the British cruiser Cornwall in an Indian ocean battle. The German raider was believed to be the former trans-Atlantic liner Hansa.]

Outline Danger Zone.

The area declared to be a danger zone includes the northern part of the Red sea, the Gulfs of Suez and Aqaba, and goes as far south as the Tropic of Cancer, 450 miles below the Suez canal.

Territorial waters of Saudi Arabia are excluded from the area outlined.

"Regulation for travel in the designated operations area by specially marked pilgrim ships has been reserved," the communique said.

MRS. ROOSEVELT HITS U. S. 'TORIES'; URGES FORTITUDE

New York, May 13 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said tonight that "we need a kind of courage and fortitude which gives a conviction that beyond material things, there are things worth living for, and if need be, worth dying for."

In a radio address over the Columbia network under auspices of the college division of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, she said that "Tories" who advocate a policy of compromise for the United States "seem to ignore the fact that the continuing success of Nazism and Fascism is in itself a danger to democracy."

Americans must realize, she said, that a Hitler victory would place us economically in competition with Europe under a system of "slave labor."

Massey, Son of Canadian Commissioner, Hurt in War

TORONTO, Ont., May 13 (AP).—Capt. Lionel Massey, son of the Canadian high commissioner in London, Vincent Massey, was wounded and taken prisoner in Greece, according to word received by relatives here today. Removed to a hospital in Athens, he remained there when the British withdrew.

THE FIRST BIG CRACK-UP?

Pardon Board Hears Plea of 2 Fugitive Goons

Springfield, Ill., May 13 [Special].—Two Chicago labor union agents—convicted sluggers and fugitives from justice who have yet to serve a day in prison—were granted hearings yesterday by the state board of pardons and paroles. Both have been found guilty by a jury of assaulting a butcher shop porter, father of six children, who was working contrary to their wishes.

The two, Joseph Kopke and Harry Hlavacek, officials of local No. 638 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America, have been at liberty on bond of $10,000 each since April 30, 1940, when they were found guilty of assault to commit mayhem and sentenced to terms of one to 14 years. The Supreme court refused to order a new trial, and when they could not be found to be taken to prison on May 5, their bonds were ordered forfeit by Chief Justice James F. Fardy in Criminal court.

Parade of Witnesses.

Their victim was Czeslaw Mikolajczk, 51 years old, a former union member, who took a job as porter in a meat market to earn food for his children. The pardon petition was presented by Attorney William Scott Stewart, who also produced several character witnesses for his clients.

A letter from State's Attorney Thomas Courtney's office said the state opposed the proceedings—and emphatically opposed pardoning men who had not served a day of their sentence.

The convictions were obtained by Assistant State's Attorneys Gordon Nash and Morris Meyers and approved by Judge Joseph A. Graber.

It was one of the few cases on record where goons have been caught in the act and then convicted by juries and their convictions sustained by reviewing courts. The only hope of the men for freedom is thru the clemency of Gov. Dwight Green, to whom the pardon board will make a recommendation.

Recommendations to Green.

After hearing all members of the delegation from Chicago the board announced it would give consideration to the petition and forward its views to the governor. The wives of the convicted men pleaded with the board to recommend pardons.

"The punishment is too severe—it does not fit the crime," Stewart told the board. "It was just a row. The man was not severely or permanently injured. The case should have been decided in a police court."

The facts in the case, as reviewed by Prosecutor Nash, were that Mikolajczk had dropped out of the union while unemployed and then obtained a job as porter in a butcher shop contrary to the wishes of Kopke and Hlavacek. The union business agents sought him out in his place of employment, beat him on the head with a revolver, kicked him when he was down, and then threw him bodily out of the room, Nash declared.

[In Chicago a member of a local meat cutters' union was shot last night and accused the union business agent. Story on page 3.]

REFERENDUM ON SHIP CONVOYS, 2D A. E. F., SOUGHT IN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—Representative Nick Keller [R., Waukegan] introduced a bill in the legislature today to require Gov. Dwight Green to set a date for a state-wide referendum prior to July 15, on these questions:

1. Should American ships convoy arms to Britain?
2. Should armed forces of the United States be ordered to fight in Europe, Asia or Africa?
3. Should the United States return to a status of absolute neutrality in respect to wars being waged outside of the western hemisphere?

The measure was referred to the executive committee. A state-wide referendum, in the opinion of election experts here, would cost about a million dollars.

CAPT. JIM HANDS GREEK KING NOTE FROM HIS FATHER

CAIRO, Egypt, May 13 (AP).—Capt. James Roosevelt delivered a note from his father, President Roosevelt, to King George II. of Greece in Crete and then returned to Cairo tonight.

The letter was written before the Greek military collapse and removal of the Greek government to Crete to continue the struggle. However, it was understood that Capt. Roosevelt expressed to the king regret that American aid did not arrive in time and assured him that the promise of material help still holds good in connection with the Greeks' continuing struggle against the Nazis.

Roosevelt, an officer in the marine corps, is on an observation mission, having come here by way of Chungking, China, and Iraq.

[Capt. Roosevelt began his travels on April 19 when he left San Francisco by Clipper plane for Hawaii. On May 2 his father said he had not the faintest idea of the purpose of his son's tour. The President suggested that the marine corps might enlighten questioners. When asked, the marine corps replied: "No comment."]

Cutter Leaving N.U. Deanship; Miller Chosen

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, last night announced his retirement as dean of the Northwestern university medical school as of Sept. 1, when he will be 65 years old, and the university board of trustees approved the appointment as dean of Dr. James R. Miller. He has been Dr. Cutter's assistant for the last eight years.

Dr. Cutter will continue his association with the school as dean emeritus and professor emeritus of medicine. He will continue to serve THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as its health editor. Relieved from his university duties, he will have more time than before to devote to the task of acquainting the public with facts about health. Dr. Cutter's column in THE TRIBUNE has gained a constantly increasing number of followers during the last seven years.

New Dean Only 35 Years Old.

Dr. Miller at 35 will be one of the youngest deans of a major medical school. Born in Murray, Utah, he received his B. A. degree from the University of Utah in 1925 and the degrees of M. D. and M. S. in 1929 and 1931.

Dr. Miller became an instructor at the school in 1934, progressing to the rank of assistant professor of medicine in 1938 and to associate professor this year. He is a member of the staffs of Passavant and Wesley Memorial hospitals, both of which are on Northwestern's Chicago campus.

His special field is the heart, a subject in which he already has won recognition. Dr. Miller was married before his graduation from school to Berenice Johannesen. He lives at 210 East Walton street with his wife and two children.

Dr. Cutter in Post 15 Years.

During Dr. Cutter's 15 year deanship Northwestern university medical school has won recognition as one of the nation's greatest centers of teaching and research. To its two teaching hospitals on the Chicago campus will be added a third hospital, the Morton Memorial, within the next two years.

Many gifts for medical research and teaching have come to the medical school under Dr. Cutter's leadership.

Dr. Cutter's position as superintendent of the Passavant hospital which he has held since 1928 will not be affected by observance of the university retirement rule applying to deans.

SCOTCH GUARDS TELL HOW HESS FLED GERMANY

GLASGOW, Scotland, May 13 (AP).—Rudolf Hess told his captors how he secretly fitted an extra gasoline tank to a warplane and flew a beeline from Augsburg, Germany, to Scotland with the route marked in blue pencil on a map.

The story of the Nazi chief deputy's coldly calculated flight from Adolf Hitler was related today by two members of the home guards who took over Hess' custody late Saturday night after Hess parachuted onto a Scottish field with an impact felt around the world.

On him they found the map with the blue penciled Augsburg to Scotland route, and a quantity of compressed food.

Drops Tank Into Sea.

The extra gasoline tank, fitted to the Messerschmitt 110 so that Hess could be certain he would have enough gasoline for the trip, was dropped in the sea as he crossed the Scottish coast, Hess related.

The guardsmen, Jack Paterson and Robert Gibson, also related Hess' story of how he tried to land the plane—the first Messerschmitt he ever had flown.

"I circled over the spot where I finally parachuted for a long time," he said, "but in the darkness I could not see a suitable landing place.

"Then I climbed several thousand feet, threw the plane over on its back and switched off the engine. Just as I was falling out, I righted the machine again, switched on the engine and sent the plane hurtling to earth while I fell clear."

Silent on Bullet Holes.

He said nothing about the 10 bullet holes found in the tail of the wrecked plane—indicating he either was fired upon by German pursuers or caught in the gunsights of British fighters. No such action by British pilots has been reported.

Paterson said Hess was completely calm when he talked to him.

David McLean, sturdy Scottish farmer who first approached Hess with a pitchfork, and the home guards to whom the farmer delivered him at a nearby airport, agreed that their prisoner was a polite, self-possessed fellow, and that they knew he must be important even tho they did not at the time learn he was the No. 3 Nazi.

"I have no bombs in my plane, so you need not worry," he told Gibson, speaking excellent English.

Hess Spurns Cigaret.

The plane was a pursuit type and already had crashed, but this somewhat cryptic remark was not elaborated.

While Hess talked, Paterson said, "we offered him cigarets, but he told us he didn't smoke. So when we asked him if he wanted a glass of milk he said, 'Have you got milk?' as if surprised that we had any.

"He drank half a glass, and then remarked, 'I feel a bit cramped. My legs are stiff from being in the plane so long, and my ankle is a bit painful.' [Hess sustained a broken bone in his left ankle in his parachute leap.]

"He said, 'I've been in the air for four hours. I left Germany in a Messerschmitt 110 destroyer. Altho I'm a skilled pilot, I am really a German army officer.'

Call Prisoner Sane.

"He was perfectly sane. He was immaculately dressed. His uniform was made of the finest material and he wore very fine leather top boots.

"He had a very expensive camera strung around his neck, but he told us he hadn't taken any photographs. He also wore a magnificent bracelet watch."

Hess' first act was to convince his captors he was not armed, smilingly inviting their search.

Still ignorant of Hess' identity, the home guards carted him off to a hospital, relating, "He thanked us for our kindness."

Moved from Glasgow.

Hess first was taken to a Glasgow hospital, but as a precaution was moved later to a hospital in the country. A doctor who examined him said he appeared all right and said he had with him a stimulant for use in case of a heart attack or a parachute jump. The nature of this stimulant was not disclosed.

"Aside from being tired, he is comfortable and in very good spirits," reliable sources said.

"He is in bed in a hospital, where he has been equipped with army pajamas. Except for a slight pain in his ankle he appears quite well. There is an officer looking after him.

"He is spending most of the time resting, dozing, and reading periodicals and writing."

RUNAWAY NAZI DISGUSTED WITH PARTY—BRITISH

Claim He Gives True Story of Germany.

LONDON, May 14 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Rudolf Hess shortly will be faced by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a private interview, it was disclosed today. This interview will afford Hess the chance to tell the story of his aerial runaway from Germany and to give up vital secrets that might conceivably affect the future course of war.

Whether Adolf Hitler's longtime friend and turncoat deputy fuehrer will describe the inside story of Germany to Churchill was a matter of high speculation.

But highly placed Britons already were declaring that the beetle-browed German's almost incredible 800 mile flight to Britain had given this country more military advantage "than a major victory on the battlefield."

"Maggot Is in the Apple."

The effect on German morale of his flight alone was worth that much, they said, and Churchill himself was quick to seize upon this point when he declared on learning of Hess' arrival: "The maggot is in the apple."

However, authoritative sources said that wartime regulations forbade the publication of any military or political utterances which Hess, as a prisoner of war, might make. There was one report that he had brought vital information concerning Germany's air force.

When and where Churchill and the surrendered prisoner of war will meet was not disclosed, but the London Daily Mail said Hess already had been moved from a Glasgow hospital to "a place nearer London."

Already, the paper said, while Hess recovers from a broken ankle bone suffered in his parachute descent to a Scottish moor, British officials are talking to him.

Tells of German Conditions.

Hess has described to these questioners real conditions in Germany and amid the Nazi hierarchy, the Daily Mail said.

"He spoke freely and frankly and is said to have indicated his personal disgust with the Nazi party and its policy," it added. "The tension between party leaders appears to have reached a state of considerable acuteness in recent weeks."

"There is no reason to think of Hess as the leader of any widespread revolt against the Fuehrer," it said.

The house of commons, meeting in temporary quarters because of the destruction wrought to its chambers by Saturday night's German air raid, yesterday heard from Churchill that he had worked on the case personally for most of the night.

Defers Detailed Statement.

He deferred a detailed statement, but he remarked: ". . . This is one of those cases in which the imagination is somewhat baffled by the facts as they present themselves."

The house, in high humor, roared with laughter.

Churchill did not reply to one member's demand that he "bear in mind this gentleman's record of devotion to the vile genius of Europe."

Members of commons speculated that Hess quarreled with other Nazis because he already knew that Hitler had abandoned his plan for invasion of England.

Carried No Peace Plan.

"Hess would not have come to Britain if he believed Hitler had a chance to stage a successful invasion of England in the near future," reliable informants said. "For he would then be in the power of those with whom he so elegantly has fallen out."

Authorized statements stressed that Hess had no specific message, that he carried no peace plan, and that his desertion was dictated by purely personal motives.

But they did say that Hess had quarreled with "others in the Nazi gang" and that his flight showed clearly "the core of Germany is rotten."

Some conclusions were made available to the press on the basis of an interview which Ivone Kirkpatrick, former counselor of the British embassy in Berlin, had with Hess in Scotland. Kirkpatrick, while in Ber-

MUTUAL'S THREE MAIN UNITS QUIT NETWORK GROUP

NAB Not Representative of Industry, They Hold.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 13.—The three principal stockholders of the Mutual Broadcasting system today resigned their membership in the National Association of Broadcasters, holding its annual convention here.

James Lawrence Fly [top] and Neville Miller.

The three withdrawing stockholders are W-G-N, Inc., Chicago; the Bamberger Broadcasting Service, owner of station WOR, New York, and the Don Lee Broadcasting system, Hollywood, Cal. Baltimore Radio Show, Inc., operator of station WFBR, which is to join the Mutual network Oct. 1, also resigned from the NAB.

The reasons for the action were given by Alfred J. McCosker, chairman of the board of Mutual and president of the Bamberger Broadcasting Service, in a letter to Neville Miller, president of NAB.

Charges Adverse Action.

McCosker's letter said the withdrawals were ordered on the ground the NAB, which numbers some 500 of more than 800 stations in the United States, is no longer representative of the entire radio industry. McCosker also charged the NAB has acted adversely to Mutual's interests and in favor of the interests of other broadcasters.

The resignations of the two other Mutual members were signed by E. M. Antrim, assistant secretary of W-G-N, Inc., and executive secretary of Mutual, and Lewis Allen Weiss, vice president and general manager of Don Lee and vice president of Mutual.

It was also made known that Mutual, which is not a member of NAB as a network, withdrew the name of Fred Weber, Mutual's general manager, as its nominee for representative on NAB's new board of directors to be elected at the present convention, and that Mutual will not be represented on this board in the future.

ASCAP Tunes Back on Air.

The Mutual resignations came almost at the hour that the music of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers [ASCAP], off the air since Jan. 1, was brought back to the network. The return of ASCAP tunes was made possible when more than 100 affiliates of Mutual ratified the agreement made by Mutual executives, despite the recommendations of NAB that no ASCAP terms be accepted until the whole radio music situation had been discussed before the convention. The music discussion is scheduled for tomorrow.

Both the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system have refused to accept ASCAP's terms.

McCosker's letter to Miller referred to the recent Federal Communications commission's monopoly report calling for a drastic revision of network broadcasting practices and ordering the NBC to dispose of its Blue network. This report has been called "fair" and "far sighted" by Mutual's executives, but has been bitterly attacked by NBC and CBS leaders, who assert it would wreck the American system of broadcasting. Mutual officials have charged that NBC and CBS dictate the actions of the NAB.

Text of McCosker Letter.

The text of McCosker's letter to Miller follows:

"We understand that you submitted to your board the objections taken by us to your intrusion in the Mutual-ASCAP matter and to your condemnation of the monopoly report, all as set forth in our letter of May 8, 1941. We note with regret the resolutions adopted by your board yesterday which gave approval to your actions.

"It is now entirely clear that your association is no longer representative of the entire industry and that you are taking a position in various matters adverse to our interests and in favor of those of others.

"For these reasons we hereby tender our resignation from your association."

Miller Issues Statement.

When informed of the Mutual resignations Miller issued a statement defending the association's action in attacking the FCC monopoly report. He made no mention of the music situation.

"We naturally regret the withdrawal of any members from the NAB," Miller said. "However, we believe that the issues subtly concealed in the monopoly report represent a direct challenge to the freedom of radio and, if not opposed, would be the first of a series of events leading to the destruction of not only the freedom of radio but also of the freedom of the press and the freedom of speech.

"We would be derelict in our duty not only to our members but also the public if we sat idly by merely to maintain our membership. We intend to protect the freedom of radio in opposing all attacks upon it, including those contained in the monopoly report. In so doing we believe that we represent the views of the overwhelming majority of our industry and of the public."

Gets Vote of Confidence.

Early today the NAB directors gave Miller a vote of confidence, extending his term of office to July, 1944. The board voted 24 to 1 to approve the actions of its leader.

The smoldering war between the networks flared on the floor of the convention earlier today. At the close of an address by James Lawrence Fly, president of the FCC, in which he referred to the "bogeyman of government control conjured up" by "men . . . in monopolistic control" of radio, Miller arose and challenged Fly's expressions. Miller asserted that a large group of the broadcasting industry disagrees with the monopoly orders of the commission.

Fly, in discussing the monopoly report today, referred to it as "the keystone of free broadcasting" and assured radio men that the government will not take over broadcasting "even in the most critical foreseeable emergency."

Meanwhile, the Independent Radio Network Affiliates, composed of independent broadcasters affiliated with the networks, passed a resolution condemning the monopoly report.

"It is the sense of IRNA," the resolution stated, "that the regulations as promulgated by the FCC will have the inevitable effect of impairing service to the public."

Mutual leaders asserted that IRNA is dominated by NBC and CBS.

A telegram from Stephen Early, White House secretary, to Lowell Mellett, an administrative assistant to the President, who addressed the convention off the record, informed the NAB Mr. Roosevelt had not expressed any statement of policy with regard to the FCC monopoly report yesterday. Early had sent Mutual executives a wire saying the President felt the Mutual leaders' attitude of a detachment promised "every prospect of a just and equitable solution."

PROPOSES CONGRESS INQUIRY INTO RECENT RADIO RULES BY FCC

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—A sweeping congressional investigation of radio broadcasting rules and regulations laid down May 2 by the Federal Communications commission was proposed in the senate today by Senator Wallace H. White [R., Me.] in a resolution asking that the FCC's order be held in abeyance until 60 days after filing an inquiry report.

The commission's rules, among other things would compel the National Broadcasting company to dispose of its Blue network; would sharply regulate the affiliation contracts between networks and stations, and would prohibit the licensing of two stations in the same area to one network, unless it can be shown the public interest requires otherwise.

White asked an investigation by the senate interstate commerce committee. His resolution declared the rules and regulations are "alleged to constitute an attempt upon the part of the commission to exercise a supervisory control of the programs, of the business management, and of the policy to be employed by radio broadcast stations."

Mrs. Whipple Jacobs Gets Divorce and $700 a Month

Mrs. Mary Latham Jacobs, 428 Elder lane, Winnetka, was granted a divorce by Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday from Whipple Jacobs, president of the Belden Manufacturing company. She charged desertion. The couple married in 1923 and separated Aug. 22, 1939. Judge Desort awarded Mrs. Jacobs the custody of three children, William, 16 years old; Nancy, 14, and Anne, 11, and granted her $700 a month alimony and the Elder lane home.

BILL TO PERMIT CITY MANAGERS SURVIVES TEST

House Defeats Attempt to Kill Measure.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—An assault upon the city manager bill failed in the house today and the measure now appears to have a better chance of passage than ever before, altho the final vote upon it will be close.

The test came upon a motion to strike the enacting clause when the bill was called on second reading. This motion, made by Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe [D., Chicago] was defeated 72 to 52, with several of the 151 members out of their seats or sitting silent. Seventy-seven votes are required for house approval on third reading. The fact that the bill came within five votes of this necessary count was under the circumstances taken as a god omen.

Objects to Size.

In brief, the bill would permit Illinois cities, by referendum, to adopt the city manager form of government, with a small elective council naming a manager who would be the city's executive officer.

O'Keefe protested that in Chicago, where the council would total 21 members, rather than 50, as at present, the size of the governing body, plus its power to select an executive without a vote by the people, would be un-American. Until today, the bill called for an 11 man city council for Chicago, but Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago] amended it to increase the size to 21.

11 Million Use Plan.

For the sponsors, Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries [R., Winnetka] declared that the bill did not seek to cram the city manager plan down any one's throat, but simply gave citizens the right to decide if they wanted it. She added that 38 states had adopted such legislation, and 522 cities, housing 11 million persons, were operating under the city manager form.

In general, Democrats opposed the bill and Republicans supported it, altho there were defections on both sides.

GAMBLING TRIAL OF COLONY CLUB IS SLATED TODAY

Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan of Police Commissioner Alman's office rolled a roulette wheel out of the headquarters vault yesterday. He expects to present it as evidence today at the trial of the management of the Colony club, 746 North Rush street, on gambling charges.

The trial is scheduled to be held before Judge Michael Tremko in the jury branch of the court. All evidence previously was submitted to Judge George B. Weiss in the racket court in three sessions, after which Judge Weiss granted the defendants a jury trial.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, who attended one of the sessions, announced he would have a representative present this morning. Chamberlin said Judge Weiss had taken the case under advisement before he changed his mind and allowed the club managers to go to trial in another court.

UNION OFFICIAL HELD IN SHOOTING OF MEAT CUTTER

Baseball Bat, Shells Are Seized.

A business agent for the Meat Cutters' union, local 517, was held by police last night after the shooting of another member of the union. A baseball bat and two boxes of cartridges were found in the business agent's car, police said.

The man held is Thomas Devero, alias Jimmy Ryan, who told police he served a two year term for larceny about 15 years ago. He is accused by Julian Sereik, 25 years old, 3814 Lowe avenue, a meat cutter, of shooting Sereik. Sereik was not seriously hurt.

Tells of Shooting.

According to Sereik's story to Supervising Capt. Andy Barry he and Devero had a few drinks in a tavern at 4187 South Halsted street after a union meeting, then started for 40th street and Normal avenue to see a man supposed to be able to help Sereik get a better job in Willow Springs. Sereik said two other men were in Devero's car.

At 40th and Normal, Sereik said, Devero told him to get out, then fired without warning or provocation. The bullet struck Sereik in the cheek and neck. Sereik said Devero and the other men then fled.

Bat Found in Car.

Devero was seized shortly after the shooting by Policeman John Ryan of the Stockyards station, who saw him at 42d and Halsted streets. The bat and a box of .25 caliber and another of .38 caliber shells were in his car, but no gun was found. Police said he had been drinking and could remember nothing of the evening except the union meeting.

The engineer of a Chicago, Joliet and Eastern train told Stockyards police he heard two shots in the vicinity of 40th street and Normal avenue.

STEAL 10 RAILROAD RAILS.

A burglar with odd tastes stole 10 railroad rails, each 30 feet long, from the Chicago and North Western right of way last night at North Keeler and Thorndale avenues.

OPEN OPPOSITION TO STATE REVIEW OF ASSESSMENTS

Manufacturers Prepare to Make Protest.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—Opposition to the bill to give the state tax commission the power to review the work of county taxing officials began to make its appearance today at a meeting of the revenue committee of the house of representatives.

Representatives of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and other organizations were on hand to attack the proposal originated by Philip Collins, recently appointed chairman of the tax commission. Collins was allowed to make his argument but, because the house was reconvening within a few minutes, the hearing of the opponents was postponed until next Tuesday.

Governor's Wishes in Doubt.

Another reason for the postponement, it was said, was a feeling among members of the committee that it was uncertain whether Gov. Dwight H. Green will include this bill in his program of state legislation. In a talk with newspapermen today the governor indicated that he has not made up his mind.

In his talk to the committee Chairman Collins, an insurance man, said that the purpose of the bill merely is to allow the tax commission to order local taxing authorities to reassess in the case of any taxpayer instead of ordering a complete reassessment of real estate as was done in Cook county in 1928. He spoke only of Cook county, but in reply to a question said the grant of power should include the 102 counties in the state for the sake of uniformity.

Questioning of Collins by the members had just been begun when at the suggestion of Representative Fred W. Rennick [R., Buda], who introduced the bill at Collins' request, the postponement was ordered.

Questioned on Attitude.

As the meeting dissolved several members crowded around Attorney David R. Clarke, counsel for the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and they and newspaper men questioned him about his attitude on the bill—about what he might have said if he had been given the opportunity.

He immediately corrected one who asked if the bill would not merely give the state commission the right to intervene in a few instances.

"You can put it another way," he said. "It would give the state commission power to review each and every assessment or each and every item of real estate and personal property of each and every taxpayer in each and every local taxing district in Illinois."

A member asked him if any state body ever had had that power. He replied in the negative.

Considered Home Rule Problem.

"The authority to make individual assessments and to review individual assessments," he said, "has always been considered to be peculiarly a matter for the elected officials of each local taxing district — a matter of home rule.

"This has always been so, even when the central and state government was absolutely dependent upon its revenue from state taxes."

He was asked whether the state is not now interested in general property taxes.

"Not directly," he replied. "The state government has been given other sources of revenue and is not dependent upon property taxes in the slightest degree. The state doesn't receive any money from the assessments made by local assessors.

Wants Local Control.

"There is no reason why the state should in this way invade home rule. The power to tax, it has often been said, is the power to destroy, and it should be kept as close to the control of the taxpayers as possible.

"The power to assess and review assessments is the first and most vital step in taxation. All property taxes are local taxes on local taxpayers for local purposes. They are assessed by local assessors elected by local people, including the local taxpayers; they are reviewed by local reviewers elected by local people, including the taxpayers.

Debate Effect of Bill.

"But if the power to review is taken over by the appointive state tax commission the local voters and local taxpayers will be deprived of local control, which is home rule."

"It is contended," Attorney Clarke was told, "that this bill would not take away the power of the local assessor or the power of the local review body."

"If that is so," was the reply, "what does section 140 mean when it says that 'whenever it shall appear' to the tax commission that 'any real or personal property of any person or corporation in any county or assessment district' has been 'unequally' or 'improperly' assessed, the tax commission may 'in its discretion' order a reassessment—and that such reassessment shall be substituted for the original assessment?

"Operating as it does upon the power to determine the assessment, which is the foundation of the entire local tax structure, this bill strikes at the foundation of home rule in local government in Illinois."

Others Discuss Repeal Section.

Others taking part in this discussion emphasized the importance of an extremely brief section 2 of the bill, reading merely: "Section 152 of said act [revenue act of 1939] is repealed."

The text of that part of the present law thus summarily disposed of is as follows:

"Nothing contained in this act should be construed to give the tax commission any power, jurisdiction, or authority to review, revise, correct, or change any individual assessment made by any local assessment officer."

ILLINOIS LUTHERANS BACK OHIO-CHICAGO SEMINARY MERGER

The Illinois synod of the United Lutheran Church of America voted its approval yesterday of the merger of Hamma Theological seminary at Springfield, O., and the Chicago Lutheran seminary in Maywood. Under the proposed plan the merger would be made in 1943.

Six other synods, including that in Ohio, still must vote on the plan. It was explained that if the Ohio synod ratifies it, the necessary two-thirds majority will have been given. These two bodies represent that proportion of the voting strength of the entire United Lutheran denomination. The Ohio synod will consider the matter next week.

The merger plan was developed by a committee headed by Dr. Armin G. Weng, president of the Illinois synod. Hamma is the theological department of Wittenberg college, and it is regarded as likely that the Maywood seminary will also become a division of the college.

LONDON PAPER HINTS HESS MAY BE ON A MISSION

Press Differs on Why Nazi Flew to Britain.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14 [Wednesday].—London newspapers today reached different conclusions as to the reasons prompting Rudolf Hess' spectacular flight from Germany to Scotland.

The Daily Herald's political correspondent said there has been a major split in the ranks of the Nazi ruling caste over Germany's war policy. The Daily Telegraph diplomatic correspondent expressed a similar view.

The News Chronicle quoted the suggestion of a neutral diplomat that Hess' flight is connected with a conflict between the German army and the Nazi party.

Hints He May Have Mission.

The Daily Express suggested that he may be the leader of a dissident section of Nazi leaders who oppose Adolf Hitler's extremist plans and may have a mission "possibly of his own choosing or for some one else."

It even hinted that he may be the bearer of a plan from the German government possibly concerning Russia.

The Daily Mail suggested that Hess clashed with Hitler about the development of German relations with Russia and fled to save himself.

Support for the theory that Hess may be representing the German military was given by a member of parliament who intimated that the army would be willing to quit Hitler if peace could be arranged. This school of thought believes that the German army is tired of policing the conquered nations of Europe on the ground that it is contrary to soldierly conduct and German military traditions.

Caution Against Sentimentality.

Die Zeitung, an anti-Nazi German language newspaper published in London, editorially cautioned against any "easy sentimentality" toward Hess.

"Make no mistake about it; he is as bad as the worst of them," it said. "His hands are stained with the blood of thousands of innocent people."

It urged the British to disregard "discretion and manners this time" and to exploit the Hess propaganda to the limit.

News Developments in the Middle East

IRAQ DECLARED READY TO ACCEPT TURK MEDIATION

CAIRO, Egypt, May 13 (AP).—Iraq has indicated she is taking advantage of a Turkish offer to mediate her guerrilla war with the British, reliable sources said today.

Informed sources said Iraq replied to an Egyptian offer of mediation, expressing thanks to her "sister nation," but declaring that the Turkish offer had been received earlier and was now being used.

Iraqis Claim "Mastery."

BEIRUT, Lebanon, May 13 (AP).—The Iraq general staff in a communique received here today from Bagdad asserted the Iraqis were "masters of the situation" in western Iraq where yesterday it reported the repulse of British armored forces in violent fighting around the fort of Rutba.

[The British, on the other hand, said that Rutba, a station on the Iraq oil line to the Mediterranean, had fallen on Sunday to their forces.]

In the Basra sector in southern Iraq the general staff said Iraq artillery fire "caused heavy losses in enemy quarters" in the region of Choucibah.

EX-CONVICT HELD TO GRAND JURY.

L. Day William Goyette, an ex-convict identified in 14 robberies and two automobile thefts, was held to the grand jury on three charges of robbery yesterday by Judge Michael Tremko in the Automobile court.

Italian Press Buries Story of Hess' Flight to Britain

ROME, May 13.—The story of the flight of Rudolf Hess to Scotland was buried in the Italian press today in the form of the first German communique. The Giornale d'Italia tacked the communique onto another item and did not mention Hess in the headline. Altho the admission that Hess is in Britain has not yet been made, observers feel certain that the Italian people know where he is and what he did. Comment is lacking.

CHURCHILL PLANS TO GRILL HESS ON HIS FLIGHT SOON

Nazi Disgusted with His Party, British Say.

This material made these points:

Hess is sane and healthy, except for a leg injury.

He is being treated as a prisoner of war at a secret place of confinement. No reporters may see him.

He brought no special message to Britain, no "peace plan."

If his flight was a trick, "it was a very, very strange one."

Some sources contended that the Hess flight would be impossible to explain to the German people and that the Nazi story he was insane would not be believed.

"Crazy men don't fly planes 800 miles," they said.

EXPECT KELLY TO PICK DR. HOWARD OF N. U. AS LABOR ADVISER TODAY

Mayor Kelly today is expected to appoint Dr. Earl Dean Howard, economist and professor at Northwestern university, as an investigator of wages and working conditions among city employés, according to reports in the city hall yesterday. It is understood that Dr. Howard will act as the mayor's adviser in labor matters.

Dr. Howard has been at Northwestern since 1907. He was a lecturer on labor problems at Harvard university from 1920 to 1924. He was in charge of labor relations for the clothing firm of Hart Schaffner & Marx from 1911 to 1932, when he retired.

TRAIN KILLS CAR INSPECTOR.

Steve Rudnick, 55 years old, 1303 East 93d street, a car inspector for the Belt railway of Chicago, was killed yesterday when he fell under a train of the same road in the yards at 94th street and Saginaw avenue.

HITLER SUMMONS ALL HIS LEADERS INTO CONFERENCE

German People Aroused by Hess' Flight.

BERLIN, May 13 (AP).—Adolf Hitler called all high Nazi figures and government leaders to a conference late today soon after the disclosure of Rudolph Hess' flight to Britain. That flight aroused the German people as they had rarely been aroused in this war.

The assembled party leaders, said the Nazi news service, "gave the Fuehrer—who spoke to the gathering—an impressive demonstration of a determined will for victory." The official announcement said nothing of the Hess incident in connection with the conference.

Called Deranged Idealist.

Hess himself, who had suddenly abandoned the third place in party power for the status of a war prisoner in England, was officially labeled by his Nazi party associates as a deluded seeker of peace. They put him down as a sick, deranged and muddled idealist ridden with "hallucinations" traceable to world war injuries.

The party declared in a formal statement:

"This will not interfere with the continuation of the war against England [which was] forced upon the German people."

Hess, who had stood in the high leadership behind only Hitler himself and Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, was described as a once brilliant man reduced by poor health to the status of a superstitious nostrum seeker and patronizer of "various aids, mesmerizers, astrologers, and so forth."

Scoff at Hints of Purge.

Any notion that he had fled in fear was ridiculed.

"Intimations abroad that there is to be some shakeup or purge are idiotic," a spokesman declared. "There was no persecution complex involved in Hess' conduct and the Gestapo [secret police] is not on the scent of anything."

Not until late today did the Germans learn from the newspapers and radio that the deputy fuehrer had landed in Scotland from a flight which started last Saturday in Augsburg, Germany, but his "fateful delusion" overshadowed even interest in the war.

Reports that his wife and small son also had left the country were denied. It was said they were wholly free and had the sympathy of all party members. Specifically denied was a report that Mrs. Hess had gone to Ankara, Turkey. It was added that she was at her home in Germany.

Concede Boon to British.

It was conceded that the extraordinary affair would be a great boon to British propaganda, but a spokesman remarked:

"Any use made of him will be completely disregarded by the German people because there is no way of knowing under what circumstances he may be forced to talk."

It was emphasized, too, that if the British had "any idea he is coming with a peace plan they are doomed to disillusion."

A qualified informant thus summed up the official German view:

"The assumption that his curious conduct—which is a deep personal tragedy—was due to mental disorder is the most charitable view to be taken, and that view is to be held in view of the present knowledge."

Changing Frontiers

New frontiers have been established in Jugo-Slavia and Greece by Italy and Germany.

BERLIN, May 13 (AP).—Germany and Croatia, the independent state carved out of vanquished Jugo-Slavia, signed an agreement in Agram [Zagreb] today delineating their new common border.

The boundary, roughly 60 miles long, starts in the east at Varazdin, runs in a westerly direction south of Rohitsch and Windisch-Lanzberg, then along the Sutla, a small stream, to a point where it flows into the river Sava. From the Sava it continues westward along the ridge of the Gorianci mountains to within a few miles of Kalje, where the Italian line of demarcation begins.

[Previously the Italians had announced the incorporation of the Ljubljana area adjoining their northeastern frontier.]

Italians Extend Occupation.

ROME, May 13 (AP).—Italian troops were reported today by the Fascist high command to have extended their occupation of Jugo-Slav and Greek territory east from the Albanian frontier.

The high command's announcement said the Italians now held Jugo-Slav territory as far east as Pec, Prizren, Tetovo, Gostivar, and Kicevo [a slice of Serbia roughly 20 to 30 miles east of the Jugo-Slav-Albanian border.]

In Greece the Italians were said to have taken over Epirus, Acarnania, and Aetolia as far as Mesolongion [Missolonghi] on the Gulf of Patras. [This would be a section 140 miles long and perhaps 50 miles wide extending down the western coast of Greece from Albania.]

CHANGE IN CIVIL SERVICE LAW IS SUBJECT OF ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—Two opposing reports are expected to be made by the civil service investigating committee as a result of a dispute among the six members today over the wording of recommended changes in the classified law.

Representative Ernest A. Greene [R., Chicago], colored, objected to a proposed change which would permit state department heads to choose an employé from among the first three on the eligibility list rather than hiring those at the head of the list. He said this rule might be used to discriminate against members of his race.

The two Democratic members—Senator A. L. Marovitz of Chicago and House Minority Leader William Vicars of Pontiac—voted with him. Favoring it were the other three members—all Republicans—Senators William G. Knox, Evanston, and A. Otis Arnold, Quincy, and Representative R. J. Branson, Centralia, committee chairman.

TORPEDO, BOMB RAID BEATEN OFF BY BRITISH FLEET

Witness Tells of Battles in Mediterranean.

BY LARRY ALLEN.

ABOARD THE BATTLESHIP WARSPITE, flagship of the British Mediterranean fleet, May 13 (AP).—Back in an Egyptian base [Alexandria] after beating off one of the most determined torpedo and bombing attacks of the war and shelling the axis base at Bengazi, Libya, ship crews of the British Mediterranean fleet loaded new ammunition today with a determination to keep the Mediterranean open at all costs.

[The British radio broadcast that Alexandria was bombed yesterday, but no damage or casualties resulted.]

The entire battle fleet, at anchor in the calm harbor waters, presented a peaceful picture in sharp contrast to the fiery show I saw Saturday night [May 10] during a 75-minute battle with German planes somewhere between Libya and the Island of Crete.

The planes, attempting to cripple a large war convoy, swooped six times to the attack between 9:15 and 10:30 p. m., but none got near enough to launch torpedoes successfully.

Hurl Thousands of Shells.

The strong fleet escort saw to that by hurling up thousands of shells of various calibers, from 6 inchers to the little pompoms, under the bright light of the moon.

The Nazis finally gave up the raid after seeing their bombs and torpedoes splash harmlessly into the sea.

They returned after midnight, but a brief blast of gunfire was enough to send them soaring off again.

As the fleet was moving convoys eastward, a half-dozen axis planes attacked last Thursday, [May 8], and lost two Italian and two German planes and a fifth unidentified type.

They tried it again on Friday, and the fleet air arm brought down another, a Junkers dive bomber, while damaging several more.

Shadowed by Planes.

On Saturday, as dusk closed in and the moon began to climb, we became aware that the axis planes were shadowing us again.

Suddenly I saw a formation of at least 12 planes dive out of a cloud toward the silhouettes of these battleships [among them the Barham and Valiant], cruisers, destroyers and merchantmen.

The Nazis got the surprise they had planned for the fleet, for as they headed toward the convoyed ships the night was turned bright as noonday by the instantaneous blast of many naval guns.

Forced out of position and unable to launch their torpedoes, the planes skimmed over the shimmering sea and headed back toward the line of battleships.

This flagship opened with all her 6 inch and smaller guns in a blast so strong that from my vantage point it looked as if she were afire from stern to bow.

Go Higher to Escape.

The Nazis had to go higher to escape the wall of fire, and again withheld their torpedoes. The antiaircraft shells looked like multicolored popcorn balls as they burst.

Finally the planes dropped their torpedoes and bombs in the vicinity of the destroyers and sped back toward Sicily or Libya, having done no damage.

The sea-air fight was a followup to the bombardment of Bengazi Wednesday night [May 7] by a squadron led by the cruiser Ajax.

Nosing into the mine-laden Libyan harbor, the Ajax and four destroyers hurled about 100 tons of explosive shells, pounding the mole and, British observers said, scoring direct hits which set fire to two merchantmen.

Turning back after drawing the fire of shore batteries, the squadron intercepted two heavily laden merchant ships outside.

One heavy blast from the guns exploded a 6,000 ton munitions ship, the British said, and the second and larger ship was ripped by shells which set off a series of smaller explosions and sent its deck load of trucks and tanks twisting high into the air. The vessel caught fire and ran aground, and was reported burning fiercely when the unscathed British squadron departed.

[The Italians acknowledged some casualties and damage was suffered in this raid and reported that German dive bombers hit three British vessels and drove them away in another attack on the Libyan port on Saturday night, May 10.]

5 AXIS COLUMNS PUSH 40 MILES INTO EGYPT; REPULSED BY BRITISH

CAIRO, Egypt, May 13 (AP).—Five axis columns with 200 vehicles, including tanks, have been hurled back to the Sollum sector on the Egyptian border after penetrating 40 miles into Egypt, British general headquarters announced tonight.

The Germans and Italians were met at Sofafi, 40 miles from the Libyan frontier and 20 miles from the coast. Two columns with 40 vehicles each advanced along the coastal route, while the other three approached along the escarpment farther inland.

By evening they were back in the Sollum region from which they had started operations, said the British, who regarded the advance as a scouting "in force" to measure British resistance in the torrid desert.

AGE-OLD POMP SEATS COMMONS IN A NEW HOME

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

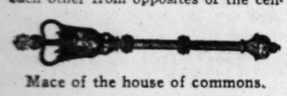
LONDON, May 13.—The house of commons today reassembled in a new home, the parliament building having been damaged in the Germans' heavy bomb raid on Saturday night. Age old ceremony marked the house warming.

E. A. FitzRoy.

Preceded by the mace, which was rescued from the fire in St. Stephen's hall, the speaker, Capt. E. A. FitzRoy, in salvaged robes led the procession to prayers, followed by the train bearer with his traditional sword and messengers with chains and badges preserved intact from the fire swept parliament structure. Entering the chamber, the speaker mounted a chair that is a replica of one that was burned and opened the session.

Like New England Hall.

The new chamber has the appearance of a large New England meeting hall, with rows of benches facing each other from opposites of the center. At the far end, facing the speaker, is the gallery, where visitors are seated.



Mace of the house of commons.

The chamber is better lighted than the old and has many traditional appurtenances. The dispatch boxes from which Gladstone and Disraeli thundered are gone forever and have been replaced by modern counterparts.

Damage Severe, Says Churchill.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house that "the old house of commons has been damaged, I think, beyond repair—at least for a very long time to come. A third building has been prepared for use if the one now occupied should be destroyed."

RECALLED ITALIAN DIPLOMAT PUT ON SHIP AT BERMUDA

ABOARD THE S. S. EXCALIBUR, At Sea, May 13 (AP).—Admiral Alberto Lais, Italian naval attaché recalled from Washington, D. C., at the request of the American government and removed by the British from the Spanish liner Marques de Comillas at Bermuda in April, has been placed aboard this American Export liner bound for Lisbon.

It was reported he had been exchanged for a British diplomat captured in the Balkans by the Italians.

[This apparently was Ronald Ian Campbell, British minister to Jugo-Slavia, for whom a British submarine made a daring but futile sally into the port of Cattaro in April. He was reported on May 4 to be in Italy awaiting repatriation.]

CHURCHILL TELLS OF JOB ASSIGNED TO BEAVERBROOK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—The mystery of Minister of State Lord Beaverbrook's new job was partly cleared up today. Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons the minister of state would have general cabinet duties and special duties as a member of the defense committee of the war cabinet. The defense committee will work in two sections, one dealing with operations and the other with supply. Beaverbrook, Churchill said, would act as deputy chairman of supply and would act as referee on priority questions in which overlapping demands in the past have hampered production.

110 GRAVES MARK STUDENTS' DRIVE AGAINST U. S. WAR

Detroit, Mich., May 13 [Special].—Students at Highland Park Junior college, who last week voted 9 to 1 against United States intervention in the war, set out 110 glistening white grave markers on their campus today and put up a sign reading:

"CLASS OF 1941?"

LONDON MANSION OF BEAVERBROOK SMASHED BY RAID

Many Political Debates Heard in Its Halls.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—Stornoway, Minister of State Lord Beaverbrook's famous London town house, was blown up in a recent air raid, the Londoner's Diary in Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said today. Since the last war when Beaverbrook first took up residence there, Stornoway has become noted as the scene of violent arguments and debates which Beaverbrook encouraged.

Dinner parties were held almost nightly, attended by politicians, newspapermen, aristocrats, labor leaders, and prominent foreign visitors.

Frank Owen, editor of the Evening Standard, commenting on the destruction of Stornoway, said:

"The blitz blowup at Stornoway must have been a small affair compared with the nightly blowups which the house had seen."

Assorted Political Beliefs.

Among the visitors was Aneurin Bevan, Labor member of parliament, who vehemently defended Labor interests amid the wealthiest reactionaries.

David Lloyd George found in Beaverbrook a sympathetic ear when expatiating on the woes of agriculture, but the two men disagreed on what should be done about it.

The Londoner's Diary said that with Stornoway gone, "Hitler has struck one of his shrewdest blows against the freedom of speech since the burning of the reichstag."

British Bomb Mannheim.

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—Whole blocks of buildings in the German industrial cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen were fired by British bombers last night, the air ministry reported today, while on the home front German attacks were termed negligible.

Cologne and Coblenz in Germany and docks of the German occupied ports of St. Nazaire and Dunkirk, France, and Ostend, Belgium, also were bombed.

BRITISH ATLANTIC SHIP LOSS AT LOW MARK IN APRIL

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—British merchant shipping losses in the Atlantic during April were 301,070 tons—the lowest total for 11 months, the admiralty announced today. British, allied, and neutral vessels in British service were included in the figures.

Since the start of the war losses were 1,508 British, allied, and neutral ships totaling 6,127,673 tons for a monthly average of 306,354 tons. The previous month's low total was in January, when the British announced 306,002 tons were lost.

[The Germans announced yesterday that in recent days submarines had sunk 13 ships totaling 76,248 tons from one British convoy.]

Two Supply Ships Sunk.

New York, May 13 (AP).—Two Norwegian ships ferrying American supplies to England have been sunk in the North Atlantic, marine circles said today. They were the 4,811 ton Augvald and the 1,608 ton Profit. No details were available. The ships had recently loaded supplies at New York, Baltimore, and Hampton Roads.

RAIL EMPLOYE DIES ON TRAIN

Freeport, Ill., May 13 [Special].—Frank Hanna, 50 years old, of Oelwein, Ia., a freight conductor on the Chicago Great Western railroad, died of a heart attack while his train was running between South Freeport and Stockton. After an inquest at Stockton the body was taken to Oelwein.

GERMAN BOMB KILLS THE EARL OF SUFFOLK, A GRANDSON OF LEITER

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—The earl of Suffolk and Berkshire, grandson of Levi Leiter, late Chicago merchant, was killed Monday night by a bomb, it was announced today. His secretary died with him.

The 35 year old earl, born Charles Henry George Howard, had seen a lot of high adventure around the world. At 17 he was an apprentice on a windjammer during a round-the-world cruise. He worked as a ranch hand in Australia, and once was a second lieutenant of the Scots Guards.

In 1934 he married Mimi Crawford, a dancer and a daughter of the Alhambra theater's stage manager. Since then he spent much of his time tending his 10,000 acres in Wiltshire. His wife's real name was Mimi Forde Pigott. She is a niece of Lord Chalmers, one time governor general of Ceylon. She danced many times before the king and queen, starting her stage career in "Pinkie and the Fairies."

They have two sons and one daughter. The earl was the 20th holder of the title.

RESINOL

COAL!

Will there be enough

FOR YOU?

THE MOST IMPORTANT MATERIAL in our National Defense Program—is Coal!

To produce the planes, tanks, guns and munitions needed for defense, a continuous supply of coal is absolutely necessary. Important in maintaining this continuous supply is the storing of an adequate coal reserve by all consumers—home and industrial alike!

Coal consumption from May 1 to October 1, even before the peak of cold weather and national defense industry demands begin, will be . . . . . 206,500,000 tons

Under ordinary circumstances, an adequate reserve would have been built up at the mines, at retail coal dealers and at industrial plants. In fact, on April 1, 1941, these reserve stores totaled . . . . . 50,650,000 tons

But the recent strike reduced stocks by May 1, 1941, to . . . . . 13,500,000 tons

For safety, this storage in homes, at retail dealers and in industrial plants by Oct. 1, 1941, should total at least . . . . 50,000,000 tons

This means that by Oct. 1, 1941, there must be added to present stocks . . . . 36,500,000 tons

The problem, therefore, is to produce, transport and deliver by Oct. 1, 1941, the coal necessary to build up present reserves to 50,000,000 tons, plus the 206,500,000 tons which will be consumed by Oct. 1, a grand total of . . . . . 243,000,000 tons

This is an average of more than 11,500,000 tons of coal each week!

During the period from Jan. 1 to April 1, 1941, the average weekly production totaled only 10,400,000 tons—about 1,100,000 tons per week less than is necessary to provide a minimum margin of safety for ensuring the necessary coal reserve for industrial and home use.

Because of the general acceptance of our domestic coals for storing by retailers and householders, mines in our district must of necessity furnish a very high percentage of this type of coal.

The softer structure, higher sulphur coals are not generally acceptable for storing purposes. Therefore, mines producing such coals rarely operate at anything near capacity during the summer months.

From May to September, 1940, inclusive, the country's entire coal production was only 8,300,000 tons per week.

This year, in order to provide enough coal for only reasonable storage and meet actual consumers' demands, the coal industry should ship —and consumers accept—3,200,000 tons more each week from May through September.

This is probably the limit of the capacity of the mines and the railroads.

There are other factors which will tend to delay the building up of adequate coal reserves for the coming fall and winter months when cold weather will add its burden of increased consumption of domestic coals. These factors are: the use of coal cars by other national defense industries; the congestion of cars at the seaboard and lake ports; the loss of employees at the mines because of the draft and the increased need for skilled labor by other defense industries.

As defense production, now only 50% under way, reaches its peak, the supply of coal will not satisfy the demand and the situation will indeed be serious for those who have not anticipated their needs.

● In your own interest, as well as in the interest of National Defense, it is imperative that as much coal as possible be speedily placed in storage in homes and in industrial plants—while operating and transportation conditions are most favorable.

In plain words, if all who will need coal this winter begin to store theirs now, as quickly as it is mined and shipped, there will be coal for all. If everyone waits until September and October to order coal, there will be such a piling up of orders that shipments and deliveries cannot be made to all. This should not be allowed to happen. It will not happen if you get your coal now!

DARLAN PLACES HITLER'S TERMS BEFORE PETAIN

French Cabinet to Act on Proposals Today.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 13.—Admiral Jean Darlan, vice premier, tonight submitted to Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state, Adolf Hitler's proposals for Franco-German collaboration. The cabinet will meet at 11 a. m. tomorrow to consider the program which Darlan received from the Fuehrer at Berchtesgaden, Germany, on Sunday.

William D. Leahy.

The vice premier saw Petain after the chief of state and Admiral William D. Leahy, the American ambassador, had spent 50 minutes discussing France's position in Europe and the extent to which France may engage in coöperation with Germany.

Darlan seemed to be in a happy mood as he arrived on a special train from his five day mission. He and Petain talked until a late hour.

Details Remain Secret.

It is believed no details of Darlan's negotiations will be revealed until tomorrow.

There are rumors that the Germans are offering the French a greater reduction in occupation costs and are willing to push unoccupied France's boundary farther north in return for bases in Africa, but the reports seem unworthy of credence.

Anxiety on the part of the Washington, D. C., government over French intentions appeared to be indicated by Ambassador Leahy's visit to Petain. Both French authorities and the American embassy kept secret the details of the meeting.

The Franco-German negotiations are not without embarrassment to Washington, for in a sense Leahy's mission here is to woo the French toward another conception of world affairs.

Border Pact in Effect Soon.

A recent Franco-German agreement covering the exchange of money and merchandise between the occupied and unoccupied zones will go into effect before June 1, it was announced.

Admiral Darlan has taken charge of French refugee and concentration camps after "inadequate results" from efforts to better their condition under the national police.

CONGRESS ASKED FOR CENSORSHIP OF NAVY PHOTOS

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—The navy asked congress today for statutory authority to clamp down a rigid censorship on photographs of navy yards, ships, airplanes, and equipment being manufactured for naval units.

Commander James H. Foskett of the intelligence department urged the senate naval committee to approve a bill providing severe penalties for any person who took any such photograph without prior permission by the secretary of the navy.

Senator Peter S. Gerry [D., R. I.] protested that the bill was proposed as a permanent statute, rather than an emergency measure, and Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] called it "a shotgun act." The committee delayed action until it could be studied by a subcommittee headed by Gerry.

Home Is Issue

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Florence Siegel in court with daughter, Arlene, age 4.

Judge George Fred Rush yesterday gave Hyman Siegel, 26 years old, until June 24 to provide a home for his wife, Florence, 24, 3743 West 15th street, and their two children, Arlene, 4 years old, and Eugene, 2. If he does not, the court will hear his bill for divorce, charging desertion, and Mrs. Siegel's cross-bill charging the same thing. Her attorney, Irving Eisenman, told Judge Rush the couple had been apart more than two years, but that they could be reconciled if Siegel would maintain a home apart from his parents.

JOHN ROOSEVELT SOON TO BECOME A NAVAL OFFICER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today told her press conference that her youngest son, John, 25 years old, soon will join the navy as an officer because he has decided that a world with Hitler victorious "is not the kind of world he would like to live in." Mrs. Roosevelt added that "Johnny has always felt rather strongly about killing."

The three older Roosevelt sons are in service. James, a captain in the marine corps, is junketing in the Mediterranean war zone as an official observer with the British forces. Elliott was appointed a captain in the army. Franklin Jr. is an ensign in the navy.

John's eyes would prevent his being accepted by a draft board, Mrs. Roosevelt said. Because of his experience in buying and selling [he was a Boston department store executive until he resigned effective May 10] he found he could serve in the navy service of supply. So he took a correspondence course in supply, studying at night. He plans to enter the navy supply school to be opened at Harvard in about a month. When he successfully completes the course he will then be commissioned an ensign in the navy, Mrs. Roosevelt disclosed.

Costa Rica to Refloat 2 Scuttled Axis Vessels

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, May 13.—President Calderon Guardia today authorized the minister of finance to contract for refloating the 4,000 ton German ship Eisenach and the 6,000 ton Italian ship Fella, both sunk recently in Port Punta Arenas after being fired by their crews. It is reported that the government plans to sell the ships and use the funds obtained for maintenance of the crews now imprisoned here.

HORSE MEAT NOW A POPULAR FOOD, BRITAIN ADMITS

It Is Mixed with Beef in Various Articles.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—Horse meat is being mixed with beef in various "articles of popular consumption," Ernest Brown, minister of health, admitted in parliament today.

He did not specify the goods in which horse flesh is included. Any shopkeeper selling any of the products in which it is used, however, must post a notice advising his customers of the fact.

1.6c Worth of Meat in a Meal.

The food ministry announced that restaurants and other catering places will be permitted to serve meat to the value of only 1 penny [1.6 cents] with each meal beginning June 2.

Renewed demands were voiced in the press for immediate action by the food ministry to erase inequalities in food distribution among various districts of the country.

Wide Disparity Revealed.

Investigations in industrial areas in northeast England, Yorkshire, and the Midlands have showed a wide disparity in the supplies of available foods and a serious shortage of unrationed foodstuffs.

Apart from reorganizing the distribution of food, the ministry is being urged to ration many more classes of goods to remove food lines at shops, revise allocation of quota supplies on a basis of altered populations resulting from evacuations, and provide bigger rations of staple commodities for workers in heavy industries.

VON PAPEN TELLS ANKARA 'I COME AS DOVE OF PEACE'

ANKARA, Turkey, May 12 [Delayed] (AP).—German Ambassador Franz von Papen arrived in Ankara from Germany by plane tonight and was greeted at the airport by diplomatic representatives of the axis.

Besides German, Italian, Japanese, Hungarian, and Bulgarian representatives, a Spanish diplomat also was on hand.

"I come as a dove of peace, bearing an olive branch," declared Von Papen in jovial mood. "I assure you, you can all spend the summer pleasantly at the beaches."

MAYOR HAGUE IS RE-ELECTED FOR 8TH TIME

Jersey City, N. J., May 13 (AP).—Mayor Frank Hague, who said he sought to save Jersey City for democracy, was swept back into office for his eighth four-year term as a city commissioner today.

The mayor, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and the party's state leader, rolled up 100,703 votes in the city's 311 election districts to the 13,425 for David Nimmo, leader of the fusion opposition.

Maverick in Runoff.

San Antonio, Tex., May 13 (AP).—Mayor Maury Maverick, former New Deal congressman, will face his predecessor, former Mayor C. K. Quin in a runoff election May 27. Maverick was trailing Quin by about 300 votes out of nearly 24,000 at midnight.

Miami Mayor Defeated.

Miami, Fla., May 13 (AP).—A former mayor, C. H. Reeder, led a six man field in today's runoff election for the Miami city commission in which Mayor Alexander Orr Jr. was swept out of office. Only R. C. Gardner, who won a four year term, was returned to the city commission. I. D. MacVicar was elected to the third post for a two year term.

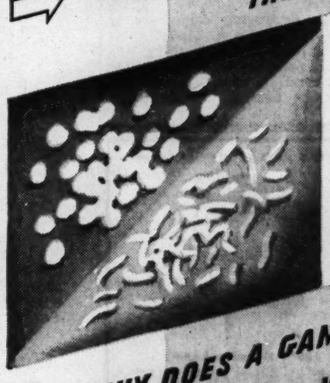
WHO IS CALLED THE MILLION DOLLAR BANDIT?

Mrs. Moth. Government statistics rate this hateful female as No. 1 household marauder. She destroys millions of dollars worth of furs and wool each year. Yet it could be easily avoided.

WHAT CAME FIRST, THE LARVA OR THE EGG?



Not that it matters much if they summer in your furs. The eggs need quiet and warmth for hatching. The larvae appear and then—look out! The whole moth family is feasting on your furs!

WHY DOES A GAMBLER WEAR A FUR COAT?

To keep her warm. Hundreds of women gamble on their furs' drying out or cracking—take chances on moths, fire, theft—store their furs without investigating how they're stored, what care they're given.

WHAT 2 ELEMENTS ARE NECESSARY TO SAFE STORAGE?

A SURE method of demothing. The lethal gas called Guardite destroys every vestige of moth life. COLD AIR, kept circulating at controlled temperature, keeps skins from drying, cracking.

WHEELER WARNS WAR ENTRY WILL END DEMOCRACY

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., May 13.—"Just as surely as you enter the war abroad on the false argument of saving democracy in Europe, you surely will destroy democracy at home!"

This warning was delivered here tonight before a capacity audience by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, the Montana Democrat who in recent weeks has stumped the country from end to end in a fight against American entry into the European conflict.

Detained in Washington by pressing senatorial business, Wheeler did not arrive in Trenton until after 10 o'clock, but more than 1,000 persons who packed a local YMCA auditorium remained patiently in their seats. Many parents held sleeping children in their laps.

The rally was staged by the state council of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, a patriotic fraternal order of native Americans founded 88 years ago in a Pennsylvania schoolhouse.

Denounces Halifax's Tour.

Wheeler said he resents any foreigner coming to these shores and trying to propagandize this country into leaping into any war abroad, whether he be a Russian, German, Italian, or Englishman. He criticized Lord Halifax, British ambassador, for making a trip thru the middle west in an attempt to change public sentiment.

"Suppose we were at war with Japan and our ambassador to the court of St. James's went up and down England, Wales, and Scotland telling the citizens what to do," said Wheeler. "Why, they would throw him out.

"We have voted to give Britain 7 billion dollars. Do you think, if we were in a war, any country in the world would give us 7 cents?"

"No," yelled the crowd.

"Well, a lot of people want to kill Hitler," observed the senator. "I've no objection. I don't object to aiding England, but I don't want this country to get into that war abroad because it will destroy democracy in the United States of America."

Assails War Pleaders.

"Col. Frank Knox and Walter Winchell say we're committed. They say its too bad—that we've given Britain 7 billion dollars and they can't come over here to get it, so we should take it to them. And since when did the people authorize Secretary Knox to speak for them? He tried to get them to in 1936 and failed."

Senator Wheeler said the pressure on President Roosevelt to enter the war is tremendous and extends "even to the Supreme court."

"Frankfurter! Frankfurter!" shouted several voices.

"Yes," said the senator, "but the constitution says only congress can declare war. Those people are urging the President on to war—they want to go over there and fight for democracy. They are asking the President to disregard the wishes of more than 90 per cent of the people, violate the constitution, and break the promises he made in order to get elected.

"That's destroying democracy at home. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is preaching the identical thing the President preached when he wanted a third term. I challenge any one within my hearing to contradict that!"

'FULL AND OPEN' WAR IS URGED BY BISHOP MANNING

New York, May 13 (AP).—The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, Protestant Episcopal bishop of New York, today advocated this nation's "full and open part" in the European war "while Great Britain still stands."

Addressing 700 delegates to the 158th annual convention of the New York diocese, the bishop said the United States already was in the war and that it now was the nation's duty to "give our whole strength and power to bring this world calamity and world terror to an end."

He added that material aid to Britain must not be a case of "too little and too late." He urged delivery of shipments "by whatever means may be necessary, and at whatever risk may be involved."

HALIFAX RETURNS TONIGHT; WILL MEET MENZIES

Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, will return here from Kansas City, Mo., tonight for his third Chicago visit during his tour of the middle west. Until he leaves by plane for Washington tomorrow afternoon he will occupy the "royal skyway" suite on the 23d floor of the Hotel Stevens.

Lord Halifax will confer tomorrow with Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia, as paths of the touring empire representatives cross here. The prime minister is on his way back to Australia after visits to England, Ireland, Canada, and several cities of the United States.

passed on the other cabinet speeches before delivery or gave them his approval afterwards.

Mr. Roosevelt was scheduled to take up the administration war drive in a speech at the Pan-American union tomorrow. The speech was canceled, according to the White House, because of the President's illness. It was reported, however, that the President is recovering rapidly from the intestinal disorder which developed a week ago.

During the day Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet who is in charge of the navy's patrol off the Atlantic coast. The White House would not discuss the conference.

Wickard Cites Shipping Peril.

"At the recent rate of destruction of British shipping, losses in the next year would amount to five million tons," he said. "The United States will be able to build in the next year about 1,500,000 tons of shipping to turn over to Britain. Britain is expected to be able to build only one million tons next year.

"It now becomes obvious that if the United States is to prevent the fall of the last military stronghold between this country and Hitler, it will be necessary for this country not only to produce the food and machines, but to see that they get there—get there safely and get there in time.

"If the United States acts quickly enough and efficiently enough, the striking force of this country and of the British empire can check Hitler.

"If we are too late, the striking force of the rest of the world, under Hitler domination, is likely to converge on us."

MENZIES WARNS HALF MEASURES WILL LOSE WAR

New York, May 13 [Special].—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia, in a nation-wide radio address from here tonight, said that altho he was not asking the United States "to pull our chestnuts out of the fire" he feels certain that half measures on the part of this country will lose the war for Britain.

"It may be that there still are many of you who believe that some decent fraction of your effort will suffice," he said. "I beg of you to understand that it will not. Whether you are neutral or belligerent—and that is for you and nobody else to decide—our cause, which is your cause, cannot be made victorious by half measures."

The Australian prime minister arrived here today from Washington, D. C., after conferences with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He will leave tomorrow night for Chicago.

NAVY CLAMPS LID ON NEWS ABOUT OFFICER CHANGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—The navy department tonight suspended the daily publication of orders announcing the transfer of officers in the navy and marine corps in the interests of "security of the navy and marine corps."

The department termed the move another step in the program under which information concerning ship movements and many other naval activities previously had been restricted. From time to time and in certain specific cases, the department announcement said, information on changes in duties of some officers will be published.

Infectious Dandruff 76% IMPROVED in clinical test

Such a delightful, easy, stimulating treatment! Just douse Listerine Antiseptic on the scalp, morning and night, and follow with vigorous and persistent massage.

Listerine, the same germicide which has been famous for more than 50 years as an antiseptic gargle, kills millions of germs on scalp and hair, including Pityrosporum Ovale recognized by outstanding specialists as a causative agent of infectious-type dandruff.

7 out of every 10!

This germ-killing action, we believe, helps to explain why, in a clinical test, 76% of dandruff sufferers—7 out of every 10!—showed either complete disappearance of or marked improvement in the symptoms of dandruff within a month.

MILITIA TO DON NEW UNIFORMS MEMORIAL DAY

2,500 to Join in City's 73d Annual Parade.

Twenty-five hundred Chicago men who form the 1st brigade of the Illinois reserve militia will make their public bow in new horizon blue uniforms May 30 in the city's 73d annual Memorial day parade, Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, militia commander, announced yesterday.

The brigade will march as an escort for thousands of members of the American Legion and other world war veterans' organizations in the parade. The brigade is composed of the 1st and 2d infantry regiments and the 8th battalion of colored troops, all of Chicago.

The uniforms, which are being purchased for both men and officers at state expense, are expected to be delivered by the end of next week. Each man will receive a coat, a shirt, and trousers of horizon blue, and an overseas cap trimmed in dark blue. Officers will wear Sam Browne belts and caps trimmed with yellow.

Militia to Carry Rifles.

The militiamen have been equipped with Enfield rifles, which they will carry in the parade. Gen. Clinnin said the army has turned 6,000 rifles, bayonets, and steel helmets over to the militia.

Other militia regiments will take part in Memorial day parades and observances thruout the state. There are 4,413 enlisted men and 410 officers in the militia, which was created to serve as a home guard in place of the Illinois National Guard. Gen. Clinnin estimated that by the end of this month the militia will be recruited up to an authorized strength of 5,445 men and 515 officers.

Officials of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association of Cook county, who have charge of the Memorial day parade, estimated that between 25,000 and 40,000 persons will march in this year's parade.

Parade to Last 3 Hours.

As in the past, the parade will form at Chicago and Michigan avenues and march south in Michigan avenue to Roosevelt road, where it will disband. It was estimated it will take three hours for all units to pass the reviewing stand at Congress street.

The first unit will be a company of 200 uniformed Chicago policemen, who will be an honor guard for Capt. Thomas Ambrose, 92 years old, grand marshal of the parade.

A cadet corps and band from the Northwestern Military and Naval academy, Lake Geneva, Wis., will follow in the line of march. Then will come the band of the Board of Trade American Legion post and a mounted unit from the Morgan Park Military academy, acting as an honor escort for Gov. Dwight H. Green, chief reviewing officer.

Corps to Escort G. A. R. Vets.

In the next division will be cars carrying a score of civil war veterans. They will be escorted by the fife and drum corps of the Continental Illinois National Bank American Legion post.

In order after the civil war veterans will come the members of the United Spanish War Veterans' association, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the militia, the American Legion, ROTC bands and drill teams from several Chicago high schools, Chicago Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts, and a uniformed company from the Chicago fire department.

DR. HUTCHINSON CITES DIFFERENCE IN WAR STATUS

Dr. Paul Hutchinson, managing editor of the Christian Century, said last night that the 1917-'18 wartime experience of the United States furnished no parallel for 1941. He addressed a meeting of the North Shore chapter of the America First Committee in Evanston.

"The United States had 26 allied countries in control of ports everywhere in the world in 1917 and 1918," he said. "Even so, only a part of the necessary supplies could be transported abroad, and our forces sent abroad were largely equipped by the French and the British. There is no way now to send American soldiers abroad with a hope of success."

Dr. Hutchinson recalled that in 1809 Senator Pickering of South Carolina was crying that Napoleon Bonaparte was about to invade the United States and that John Adams referred to such fears as empty phantoms. Dr. Hutchinson added there was no danger of invasion now.

GEN. WOOD SEES PLOT TO MUZZLE ANTI-WAR TALKS

Warns Against Threat to Free Radio.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting chairman of the America First committee, warned yesterday that declaration of a national emergency by President Roosevelt would end freedom of speech in this country. He said that such a declaration would enable the President to cut off public debate and give him as complete control over radio as Hitler wields in Germany.

"The prowar forces are trying to cut off public debate of the great questions of peace or war for America," Gen. Wood said. "They are doing this with the same slyness and dishonesty with which they have done everything. They ask the President to declare a national emergency.

Means Control of Debate.

"Few people understand what this means. It means that as soon as an emergency is declared the President, under the communications act, can take control of the radio. He can prescribe the rules under which citizens may speak, or he can shut off radio debate completely. Under this law he would have as complete control over radio as Hitler has."

Gen. Wood said that the interventionists know their effort to involve us in a shooting war is lost unless they can persuade the President to end public debate. He added that on Monday, at St. Louis, Ed Kirby, director of the radio division of the army, advocated radio control so that "the right time is not given to the wrong person or group."

"This is highly significant," Gen. Wood said. "Under such control, it is not likely that Secretary of War Henry Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], or the Fight for Freedom committee will be considered the 'wrong person or group.'

Fears Muzzle for Opposition.

"But how about Senators Burton K. Wheeler, Robert Taft, Bennett Clark, or David Walsh? Or Col. Charles Lindbergh, or former President Hoover, or any of the groups such as America First, which are counteracting the tremendous pressure of the armchair patriots on President Roosevelt to break his solemn pledge to the American people?

"Are we to fight abroad for 'freedom of speech and expression' and deny it to Americans? Now is the time to demand a free radio. It may be the last chance you will have."

JURY URGES SLAYER'S ARREST.

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Nicola Perri, formerly of 836 South Wabash avenue, be arrested and charged with the murder of Carmelo Rinaldi, who was shot to death in his grocery at 763 South State street on April 25. Perri has been missing since the killing.

WOMEN REFUSED PEACE HEARING AT WHITE HOUSE

400 in Anti-War Group to Take Plea to Capital.

New York, May 13 [Special].—More than 400 women will entrain for Washington tomorrow to protest prowar moves despite the refusal of President Roosevelt to grant their request for an interview at which they intended to voice their protests against steps to involve the United States in the European war.

The President's refusal to grant the request for an interview was announced today by Mrs. Hall Herrick of Boston, president of Women United which is sponsoring the pilgrimage.

Prominent Women Members.

Women United is composed of prominent American women who are opposed to American intervention in the conflict and to the use of convoys because "convoys mean war."

Mrs. Herrick stated that the organization had received a telegram from Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, the President's secretary, explaining his regrets and stating that all groups are being asked to excuse the President because of the "unusually heavy demar[illegible]

Senators' Wives to Aid.

Wh[illegible]ives in Washington the women will proceed to the caucus room of the old house building. There they are to be welcomed by Mrs. Robert A. Taft, Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, and Mrs. Bennett C. Clark, whose husbands have been leading the senate fight against interventionist measures.

Following this meeting the women will form groups of five, and each of these groups will call on senators and representatives in the capital and stress that while they favor "total defense" of the United States they are adamantly opposed to measures that may embroil America in a disastrous war.

No White House Plans Made.

Washington, D. C., May 13 [Special].—White House officials tonight said no plans have been made to meet the anti-war delegation of Women United coming to the capital tomorrow.

False Teeth Wearers Often Worst Breath Offenders!

"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities... Recommend Poligident

A thin dark film collects on plates and bridges. This film soaks up odors and impurities like a sponge! It holds germs and decay bacteria, and it is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. It gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, a powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter—and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and dentists everywhere.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse—and it's ready to use!

AMERICA'S FALSE IDEALS PERIL US, HUTCHINS WARNS

Need Faith Worth Fighting For, He Asserts.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

America is like a nation made up of confused, divided, ineffective Hitlers, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, said last night in a symposium at Loyola university in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the founding of the Catholic Jesuit order.

He asserted that American education is no longer justified by its contribution to moral, intellectual, artistic, or spiritual growth, but by its ability to make the graduate more wealthy or prominent. Such a doctrine, President Hutchins asserted, makes success the test of righteousness and force the only way of settling differences of opinion.

Indorsed by Jesuit Leader.

President Hutchins' sentiments were indorsed at the symposium by the Rev. William J. McGucken of St. Louis, director general of studies of the Missouri [central western] province of the order.

"Men in high places," Father McGucken asserted, "choose to call those who disagree with them Nazis or Fascists and even Vallandighams. It is not thus that democracy can be defended. Clear thinking and consistent acting must be substituted for emotionalized hysteria."

This emotionalizing of democracy that Father McGucken mentioned was analyzed by Dr. Hutchins in his address. The University of Chicago president found a colossal confusion of means and ends existing today.

Fears Spiritual Disaster.

"In a law school," said Dr. Hutchins, "I learned that law was not concerned with reason or justice. Law was what the courts would do. Law, says Hitler, is what I do. There is little to choose between the doctrine I learned in an American law school and that which Hitler proclaimed.

"Precisely here lies our unpreparedness against the only enemy we may have to face. Such principles as we have are not different enough from Hitler's to make us very rugged in defending ours in preference to his. Moreover, we are not united and clear about such principles. We are losing our moral principles. But the vestiges of them remain to bother us. Hence we are like confused, divided, ineffective Hitlers. In a contest between Hitler and people who are wondering why they should not be Hitlers, the finished product is bound to win."

Dr. Hutchins scoffed at the practice of saying Americans are democratic or humanitarianism. Humanitarianism, he explained, is a belief in the dignity of man and the moral and spiritual values that follow.

Calls Convictions Basic.

"Democracy as a fighting faith can only be as strong as the convictions which support it. If these are gone, democracy becomes simply one of many ways of organizing society, and must be tested by efficiency. To date, democracy looks less efficient than dictatorship."

Father McGucken's address amplified Dr. Hutchins' assertions. He said that the French philosopher, Jean Jacques Rousseau, whose "religion is a dreadful caricature of Christianity," had done more to shape the way of thinking of America than any other.

"His [Rousseau's] democracy banishes God, and without God and Christianity there can be no democracy," Father McGucken asserted.

Attend Catholic Industrial Conference

STRITCH URGES RELIGIOUS LIGHT IN ECONOMICS

1,000 Catholics Wind Up Industrial Parley.

The light of religious doctrine must fall on economic relationships to allow workers to live in harmony and to insure the use of private property for beneficial purposes, Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch told the regional meeting of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems last night. More than a thousand persons attended the banquet which closed the three day session in the Stevens hotel.

"Popes Leo XIII. and Pius XI. claimed the right to talk on economic questions in their encyclicals," Archbishop Stritch said. "The church's mission is to sanctify and to save souls, but these popes realized, too, that it has the task of seeing that men's behavior is formed by right economic principles.

Says Church Must Play Part.

"Without religion there can be no lasting benefits from economic practice. The church must help to build a finer social order than ever before existed."

A speaker earlier in the day was Brig. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division of the United States department of labor. He said wage and hour legislation is an important instrument of industrial efficiency in the rearmament program.

"No nation can mobilize its industry to maximum output," Gen. Fleming said, "if it permits its employers to pay whatever wages and to work labor whatever hours they choose. For the most perishable and most precious asset of a nation is the ability of its workers to produce.

"Today men at the battlefront are going into action and meeting death because they lack the mechanized armament essential to victory. True, they are not our men. But they are the men to whom we have given the promise of arms and machines. In that promise are bound up the honor, the safety and the free institutions of the United States."

Warns Against Long Hours.

Warning against excessive hours for workmen in factories that produce sensitive military equipment, Gen. Fleming said: "Long hours in such plants are not merely economically unsound, they come close to criminal folly."

Martin P. Durkin, director of the Illinois state department of labor, was unable to attend the conference. His prepared address was read by one of his aids, John McBride.

"For labor to achieve its just place in the social scheme," Durkin wrote, "workingmen must organize into unions. This is labor's responsibility as outlined in recent papal encyclicals."

FARMERS IN ILLINOIS PAY FOR ARMS BOOM IN SHORTAGE OF LABOR

Wages of Illinois farm workers have reached a 10 year peak and are rising steadily as a result of a shortage of labor. The military draft and the higher wages offered by industry are draining the countryside of farm help.

A. J. Surratt.

A. J. Surratt, senior statistician for the department of agriculture in Springfield, reported yesterday that the wage level for farm workers was nearing the level of the first world war and the boom years of 1927-'29. The supply of such labor is only 77 per cent of normal, he said, compared with 93 per cent a year ago.

Surratt predicted that the shortage of labor would become acute, especially in areas where defense industries were calling for young men who generally provide the quality farm labor demanded by dairy and other specialized types of farms.

The average pay of Illinois farm laborers on April 1, Surratt said, was $37.50 a month in addition to room and board. This is a $5 increase over the same date a year ago.

Chicago Tribune total net paid daily circulation in April exceeded 1,000,000 . . . a gain of more than 11,000 over April, 1940, and more than 201,000 over April, 1938.

SINCE April, 1938, the Chicago Tribune has had an increase of more than 201,000 in net paid daily circulation.

This increase is greater than the present total circulation of any daily newspaper in all but 16 of America's largest cities. It is a gain greater than the combined gains of all other Chicago daily newspapers.

Translate this growth into terms of increased power for your advertising. Picture the extra buying power for your product represented by 201,000 additional circulation. And keep in mind, also, that increasing circulation means decreasing milline cost.

Every day of the week the Tribune now has more than 800,000 circulation right in metropolitan Chicago.* On weekdays this is 450,000 more copies than are sold in Chicago and suburbs by other Chicago daily newspapers. On Sundays it is from 385,000 to 460,000 more than other Chicago Sunday newspapers sell. The Tribune is the one Chicago newspaper which has the equivalent of majority coverage of all the families in metropolitan Chicago.

In a period of increasing demand for news, the newspaper which gives readers the most for their money attracts the most new readers. Because it gives readers more for their money, the Tribune is able to give advertisers more for theirs.

When you advertise in the Tribune, you make the most effective use of your advertising funds today . . . and you advertise in a medium whose vigorous, healthy growth steadily widens the market for your product.

To get the most for your money today . . . and to build solidly for the future . . . build your Chicago advertising program around the Tribune.

ROSIER SEATED IN WEST VIRGINIA SENATE TANGLE

Vote Is 40 to 38 After 4 Days of Wrangling.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—West Virginia's senatorship contest, described by Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky as unseemly if not indecent, was terminated late today when the senate seated Joseph Rosier, a 100 per cent New Dealer.

Senator Rosier.

By a vote of 40 to 38, the senate refused to substitute a minority report of its committee on privileges and elections recommending the seating of Clarence E. Martin. It then seated Rosier by a voice vote.

Martin and Rosier, both Democrats, were appointed to the vacancy created when Senator Matthew M. Neely, a New Deal yes-man, resigned on Jan. 12 to become governor.

Loser Is Former Bar Leader.

Martin, a former president of the American Bar association, was appointed by Homer A. Holt, the outgoing governor. Rosier, who is president of the State Teachers' college, was appointed by Neely, the incoming governor.

Rosier will draw pay from the day of his appointment four months ago, approximately $3,333, during which time he remained in West Virginia.

Altho four days of senate debate was devoted chiefly to the facts, the law and the precedents, there were occasional references to the wire pulling and lobbying behind the scenes and to the considerations of personalities and politics which controled the voting.

New Dealers Back Rosier.

The Roosevelt administration exerted all its tremendous influence for Neely's appointee, Rosier, who is understood to be willing to step aside two years hence and permit Neely to return to the senate, after Neely has had an opportunity as governor to break up the old Democratic state house machine. Republicans and conservative Democrats supported Martin.

Barkley was constrained, as the administration leader, to support a man who once splashed him copiously with mud in senate debate. Neely, who sponsored a bill to outlaw "block-booking" of motion picture films, intimated that Barkley was blocking the bill for pecuniary reasons.

Yet today, Barkley pleaded dutifully for the seating of Neely's man. If the struggle for the senatorship was an "unseemly and indecent" scramble in Charleston, W. Va., he said, the outgoing governor was responsible for it.

U. S. BUND CHIEF FREED BY POLICE OF SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., May 13 [Special].—Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze of New York, national fuehrer of the German-American Bund, resumed a tour of the nation today after spending four hours in police custody here following a Bund rally last night.

Kunze and four persons with him were arrested as they left the scene of a meeting near the Bendix Aviation company plant, which holds more than a million dollars in rearmament contracts. In their cars were found boxes of medals bearing the Nazi swastika.

The five were seized ostensibly to check their out of state automobile licenses. They were released after they had been photographed and fingerprinted. Kunze is under a prison sentence in New Jersey for promoting hatred against Jews.

SEIZED 2D TIME BY LYNCH GANG; SHOT TO DEATH

Alleged Rapist Is Slain on Way to Hospital.

Quincy, Fla., May 13 (AP).—A. C. Williams, 22 year old Negro charged with assaulting a 12 year old white girl, was found shot to death today several hours after a band of men seized him in a second lynching attempt when the first had failed.

Arrow locates Quincy, Fla.

"We found him on his back, where he apparently had been dropped by bullets fired into his body," Sheriff M. P. Luten said. No arrests have been made in the case, and Sheriff Luten said "we have virtually no clews to work on."

The slain man's body was found on a bridge over a creek five miles north of here.

First Seized at Jail.

The first lynching attempt came in the evening when four white men armed with pistols locked officer Dan Davis in a cell at the Gadsden County jail and took Williams with them.

Williams was found shortly after midnight at a Negro residence near here, Sheriff Luten said, "with eight or ten bullet wounds in his body" and badly beaten about the head.

Luten said "undoubtedly an attempt was made to lynch him" and his attackers left him for dead. A physician here said Williams had a fairly good chance to recover, so the prisoner was put in an ambulance to be taken to a hospital at Tallahassee, about 25 miles west of Quincy.

Luten said he assumed the Negro's attackers believed him dead and, therefore, he anticipated no further trouble and sent the ambulance out without a special guard.

Pulled Out of Ambulance.

About five miles from Quincy, Luten said, the vehicle was forced to a halt by "four or five men" and the wounded man was pulled out and taken away.

Will Webb, Negro operator of the ambulance, said: "One of them said they wanted the man I had in the ambulance, and they didn't want any trouble. I told them they wouldn't get any trouble out of me, because I didn't even have a pocket knife."

Webb said the men did not harm him or his assistants and he did not recognize any of them.

Williams was unable to give any clews to the identity of his first attackers, Sheriff Luten said, and Officer Davis also was unable to say who they were.

2 DEMOCRATS FIND THEY ERRED ON F. D. R.'S PET BILL

Committee to Guess Again on Gold Powers.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—Citizens interested in the workings of the legislative mind and the manner in which important laws are sometimes presented to congress are invited to peruse the following account of the activities today of the house committee on coinage, weights, and measures.

The committee has had under consideration for days a bill continuing for another two years the monetary powers of President Roosevelt due to expire June 30.

Since 1934, the President, thru the treasury, has been using a two billion dollar stabilization fund, created by a 40 per cent debasement of the dollar, to manipulate the dollar in foreign exchange transactions and to purchase silver and gold, the latter at $35 an ounce, some $15 an ounce in excess of the former gold value.

Throwing a Monkeywrench.

Extension of the President's authority was ardently desired by the administration. Presumably the democratic majority in control of the committee was aware of this and of the import of the measure.

But just before the final vote, a whimsical Republican, Representative August H. Andresen of Minnesota, offered an amendment barring the purchase of foreign gold at a price of more than $35 an ounce. The amendment was approved, 9 to 7, with two Democrats voting in the affirmative. The committee then placidly reported the bill to the house.

"For all practical purposes," remarked Andresen to reporters, suppressing a grin with difficulty, "the amendment nullifies the President's powers of devaluation." He noted that Mr. Roosevelt could further cheapen the dollar under present law by raising the price to $41 an ounce. The amendment prevented the President from doing just that.

Move to Reconsider Vote.

There was peace in the coinage committee majority until late this afternoon when treasury officials got into touch with Acting Chairman John Cochran [D., Mo.]. Shortly thereafter, Cochran announced he would call a committee meeting tomorrow at which an attempt would be made to eliminate the Andresen amendment. He said he would ask the committee to "reconsider" the 9 to 7 vote. He predicted that the committee would reverse itself.

Then he made a surprising statement: "Some of the boys didn't know what they were voting for."

U. S. LINKS UNIONS TO CONTRACTORS IN WALKOUT PLOT

Conspiracy for Local Profit Charged.

The alleged inner workings of labor unions and contractors to force a general building contractor to split a subcontract of $212,000 by means of strikes, were described yesterday to a jury of six men and six women in the federal District court by Daniel B. Britt, head of the anti-trust division of the Chicago office of the department of justice.

Daniel Britt.

His description was given in the trial of 12 men, two labor unions, and three stone cutting contractors who are charged with conspiracy to restrict the sale and use of prefabricated stone in Chicago in violation of federal anti-trust laws.

Downstate Stone Bid Lowest.

In his opening statement, Britt cited the case of the Chicago Vocational school at 87th street and Chappel avenue. The general masonry and bricklaying contract of about $1,000,000 went to W. R. Goss as the lowest bidder, he said. In turn, Goss advertised for bids to sublet the cut stone work. He awarded the subcontract to the Indian Hill Limestone company, in the Bedford-Bloomington district because, Britt said, that company's bid of $212,000 was $65,000 less than the lowest Chicago bid.

"As soon as news of this award hit the street, things began to happen," said Prosecutor Britt.

Max Davison, a stone contractor and a defendant, called on Goss, Britt said, and demanded that the entire stone contract be given to Chicago concerns. Pat Cullen, business agent for the Stone Cutters' union, also a defendant, made a similar demand, Britt charged. Later, he continued, at a meeting of the Chicago Building Trades council, Byron Dalton of the Plasterers' union, a defendant, and Charles Youngblood of the Painters' union, a defendant, presented a resolution urging that union men be not assigned to work at local WPA projects [the school was a partial WPA project] on which subcontracts had been awarded to out-of-town firms.

Two Unions Call Out Men.

Then, said Britt, Earl J. McMahon, a defendant, sent Goss a letter warning that the school would not be completed if he persisted in keeping the Indiana contract. On June 13, 1939, Britt said, John Callahan, of the Structural Iron Workers" union and Adolph Berglund of the Carpenters' union, called their men off the school project. All work then stopped.

On July 10, 1939, Britt said, Contractor Goss met with Davison and several other defendants, and later agreed to award 38,000 cubic feet of the 100,000 cubic feet involved in the cut stone job to Eric F. Skoglund & Co., one of the defendant companies. Work soon afterward proceeded, Britt said.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 13 [Special].—Production of Airacobra fighting planes has been speeded up in the Bell Aircraft corporation's plant here. The same type 400 mile an hour fighter also is being built for Great Britain, the British version of the Airacobra recently having been put thru official acceptance tests for use in the RAF.

PRESS BANCROFT, RAIL AGENT, ENDS LIFE WITH POISON

Press Bancroft, general agent for the freight department of the Southern Pacific Lines, was found dead, presumably a poison victim, in a room in the Diversey Arms hotel at 644 Diversey parkway yesterday. He was 50 years old and lived at 1032 North Dearborn street.

Bancroft left a note to his wife, Bess, stating simply, "Just can't stand the humility." According to Lieut. John T. O'Malley of the Sheffield avenue station, Bancroft had been drinking for a week. Lieut. O'Malley and railroad officials expressed the belief that he ended his life in remorse.

Bancroft had been with the railroad 32 years. His superiors lauded him as a first rate railroad freight executive. He was promoted and transferred to Chicago from St. Louis last January. His wife, two sons, and a daughter were to move to Chicago next month after the close of school in St. Louis.

THE POSTPONED SPEECH.

Mr. Roosevelt has again changed his mind about his broadcast to the world. He will not speak at the Pan-American Union. Recently, when he was to dedicate the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson, he asked for a radio hookup. Then the request was withdrawn. All arrangements were made for the world-wide broadcast tonight and again there was a cancellation.

Mr. Roosevelt evidently is in a quandary. The American people know what he has promised them. They do not know all he has promised the British government. The people here first heard of his proposed sensational speech from London. There it was said that he would virtually declare a state of war existing but would allow the overt act to come from Germany.

The first confirmation of that report at the White House admitted that the speech might be very sensational. Now that it has not been delivered on two occasions for which preparations have been made, the White House secretariat says that there will be nothing exceptionally startling about it.

Mr. Roosevelt's uncertainties are encouraging to the Americans who think that it is the obligation of their government to keep their country out of a war in which it would make sacrifices without perceivable consequences beneficial to it or to any one else.

For a month Mr. Roosevelt has been putting out feelers. He had Mr. Hull, Mr. Knox, Mr. Wickard, and Mr. Stimson say for him what he has hesitated thus far to say for himself. He approved of their speeches but still refrained from making their statements unequivocally his own.

Mr. Hull and Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson, and then Mr. Willkie, said that the supplies to Great Britain could not go to the bottom of the ocean if America was to be saved, and Mr. Stimson went all the way across the Atlantic by saying that the American navy was ready for service and that the flower of American young manhood on the ships was filled with the highest patriotic spirit.

Stimson as secretary of war committed the administration in downright fashion to a naval war with Germany. His words could mean nothing less than that and it was apparent that Mr. Roosevelt had put him out in front to speak for the administration.

The British government undoubtedly has been led to rely on full American participation. The personal representatives Mr. Roosevelt has sent abroad, including Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Willkie, and including army and navy men, have confided his intentions. The American people are compelled to suspect that these commitments have been without reservations and that they have led the British government to believe that as soon as American opinion can be brought to accept the consequences the United States will enter the war.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt may be confronted with promises made abroad and promises made here, promises to a nation at war and promises to a nation not at war, which are contradictory and irreconcilable. He cannot keep the promise that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars" and send the "flower of young American manhood" to fight off German raiders. He cannot stick by his assertion that convoying means shooting and shooting means war and then send the ships on convoy duty and deny that he is going to war.

Mr. Roosevelt has not succeeded in bringing this nation around to his way of thinking or his proposals for action.

His hesitation is a sign that he doesn't see his way clear to go to war.

A NAZI LANDS IN BRITAIN.

Apparently the British waited until Hitler's information bureau released the news of Rudolf Hess' disappearance and then capped it with the astonishing disclosure that he had landed in Scotland and was in a hospital with a broken ankle.

Among the things which may be discovered later is whether Hitler knew that his oldest Nazi companion and the second in line to succeed him had headed for England. The Nazi party leaders may or may not have been aware of that. They may have known that if they didn't make an announcement soon it would come from England. Berlin says that a long illness had had its effect upon the party comrade's mind. London affirms that he is entirely sane and that his flight was deliberate and voluntary.

In the absence of any authenticated explanations the one that occurs immediately and rationally is that Hess was alarmed and decided on flight to escape Himmler's police. If he did so, he left hostages behind. His wife and son are at home and Hess should know how much tenderness they might expect if he were suspected of any treachery. Until what is mysterious in this sensational episode is cleared up, as it sooner or later will be, speculation is hazardous. There are too many rather than too few possible motives, self-preservation remaining in the forefront.

A German announcement said that a letter left behind indicated that Hess was in disordered mental condition and was the victim of hallucinations, one that he could restore peace in the world. Mental derangement would be the first thing the Nazis would suggest when they discovered that they had an amazing party dereliction on their hands. Dementia wouldn't be an oddity in Hitler's circle. Hess had been Hitler's companion in the beer hall putsch and was in prison with him when he began the dictation of "Mein Kampf." Hess was one of the collaborators on that. Early association with Hitler didn't save the men he marked for death in the blood purge and it wouldn't save anybody who for reason or not got his ill favor or became suspected by him.

One of the British comments on the flight to Scotland is that the deputy fuehrer in escaping to Britain chose the one spot within flying distance where he would be safe from Hitler's agents. That was the land of his enemies. Anywhere else he could have been arrested or killed. In Great Britain he is as safe as he could be from Himmler's agents and takes only the chances of other people on the island from Herr Goering's bombs. British inquiries may soon get a revealing statement of his reasons. Meanwhile puzzled people will wonder whether the affair is as significant as it is sensational.

THE HEART OF AMERICA.

When the house of representatives passed the ship seizure act—one of Mr. Roosevelt's war acts—THE TRIBUNE printed a map showing the distribution of the "yes" and "no" votes. The map, reprinted on this page, shows that the states which gave a majority of their congressional votes against the bill stood almost as a solid block in the northern interior, surrounded by the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard states and by the southern states.

The greatest strength of the opposition to the bill was in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin, the states of the old Northwest Territory. The Northwest Territory was the first great public domain of the new republic. It was settled by people who obtained their land titles from the United States, and as its territories came to statehood their only political connection had been with the republic.

The wisdom of two Virginians—George Rogers Clark and Patrick Henry—had led to the separation of the territory from the British province of Quebec. It passed to the new nation in the peace treaty and when it was open to settlement it was American domain.

The older states had rebelled against the mother country and won their independence in spite of a large propertied class of Americans who were opposed to the revolutionary cause and who used their influence against it. The origins of the states of the Northwest Territory were entirely American and the people in these states and in the other states to which their children went as pioneers never have felt the influence of foreign countries as much as the original states which formed the republic.

New England, it is to be remembered, is new England. The seaboard states, east and west, possibly because they face the sea, have prejudices and half obscured fealties in contrast to the interior, which has known no other country than the United States. The south has its own traditions, some of which carry on the feelings derived from the civil war.

It is noteworthy that when a question involving primarily and basically the welfare of the United States arises the greatest support for the American position is found in the territory first settled by people whose only country was their own.

THE CITY MANAGER BILL.

The proponents of city manager government for Chicago have had more success with their proposal in the present session of the legislature than in any previous attempt. The bill to permit a referendum on the matter has received a favorable committee report and is on second reading in the house.

This bill should pass. It should receive the votes of the legislators even if they, in common with many other people, are dubious of some of the extreme claims of merit made for the city manager plan. The bill does not impose city manager government on Chicago. It merely gives the people of the city the chance to say whether they want it.

The bill calls for referendums [upon the petition of 10 per cent of the voters] on two propositions—city manager government and the proportional representation plan of choosing a city council. The latter is a mathematically complex voting system, but has been shown to be practicable in operation in Cincinnati, New York, and other cities. Under it candidates for the city council, which would be a much smaller body than the present council, would all run at large.

In the referendum either proposition might be adopted alone, or both might be adopted. The city could choose city manager government with proportional representation, city manager government with the present council chosen by wards, retain an elective mayor as the executive head of the city but have a proportional representation council, or reject both proposals to retain the present mayor and council form of government.

The weakness of the city manager proposal does not lie in its mechanics but in the belief that bad or inefficient government can be improved by changing the machinery of government. That is the great fallacy of American democracy. Bad government comes from bad personnel, and bad personnel gets into office because voters are not sufficiently interested to insist on good personnel. If voters want good government badly enough to work for it harder than those who have a selfish interest in poor government work for that, they can get it. And that is the only way they can get it.

These observations, however, have no bearing on the present bill at Springfield. That bill merely authorizes the people of Chicago to consider a plan which, it is claimed, will improve their local government, and they should have that chance.

Editorial of the Day

[Kansas City Star.]

In the scouting around for sources of 3½ billions in new taxes virtually every important group in the country has been considered—except one. It is a group that especially profits from taxes, the nondefense section of the government.

With the 3½ billions now proposed, the total revenue of the government would reach 12½ to 13 billion dollars a year. As matters now stand, the one portion of government would get approximately seven billions of that amount—considerably more than one-half, with not a dollar of it going for defense.

Why can't a contribution, even a "sacrifice," be expected from this source? The answer is it can be and should be. Probably it could be a billion dollars if not more, and nobody would be hurt. There should be no immunity in this business. Let the nondefense expenditures of government be cut, sensibly and reasonably. Others who pay should be loud in the demand until it is heard.

The Nazi builder of the impregnable Siegfried line is completing another along the Russian frontier. It is just in case the understanding with Pal Joey is only eternal.—Detroit News.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

HOSPITALS BY TWILIGHT.

If you were showing a visitor the town, of course you would not think of taking him into the jungle of the west side. O, my goodness, no; it's a blighted district that merits the complete disapproval of sociologists and realtors. But without blighted districts, where would Dickens' novels be? . . .

So we told our companion that we were taking him to see a medical district for the celebration of Hospital day, and promised that he would find something to talk about. He was not prepared, however, for the mountain range of hospitals, medical schools, laboratories, clinics, dispensaries, and nurses' homes around which we wandered thru the gloaming. The County hospital itself is an overwhelming architectural mass on first view, but it is merely one of many enormous structures devoted to a noble cause.

Here is a typical Chicago scene, and the word for it is colossal. It is something, moreover, about which there has been no boasting; yet the possibility that it might be the biggest medical district in the world occurred to our walking mate.

Once upon a time we mentioned to a Chicago authority on such matters our suspicion that it might be the "greatest" in the world. He answered with a pooh-pooh, and mentioned Vienna with the reverence that every American doctor used to put into the pronunciation of that name.

However, here is a massive panorama, with fine modernism of design in the new structures of the University of Illinois. When some of the gaunt, raw yards among the quadrangles are landscaped and gardened and a few square blocks of adjoining "blight" are razed and converted into a park, Chicago in general will point with pride. Even the sight-seeing buses may condescend to add this picturesque region to their itineraries.

Thermopylae and Alamo.

Who said, "Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat; the Alamo had none"?

We asked this question on April 24 and received no answers except a scattering of misses. We consulted every available collection of quotations and sayings without luck. We interviewed three Texans of Chicago, all strong in the lore of their native state. They looked blank.

Then we wrote to the Texas State Historical association at Austin and received the following answer from its corresponding secretary:

"Miss Amelia Williams, who has written the history of the Alamo and is now engaged in editing the Sam Houston letters, says that the expression appears in a letter written by Houston to Gen. Fannin at Goliad on March 10. He had just received news of the fall of the Alamo on March 6."

The Secret Life of Drama Critics.

"Nearly every one except the patrons of 'Arsenic and Old Lace' knows that the fascinating character of the drama critic is a composite portrait of Richard Watts of the Herald-Tribune and myself. The line about going to China is Watts; the line about looking at some purely imaginary bird and writing a chapter on Thoreau is me, and a pretty lame joke, too."

[What about the gag about the linotype operator who might turn out to be another Burns Mantle?]

THE UNHEEDED LESSON.

There's a weathered frame in the village square,
Displaying, in back of a glass,
All the names of lads who went out from there,
Neglected on tarnishing brass;
They were heroes then, and so young and fair—
How swiftly the seasons pass!

All nodding and blossoming gay,
And only a few of the townsfolk know
That when they are lovely in May
Each tree blooms for one who was eager to go
To the wars of another day.

Now the names in the frame are growing dim
And the blossoms are soon to fall;
And the high school lads, so straight and trim,
Hurry nor notice at all;
To them war's heroic, not futile and grim,

Grandfathers of Old Proverbs.

Many of our old English proverbs have parallels in ancient languages. For example:

"Love is blind." In medieval Latin, "Quisquis amat ranam, ranam putat esse Dianam." [If a man is in love with a frog he will think his frog a very Diana.]

"When the cat is away, the mice will play." In medieval Latin, "Mus salit in stratum, dum scit abesse catum." [The mouse runs into the street when it knows the cat is away.]

PERSISTENT HICCUP MAY PROVE DANGEROUS.

HICCUP is one of our most distressing conditions—particularly if it persists. When it can be routed by holding the breath for a few seconds, by taking nine swallows of water, or by breathing in and out of a paper bag, it is looked upon as a fleeting incident. Occasionally, however, the continuous contractions may prove so exhausting that life is threatened. Physicians are generally agreed that when home methods fail, the patient should visit the nearest physician or hospital without delay.

In attempting to locate the cause, some difficulty within the abdomen offers the best point of attack. Irritation within the stomach [for example, gastritis], overdistention of this long suffering organ, bowel obstruction from hernia, or any acute type of inflammation below the chest cavity may so disturb the broad muscle of breathing [the diaphragm] as to send it into unwarranted activity. The drinking of very hot fluids may be responsible and we are all familiar with the "hic" of the intoxicated person. After a surgical operation the patient may develop this complication, or it may appear when everything is going along normally.

As we would expect, if the trouble lies within the gastric pouch, washing this receptacle would be successful frequently. In other cases, inhalation of chloroform may be required to deaden the nerve impulses. When the victim emerges from the influence of the drug the manifestation may have vanished.

Within the last few years the suggestion has been offered that benzedrine sulfate, which allays spasms within the digestive tract, will be helpful. Recently a young man of 28 suffered from hiccups which hung on all day. Toward nightfall he became apprehensive and nervous. Benzedrine was decided upon, and its use proved effective.

In another instance, a woman of 26 was operated on for pelvic disease. On the second day the symptom started. Numerous remedies were tried without avail. After inhalation of the preparation, however, she proceeded to an uneventful recovery.

Flooding the cells with fluids, given directly into a vein, may result in cure. Within a period of 24 hours, from 5,000 to 6,000 cubic centimeters may be administered. This huge volume of water seems to wash toxins out of the tissues, removing the irritant.

Confronted with an episode of this sort, there is every reason to protect the muscles of the abdominal wall by means of a snug binder. Strips of canton flannel six to eight inches in width may be wrapped around the body, beginning with the lower chest and continuing downward to the hips. This has the effect of compressing the intestines. In addition, it exerts a firm force against the diaphragm. This plan has saved many an annoying experience.

Extremely stubborn cases may demand heroic measures, such as crushing the phrenic nerve [which controls the diaphragm] to prevent the vital forces from wearing out. We are fortunate in possessing a treatment that can be resorted to when nothing else will ameliorate the affliction.

The case is reported by Campbell of a 76 year old man who, after a urinary tract operation, began to hiccup, thus interfering with convalescence. Nothing brought relief until the phrenic nerve was rendered useless. Subsequently he made an excellent recovery and, at the age of 81, was enjoying life.

FATTY AREAS.

S. D. writes: Will reducing weight generally eliminate fat around the heart?

REPLY.

It will help. Nature's plan of disposing of fat is whimsical. By means of a slimming diet weight may be lost but the effect may be more noticeable in the face than about the hips or around the heart. A slow reducing regimen is advised.

WANTS CURLS.

M. F. writes: I had extremely curly hair as a child but now it is straight. Can anything be done to bring back the wave?

REPLY.

As children we were told to eat plenty of carrots or bread crusts. I would suggest that you put yourself in the hands of a skilled beautician.

ON THE VERGE OF WAR.

Chicago, May 12.—The shifting of scenes inside the Russian government is very significant; it means that the United States is on the verge of war, and that Russia is getting ready to play its part as an active axis partner. Japan also will become an active axis partner the moment we declare war on Germany. This will leave America in the most hazardous position in all our history; we will be standing alone against the world, and a long and destructive war will ensue. England is already well beaten.

The convoy issue is not a question of getting munitions of war to England; the real question behind it is: "How soon can we arrange for the sinking of an American ship with the loss of American lives" so we can have an excuse to get into the war?

There is no possible way we can be benefited by getting into this war; on the contrary we have everything to lose. War never promotes the welfare of a people. World war No. 1 proves that. We are still paying for it. R. J. NUGENT.

THE HALIFAX VISIT.

Chicago, May 9.—During his stay here Lord Halifax said his "job is to make Americans understand what the English are thinking."

I can tell the Americans what the English are thinking. They are thinking what suckers we Americans are.

I wonder how many Americans will continue to contribute to Bundles for Britain instead of contributing to Bundles for Americans?"

Bundles for Americans are located in temporary headquarters at 2705 West Washington boulevard, Chicago. A postcard will bring them for your bundles.

VETERAN OF '17-'18.

Chicago, May 9.—In his Chicago address Lord Halifax said "England does not need or want the manpower of the United States for fighting purposes." At the same time he and his group are urging the use of our navy for convoy purposes. What does he think we are going to man our navy vessels with—Chinamen? T. H. K.

SOLDIERS WANT READING MATTER.

Fort Eustis, Va., May 10.—We are a group of boys from Chicago, stationed out here in the coast artillery replacement center. We would appreciate a good newspaper or some good magazines. This being a new camp, it is practically impossible for us to obtain reading material. We'll take anything the public of Chicago has to offer. There are about 300 of us Chicagoans here in this camp of 15,000 men.

We are practically cut off from all our former activities, and would like to get back into the swing of things. Please give us a break.

WEBSTER'S WORDS.

Willow Springs, Ill., May 9.—"Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country!"

Daniel Webster, great American statesman, seemingly shouts those words from his grave, and when I take the liberty to stress the last five words I am confident that his dust comes astir in approval. C. B.

AS TO OLDER DRAFTED MEN.

Chicago, May 9.—I don't see how they can even consider changing the age limits for selective service. What about those over 30 who were drafted? They left good positions to serve their country. How will they be compensated? M. M. T.

HIS WAY TO KEEP OUT.

Aurora, Ill., May 10.—It is safe to say that 99 per cent of our people hope for the defeat of Hitler, who has proved himself the most dangerous "inhuman" born into civilization. We are endeavoring to abet his defeat by supplying increasing quantities of planes, machines, and war supplies to Britain. This is a war of machines rather than armies, but unless the machines are produced and delivered there is great danger of Hitler conquering Britain, also Africa, South America, Panama, and Canada. Our army and all our forces would then be forced into a destructive and probably losing war here at home.

Hitler has assumed control of the Atlantic and has warned us to keep off. Some of our people, including all the communists, Fascists, and Nazis, hope we will heed the warning, but surely that is not the American way. We have a great navy, well equipped and ready for service. It would seem wise to put it in action immediately to protect our rights on the seas, provide safe and speedy delivery of war machines, and insure the defeat of Hitler. The way to keep out of the war is to show our determination and our power, not our supineness and weakness. CLARK MORE.

THEY SHOULD VISIT HINES.

Chicago, May 9.—I have just visited Hines hospital and have seen the broken bodies and frayed nerves of those men who, in the last world war, saved the world for anarchy. I wonder how many of those who wish us to rush our youth again to the new hell have seen—and given a hand to—the pitiable patients in the veterans' hospitals.

Instead of rushing our men overseas again to fight and die on foreign shores, let us take the practical and logical course of keeping our heroes at home, strengthening our own defenses and making our own land invulnerable to any attack by the land, sea, or air. L. H. S.

CREWS FOR THE CONVOYS.

Chicago, May 9.—As long as the voice of 85 per cent of our people has made no impression on congressmen of the south and east with regard to keeping us out of war, I suggest that the 85 per cent [of which I am one] demand that these statesmen be put on the convoys. I would include in this Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hull, Mr. Stimson, Mr. Knox, Mr. Willkie, Mr. Frankfurter, and the international bankers. A march on Washington with this demand and a little civil war of our own to make them come to their senses would help keep our own boys from the bottom of the ocean. MRS. M. O.

FROM A LITHUANIAN.

Chicago, May 7.—We, who are vitally interested in the Lithuanian people here and in the freedom of the Lithuanians in Lithuania, appreciate the publicity given and pictures printed concerning the arrival of President Smetona. We are certain many thousands of your Lithuanian readers appreciated the stories written, for the comment overheard was very laudatory. Keep it up and thank you for the big push! P. P. CINIKAS, M. I. C.

LOOKING FOR SOUTHERNERS.

Chicago, May 9.—Recently I desired to get in touch with an organization of southern people, but I could not locate one in Chicago. If there is any one having knowledge of an association, gathering, organization, or club made up of southerners I will appreciate the information. Either a specific city, state, locality, or general. LE ROY J. WAGNER, 1436 East 66th place.

FLOWERS FOR PATIENTS.

Chicago, May 8.—We gratefully acknowledge receipt of the three boxes of beautiful lilacs for the sick at our hospital. The patients were delighted to receive the fragrant flowers and they join us in thanking you for your benevolent thoughtfulness.

SISTER M. STEPHANIE, R. N.,
Superintendent Loretto hospital.

IRVING'S PROPHETIC WORDS.

Chicago, May 12.—The bombing of Westminster Abbey recalls the thoughts of Washington Irving in his "Sketch Book" regarding this famous place. How prophetic his words, and how true they are in the light of present world events! And this was written over a century ago—1819. Look!

"The time must come when its gilded vaults, which now spring so loftily, shall lie in rubbish beneath the feet; when, instead of melody and praise, the wind shall whistle thru the broken arches, and the owl hoot from the shattered tower—when the garish sunbeam shall break into these gloomy mansions of death, and the ivy twine around the fallen column; and the foxglove hang its blossoms about the nameless urn, as if in mockery of the dead. Thus man passes away; his name perishes from record and recollection; his history is as a tale that is told, and his very monument becomes a ruin."

THOMAS P. FOGARTY.

A MOUNTAINOUS DEBT.

Chicago, May 7.—Jesse Jones is quoted as saying our national debt may reach 90 billion dollars. What conservatism! Economist Melchior Palyi intimates that loans to Britain, three or four years of national defense, and works projects after the war will raise our public debt to 150 billion dollars.

This debt will be financed as Hitler finances Germany—by heavy taxation plus compulsory purchases of government bonds from savings and wages, forbidden to be resold before their 20 to 30 year maturity dates.

CHARLES V. FALKENBERG.

CONTINUE THE CONCERTS!

Chicago, May 10.—I can't believe Chicago would stop the concerts in Grant park. They are a real institution. Do something! L. F.

Chicago, May 11.—Don't stop the Grant park concerts! There must be some other way to economize. L. H.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

RENTAL DEPOSIT.

Chicago, May 8.—[Legal Friend of the People].—A $20 deposit is made on an apartment. Five days later and before lease is signed, notice is given to landlord that his intended lessee has changed his mind about the apartment.

According to the law [1] should this landlord return this deposit and [2] what action can be taken if landlord refuses to return deposit? M. K.

1. As we understand it the purpose of the deposit was to protect the landlord against the tenant's changing his mind. We see no reason why this purpose should not be given legal effect. If the tenant can prove that the deposit exceeds the damages that the landlord sustains by the tenant changing his mind, then the tenant would be entitled to recover such excess.

2. If there is an excess then the ordinary course would be to employ an attorney to force payment just as in the case of any other debt.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

READING OF WILL.

Chicago, May 8.—[Legal Friend of the People].—1. How soon after a death occurs is a will usually read and [2] the beneficiaries notified? B. A.

1. We have no statutory provision for a formal reading of a will. The time elapsing will depend on the accessibility of the will, the accessibility of the relatives and on other facts that are not before us.

2. In general, the beneficiaries will be notified at the commencement of probate proceedings. The time elapsing before such commencement would vary in wide limits. In some cases probate may be entirely dispensed with.

COURTNEY MOVES TO HALT DEALING WITH HUMPHREYS

$45,000 School Contract for Towels Disclosed.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday he intends to put an end to all transactions between governmental agencies and companies owned or controled by members of the Nitti-Humphreys-Stanton crime syndicate.

Courtney's announcement grew out of the disclosure that the Individual Towel company has a contract to provide towels for the Chicago Board of Education. William Crawford, assistant state's attorney, said Murray Humphreys, lieutenant of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, has an interest in the towel company.

Contract Put at $45,000.

Howard Savage, education board business manager, said the Individual Towel company has a contract to provide towels at school penny lunchrooms and at schools where baths and bathing pools are provided.

Savage said the contract amounted to approximately $45,000 a year and that the Individual Towel company was the low bidder for the job.

"There were four or five bidders," Savage said. "We didn't know of Humphreys' connection with the company."

Crawford said Morris Gordon, an official of the Individual Towel company, also owns two shares of stock in the Klever-Shampay Cleaning company, which Humphreys dominated. The Klever-Shampay plant was closed April 28 by Mayor Kelly. The closing followed investigation of the slaying April 23 of Anton Gorczak, a driver for a cleaning concern which was a business rival of the Klever-Shampay company.

Sanitary Trustee Questioned.

Crawford questioned several representatives of cleaning and dyeing concerns yesterday about business they had taken from the Klever-Shampay company after its plant had been closed.

One was J. L. Friedman, a trustee of the sanitary district, who owns the Unique Cleaning and Dyeing company, 2643 Chicago avenue.

Friedman said his company had picked up three routes abandoned by the Klever-Shampay company.

The new business was obtained, he said, thru three former drivers for Klever-Shampay.

BOOKS

A Doctor Book That's Different —and Alluring!

"A Yankee Doctor in Paradise," by S. M. Lambert, M. D. [Little-Brown, $3.] Published last Thursday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Dr. Lambert, like the man who started him on his way to "Paradise," Dr. Victor Heiser, author of "An American Doctor's Odyssey," had whole races instead of mere individuals for patients. As a member of the Rockefeller institute it was his job to unhook the hookworm [among other diseases] from the South Pacific islanders, a job which he did dramatically well and which he tells about with candor, seriousness, and amusement in a semi-autobiography which may well prove one of the year's popular books among those who like their reading solid.

Dr. Lambert writes about his work with impressive authority and with frankness. It was "no work for a florist," as he says. He writes with the alluring naïveté of a discoverer about the people he met—some only a beefsteak away from cannibalism, all of them, even the educated ones, still with their feet deep in mysticism, voodoo, tabu, or plain traditionalism, a disease almost harder to cure than yaws or leprosy.

Incidentially, Dr. Lambert caught "everything the tropics have to offer with the exception of yaws, venereal, and leprosy," he says, and adds: "I'm not so sure about leprosy. It's so slow to develop you can't be sure you haven't got it until you've died of something else."

He describes the dramatic wholesale treatment of disease so simply that any layman can understand it—the part about using cleaning fluid to clean up hookworm is a classic of modern medical miracles—and yet the tale must be utterly fascinating to any doctor. He tells of "selling health"—and successfully—to whole peoples who never heard of sanitation. And the actual lecture in pidgin English which did the trick, reproduced in its entirety, is hilarious to read.

Dr. Lambert answers the question of whether it is worth while sanitizing a disease-ridden world by pointing out that disease was civilization's gift to the savage, and it is a gift which is returned to us with compound interest, oftener than you'd care to think.

Dr. Lambert has a delicious sense of humor. He is a realist to the core, but, like most really good doctors who can and must face things daily that would frizzle up our souls, he has a fine and noble appreciation of the beauty of nature and man which many romantics only babble about without really seeing.

This is no light record of adventure. It is slow reading and full of a good many stiff clinical details, but it is twice as interesting as you'd expect, and definitely to be placed among the most alluring of the "doctor" books, of which, I might point out, there have been enough to date to clog even the voracious reader's maw. This one is worth a final feast, however.

Tells Life Story

"I'd Live It Over," by Flora Cloman. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.]

An essentially american autobiography is that of Flora Cloman. It is typical as much in the author's point of view as in the fact that probably only an American could have shuttled from a log cabin to the court of St. James's, and only an American could have been perfectly at ease in both mining camps and the most sophisticated society in the world.

Mrs. Cloman is no sentimentalist, either. Part of the time she had a hard life, part of the time a soft one. She was never downed by difficulties, and never sank her spirit in the downiness. She went in a covered wagon overland from Wisconsin to northern Minnesota when she was 5 years old. As a little girl she knew how to fight prairie blizzards, and wolves, both actual and metaphorical, howled around the family door. As a married woman, she lived on five continents adventurously in army posts, in mining camps, or luxuriously as the wife of an American diplomat.

Spirited Autobiography

"The Incurable Romantic," by Roderick Peattie. [Macmillan, $3.] Published yesterday.

Roderick Peattie, professor of geography at Ohio State university, brother of Donald Culross Peattie and son of Elia W. Peattie, who was for many years literary editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has spent his life, like Dr. Lambert, helping to pry closed minds open. He also has written a fascinating autobiography.

Like Dr. Lambert, Roderick Peattie reveals indirectly to his readers a delightful personality with a rare sense of humor. Unlike Dr. Lambert, who would label himself a realist, Mr. Peattie declares himself a romantic. There is sentiment—for wife, children, mountains, a farm, happiness—but there is no whit of sentimentality—so don't be misled by the title.

In the best midwestern tradition, Roderick Peattie has led a good life. He has worked hard. He has never been rich, except in his association with his fellow men and with ideas. He served his country during the last war because he believed in that service, and he has fought for his belief in democracy ever since. His autobiography is a spirited and extremely interesting record of a man who knew what he wanted, had a chance to work for it, did, and has been happy in the effort—an American.

Last 20 Years in Europe Put in Close Focus

"Men and Politics," by Louis Fischer. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $3.50.] Published last Friday.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

Louis Fischer boasts that his last steady job was in 1921, just before he returned to Europe a second time. [An American, he had fought under the British in 1918.] Since then he has been observing, reporting, and taking part in the European political scene as a free lance newspaper man.

"Men and Politics," which he calls an autobiography, is the story of those two tremendous decades in the life of Mr. Fischer and in the life of the world. From a biographical point of view the 657 pages are meager fare—Mr. Fischer seems to have refrained deliberately from introducing strictly personal events and emotions. But from the point of view of history this book is one of the most important to be written in our generation.

Other foreign correspondents, such as Gunther, Sheean, Van Paassen, Farson, or Douglas Reed, have covered much of the same ground. None has had such close and intimate contacts with European statesmen and politicians. None has written so completely, with such keen understanding of the years between the wars, the horribly wasted years of "peace." In this reader's opinion, "Men and Politics" is, without question, the greatest of the foreign correspondent series.

For 14 of his foreign years Mr. Fischer lived in Moscow with his wife and two sons, except for occasional trips "outside." And for most of that time he was prosoviet, altho often critical of the régime and its methods. His story of those years, of his eventual break with Stalin's Russia when he finally realized all hope of democracy coming to Russia under Stalin was only wishful thinking, constitutes one of the most thoro and interesting histories of the bolshevik revolution. There is also an equally thoro history of the Spanish civil war.

Studded thruout each chapter are beautifully exact pen portraits of such democratic statesmen of Europe as Churchill, "a political genius," Benes, and Lloyd George, the American ambassadors, Kennedy, Bowers, Dodd, and Bullitt, the latter described by the author as first prosoviet, then proappeasement, now prowar—and scores of other world famous figures.

Mr. Fischer's vast canvas includes many divisions, all equally fascinating. There are, for example, a closely knit analysis of postwar Germany and the rise of Hitler; a thoro study of the fall of France; a stimulating report of events and policies in England, France, Italy, the United States, Russia, Japan, and Germany that he believes led to the present war; a political biography of Stalin, and, at last, a plausible account of the reasons for the Moscow purges and sensational "confession" trials.

ILLINOIS ANGLERS OPEN INVASION OF WISCONSIN TODAY

Pike Season Gets Under Way Tomorrow.

BY BOB BECKER.

The first big migration of Illinois fishermen into Wisconsin gets under way today. Thousands with the urge to hear the whir of a reel and see a string of fish hanging at the side of a boat are going to be on northern lakes tomorrow to open the wall-eyed pike and northern pike season.

While the boys who like lake fishing are stirring up the wall-eyes, another army of anglers will be wading the streams of Wisconsin to see whether they can creel some brook, brown, or rainbow trout, for May 15 also is the opening date for this type of sport.

Resort owners have dusted off the welcome signs on their front porches and will be ready for the opening day. The ice left the lakes earlier than usual this year, and the pike and muskies finished spawning some time ago.

Michigan Season to Open.

Michigan also opens its wall-eye season tomorrow in all regularly designated pike lakes. The trout fishing in that state has been open several weeks, and some excellent catches have been made.

Reports from the Pere Marquette, Au Sable, Platte, Baldwin, Manistee, and other Michigan trout streams tell of the success many Illinois sportsmen had with their trout tackle. Louis Pelzmann of 3539 Lakewood avenue visited the Platte river and made limit catches two days in succession.

A handbook has been published for outdoor fans who like to fish or enjoy river float trips of from one to three days. This little guide, called "Canoe Trips in West Michigan," tells about both short and long trips on the Boardman river [noted for its brown trout], the big Muskegon river, the Platte [15 mile trip, one day], Pere Marquette, Little Manistee, Big Manistee, Kalamazoo, Pine, Flat, and other streams which are interesting not only from a boating standpoint but also to the fisherman.

Road Locations Described.

It tells where to put in and where to take out at highways and bridges. Any one wishing a copy of the book may obtain it by writing Hugh J. Gray, West Michigan Tourist and Resort association, Grand Rapids, Mich.

One of the feminine anglers in Chicago who can rest on her fishing laurels for some time is Mrs. Milton Baldock of 1644 North Newland avenue. She has been awarded a special merit plaque by the Stuart [Fla.] chamber of commerce for the capture, unassisted, of the first white marlin boated near that port in 1941.

After sportsmen get the trout and pike opening day party off their schedule, they can look forward to another exciting day in Wisconsin on May 25, when it becomes legal to fish for muskellunge, one of the most popular fresh water game fish in the middle west.

LOOP GETS PEEK AT GARY THRU WEATHER TRICK

The phenomenon known as "looming" enabled Chicagoans in the loop yesterday to see clearly the steel mills in Gary and the sand dunes at the end of Lake Michigan. Some even said they saw the Michigan shores, more than 60 miles away, but Forecaster R. E. Gumpf said his vision wasn't good enough for that.

"Visibility was excellent," Gumpf said, "with an east wind blowing away all smoke and haze. By the term 'looming' we mean bending of light rays as they pass thru layers of air having differing degrees of temperature and moisture. The general effect is to seem to lift the far away objects."

BISON TO GRACE SUMMER MENU IN BLACK HILLS

Rapid City, S. D., May 13 [Special].—Roast buffalo, bison steak, and buffalo mince meat pie will be available to epicures visiting South Dakota's Black hills this summer. Here's why:

Custer State park, situated in the hills, has one of the world's few large herds of buffalo. It has so many—more than 500—that it has been found necessary to thin out the herd, and the carcasses of two 2 year olds have gone to the state-owned Sylvan Lake hotel.

Mrs. Myra Peters, who runs the hotel, insists that buffalo meat is tender and savory when properly prepared. She expects to prove her contention when she tries out her dishes on her summer guests.

Mountain goats, recently transplanted from Canada to the Black hills, have taken up their residence on Harney peak and are reported to be multiplying. They may multiply so fast that, like the buffalo, they will become a problem.

FLORIDA PARK OFFERS TOURISTS TASTE OF REAL JUNGLE LIFE

Miami, Fla., May 13 [Special].—Vacationists seeking a taste of jungle life in Florida are finding it in the Royal Palm State park, an hour's drive south from Miami.

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs was responsible for having the park created. It has succeeded in having the 4,000 acre tract preserved just as the early Spanish explorers discovered it. Tropical vegetation is the rule there, but there are outdoor ovens and tables for picnickers.

Miami Poinciana Festival Scheduled to Begin June 8

Miami, Fla., May 13 [Special].—Miami's poinciana festival, which attracts many visitors each year, will open June 8. By that time, it is believed, the thousands of "fire trees" will be in full bloom.

Portland Rose Festival to Be Held June 11 to 14

Portland, Ore., May 13 [Special].—The dates of the 33d annual Portland Rose festival have been announced as June 11 to 14, inclusive. The floral parade will be held the morning of June 13.

Pierre van Paassen answers these questions:
- Is Churchill getting reckless?
- Does the time element favor England or does it favor Germany?
- Which way will South America turn?
- What is Hitler's secret method of transporting panzer troops across the oceans?
- How does the German High Command expect to paralyze the British fleet?
- What will happen to the United States if England is knocked out?
- Should we declare war against Germany now?

THIS BOOK TELLS HOW

THIS IS Pierre van Paassen's first book in three years. It is the most important book of 1941—the book that reveals the master plan that can be used now to stop Hitler. THE TIME IS NOW! makes exciting, fascinating reading crowded with the drama of world events . . . but it is more than that. It is a realistic, unbiased, revealing appraisal of America's position and her potentialities by a man whose courage and vision are matched only by his humanity.

Read this book now—before it is too late. Read it and get ready. Read it and act!

Quickest way to see

CARLSBAD CAVERNS

on your trip to California

Quickest way to see Carlsbad Caverns National Park is from El Paso, on the main line of Southern Pacific's Sunset Route (New Orleans-Los Angeles) and Golden State Route (Chicago-Los Angeles). You can arrive at El Paso on a morning S. P. train, see the Caverns and continue on another S. P. train that night. Carlsbad Caverns tour costs only $9.75 all-expense from El Paso.

From Chicago, take Southern Pacific's money-saving Californian (breakfast 35¢, luncheon 40¢, dinner 50¢); from New Orleans, the Argonaut, connecting at El Paso with streamlined air-conditioned motor coach to Carlsbad Caverns, N. M.

Go to California on one S. P. route and return on another S. P. route. See twice as much of America for not 1¢ extra rail fare.

HOLLAND'S FAMED TULIP FESTIVAL OPENS SATURDAY

Street Scrubbing Rite to Start Fete.

Holland, Mich., May 13 [Special].—Three million tulips either are in bloom or about to bloom and the citizens are putting finishing touches on Holland's 13th annual Tulip Time festival. The celebration will open Saturday afternoon and continue thru May 24.

Additions have been made to the program in each fête. This year the chief additions are to be 18 performances of the drama, "Silver Skates." A Dutch costume show and a Little Netherlands exhibit also are to be featured.

Street Scrubbing Opens Fête.

The traditional opener is the street scrubbing ceremony, in which hundreds of burghers and vrouws in costume scour the downtown thorofares to Dutch standard cleanliness. This event will start at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. At night 300 high school girls will take part in the wooden shoe dance.

The pageant, "Tulip Tales," will be presented Saturday, Monday, and Wednesday nights. Wednesday will be school day and hundreds of children in costume will parade the streets. Thursday night there will be a concert by the University of Michigan symphony orchestra. Friday night there will be a music festival, with the Michigan State college band playing.

The celebration will close with a band review in which 15 Michigan high school organizations are entered.

Liner to Bring Chicagoans.

This year for the first time a shipload of passengers from Chicago and vicinity will be brought across Lake Michigan to see the final day of the spectacle. The Georgian Bay Lines' Great Lakes cruise liner, the South American, will leave Navy pier at 11 p. m. Friday, May 23, and will arrive in Holland early Saturday. Leaving on the return trip at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, the ship will reach Chicago that night. Those taking the trip thus will have a day and a half for sightseeing.

More than half a million visitors are expected for the festival. In addition to the hotels, private homes, and tourist camps thrown open to them, the Georgian Bay Lines' North American and Alabama, which are docked here thruout winter, will be used as floating hotels.

INDIAN SPEARMEN LURE STURGEON WITH BONFIRES

QUEBEC, May 13 [Special].—Early season tourists along the St. Lawrence river in this province are puzzled by the many bonfires on the American shore. Here's the explanation:

The fires are kindled by the Canawaughna Indians each night to attract sturgeon. A closeup reveals that each blaze is attended by an Indian, standing on a rock, spear poised and ready to lance the sturgeon as they come into view.

Spearing is prohibited in Quebec. But the Canawaughnas across the border are free to carry on their sport, and they have become experts at it.

Road Due to Open May 30 in Rocky Mountain Park

Estes Park, Colo., May 13 [Special].—Weather permitting, the Trail Ridge road over the Continental Divide in Rocky Mountain National park will be open to 1941 traffic May 30. With the exception of its approaches on the eastern and western ends, the highway has been closed by deep snows since last November.

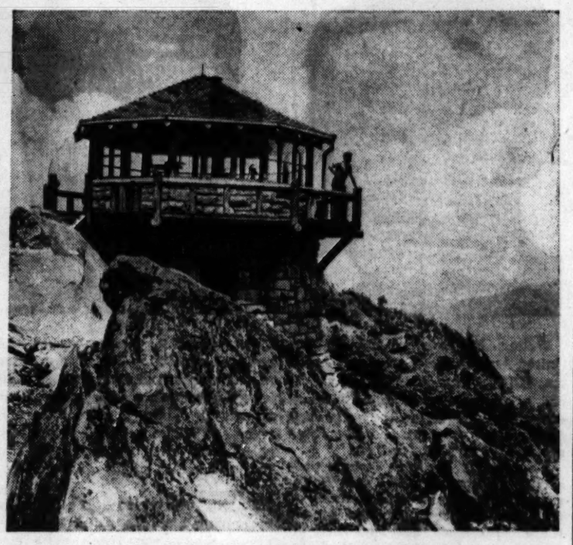
Dogwood Is Now Official North Carolina Flower

Raleigh, N. C., May 13 [Special].—The state legislature has designated the dogwood as the official flower of North Carolina. Originally it was proposed to name the flame azalea, but this was rejected because it is found only in the higher altitudes, while the flowering dogwood tree grows in both the lowlands and the highlands.

Maytime Storm Enlarges Cap of Snow on Mt. Hood

Salem, Ore., May 13 [Special].—Following the driest April in a decade, a Maytime storm has added more than two feet of snow to the pack on Mount Hood. As a result the skiing season on the southwest slope of the mountain promises to last until midsummer.

Reviewing a Rocky Roof Top



From Lookout tower, atop White mountain in the Great Smoky Mountains National park, the visitor can survey hundreds of square miles of eastern America.

When is the best time to see the gardens in and around Charleston, S. C.? —C. F.

From now until mid-June.

10,000 ANGLERS TO COMPETE IN TARPON DERBY

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 13 [Special].—Somewhere in the sea off St. Petersburg is a fish destined to bring fame to some crafty fisherman.

This specimen, identity and address so far unknown, will be the largest caught in this city's Tarpon Roundup, starting Thursday. Pitted against it will be 10,000 skilled and amateur anglers from all over the country. They will be in rowboats, launches, cruisers, and yachts, and each will be prepared for the struggle required to bring the giant to gaff.

Prizes valued at more than $2,000 are to be awarded the winners in the various classifications, including that having to do with the biggest fish. The contest will close July 31.

Yosemite Highways Lined with Flowering Dogwood

Yosemite National Park, Cal., May 13 [Special].—From now until early June Yosemite's highways will be lined with the white blossoms of the flowering dogwood. The flowers, measuring as much as seven inches in diameter, are found in the park at altitudes of from 4,000 to 6,000 feet.

WORK IS STARTED ON PLAYGROUND AT BISCAYNE KEY

Miami, Fla., May 13 [Special].—When next winter's tourists converge on Miami they will find a new playground under way on Biscayne key.

Supported by a 2 million dollar bond issue, work is being started on a Dade county park and beach that will have facilities for several thousand persons at a time. Included is provision for a 4 mile causeway connecting the mainland and the island.

Biscayne key now is accessible only by boat and much of it is privately owned. It boasts of the largest coconut plantation in continental America. Its 35,000 trees produce more than 5 million coconuts annually.

The playground is to be known as Crandon park. It is estimated it will require nearly two years to complete the project, but it is hoped to have the bathing beach ready by the end of this year.

DEER SO PLENTIFUL IN MICHIGAN THEY'RE HAZARD TO TRAFFIC

Bay City, Mich., May 13 [Special].—Michigan has an unusual traffic hazard this spring. G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, said today that deer on the highways are becoming a menace to motorists in the northern areas.

"Many travelers will be visiting northern Michigan this summer for the first time," he said. "They should be warned of the possibility of having a deer suddenly appear on the road in front of them. Deer are more plentiful this season than in many years. Only by driving at a reasonable speed and being constantly on the alert can motorists guarantee their own safety. They should be especially cautious while traveling at night."

RENEWS DEMAND THAT CONGRESS CURB ARMS TIEUP

House Member Assails Auto Union Threats.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—While administration officials sought frantically to curb the spread of strikes against the arms program demands were renewed in congress today for legislation enforcing compulsory arbitration and a cooling off period in such labor disputes.

Representative Dondero.

However, the Vinson bill, offering a solution to the arms strike problem, remained in a waiting position on the house calendar. The measure was given legislative right of way by the rules committee two weeks ago. Ordinarily such action by the committee brings a house vote within a few days. In this case the Democratic leaders, presumably acting under White House directions, have refused to permit a vote.

Twenty Strikes in Progress.

As of today, there were 20 strikes involving more than 40,000 workers in armament industries. Work has been halted on nearly a billion dollars' worth of weapons designed to equip our military and naval forces and for shipment to Great Britain.

Leading the clamor for action to solve the strike problem, Representative George A. Dondero [R., Mich.] told the house he had been deeply disturbed to read of the "edict" issued by Walter Reuther of the United Automobile Workers of America [CIO] that he would give "the people, the President of the United States, and officials of the General Motors corporation until next Thursday morning to agree to union demands or a strike will be called in the 61 plants of General Motors where that union has bargaining rights."

Situation Called Critical.

"The President has called for speed and more speed in building the nation's defenses," Dondero noted. "We have been told not only by the President but by many other speakers that the situation is critical; that time is of the essence in the building of our national defense.

"In the face of this, and after a deadlock extending over 10 days following eight weeks of negotiations in Detroit, the nation is now threatened by a manifesto issued by a man whose record at least justifies the assumption, if it does not clearly show, that he is a communistic labor agitator.

"We find this man Reuther issuing a manifesto that the work of national defense will be stopped unless his arbitrary demands are met. He is seizing this hour of the nation's peril to make unreasonable demands while boys are being drafted, taken out of their homes and away from their business and forced into the army at $21 a month."

Reviews Plight of France.

Behind the whole situation, Dondero argued, lurks a terrible danger, bearing a similarity to conditions in France before its fall, that "must frighten any fair-minded man who studies both situations."

"My fears for our country are not lessened by the presence on the mediation board of John Brophy, who has been branded a communist by no less an authority than John L. Lewis himself," Dondero declared.

If the urgency is half what the President and others have told the people it is, not a single day of arms production can be lost, he warned members.

"If these strikes continue, congress will be compelled, in defense of our institutions and the American way of life, to consider and pass legislation compelling arbitration on labor disputes and controversies in arms industries and those between labor unions themselves."

SPEAKS TONIGHT ON LAWYERS.

Dr. Leonard D. White, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, will speak tonight on the future of lawyers in the government service at the monthly dinner of the Chicago Federal Bar association to be held in the hall at 19 South La Salle street at 6:30 p. m.

CIO Chiefs Accused as Radicals

(Story in adjoining column.)

Walter Reuther, official of the United Automobile Workers of America [CIO], who has threatened to call a general strike in 61 General Motors plants if union bargaining demands are not met, has often been accused of radical leanings.

He and his brother, Victor, made a trip to Europe in 1933, and Walter worked for a year in Russia as a technician in an automobile factory there. He since has said that he went to Russia to study political conditions. During a Ford Motor company-CIO hearing before the National Labor Relations board in 1937 a letter allegedly written by Reuther from Russia was introduced. It said, in part:

"I'm anxious to be back in the front lines fighting with you again for the ideals expressed here as actualities."

Reuther denied that the letter was his or that he had ever belonged to the communist party. Recently it was announced that Reuther will appeal from his 1-A draft classification on the ground that his job as consultant in the Office of Production Management is vital to national defense.

John Brophy, a member of the national mediation board appointed to settle strikes affecting national defense industries, was termed a communist by John L. Lewis several years ago before he and Lewis settled their differences and Brophy was named director of the CIO national committee.

Brophy was at one time active in organizing the National Miners' union, which was listed by a congressional investigating committee headed by Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] as affiliated with the communist party. In 1938 Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America and then one of Lewis' chief lieutenants, stated that Brophy was putting members of the communist party on the CIO pay roll as organizers, and termed Brophy "a stooge for the communist party." Brophy denied that he was a communist.

It was Brophy who appointed Harry Bridges west coast CIO leader. In 1939, at a national conference of social workers in New York, Brophy urged that the government take control of interstate and basic industry.

VIRGINIA LOPEZ IS CONVICTED ON MORALS CHARGE

Los Angeles, Cal., May 13 (AP).—Virginia Lopez, 30, was convicted by Judge Thomas L. Ambrose today of contributing to the delinquency of 16 year old Sylvia Hamalaine, who came to Hollywood from Hibbing, Minn., in quest of movie fame.

Miss Lopez, who testified before the county grand jury last week about parties she and Miss Hamalaine attended in the home of a movie actor, was served with a subpena as she left the courtroom, ordering her to appear before the jury tomorrow.

Miss Hamalaine, who shared an elaborate Hollywood apartment with Miss Lopez, charged the latter forced her to submit to Eddie Larue, 26, who has pleaded guilty to contributing to the girl's delinquency.

HEARING OPENED ON SURGEON'S BID TO ADOPT NIECES

Hearing on a petition of Capt. Hugh A. McKinley, a surgeon in the medical corps at Fort Sheridan, to adopt his two nieces, Nancy Evans, 9 years old, and Virginia, 8, was begun yesterday before Judge William L. Pierce of Belvedere, sitting in the Lake county Circuit court in Waukegan. Their father is Andrew J. Evans, 39, a Hammond attorney, who obtained a divorce in 1936 from their mother, Mrs. Adelaide McKinley Evans. Evans has remarried and is the father of two sons.

Judge Pierce also is hearing Evans' action for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground the children are being detained illegally. They and their mother have lived with Capt. McKinley at 597 Glenview avenue, Highland Park, since 1935.

200 HEAR DEBATE ON PLAN TO FEED STARVING EUROPE

The question of supplying food to conquered European democracies was informally debated last night before 200 persons in the auditorium of the Evanston Methodist Episcopal church, under auspices of the Evanston Peace committee. The debaters were Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the midwest division of the National Committee on Food for the Small Democracies, and Dr. Raymond Carey, professor of history at Northwestern university.

"It will be an empty victory for the allies if we allow an entire European generation to perish thru starvation," said McCormick.

Prof. Carey contended supply ships are needed "for the greater goal" of defeating Germany.

Sale to Be Held in Lake Forest for Hull House

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE group of well known women, headed by Mrs. William McCormick Blair, who run the Hull House shop in East Delaware place, always are looking for a new house in which to hold a sale. Every other charity shop board of managers is doing the same, of course, so there is plenty of rivalry among the various shops.

The Hull House board announces with undiguised pleasure that Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter Isham have agreed to open their new home at 999 North Lake road, Lake Forest, on Tuesday from 10 until 6 o'clock, for a display of the articles that usually are to be found in the Chicago shop.

The Isham home is not a new house, for Mr. and Mrs. Isham bought the old Clayton Mark place, but the house has been remodeled in an unusual and interesting way by Ambrose C. Cramer. The huge living room is paneled in natural oak and partially booklined. At one end is a billiard table, definitely an unusual feature for a living room. One of the most attractive rooms is a small morning one with red lacquered furniture of the Victorian era. On the bluff between the house and the lake is a parterre garden with many set-in pools that are tantalizing to the vision.

Many to Give Luncheons Preceding the Sale.

Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, Mrs. John Andrews King, Mrs. John H. Hamline Jr., and young Mrs. "Phil" Armour have planned luncheon parties for Tuesday, intending to take their guests to the sale.

Among those assisting at the sale will be Miss Nancy Cushing, who with her mother, Mrs. Charles G. Cushing, will be visiting in Lake Forest then. They arrive tomorrow, Mrs. Cushing to be with Miss Margaret Thompson for 10 days and Nancy to be with the Clarence Prentices. When Mrs. Cushing concludes her visit with Miss Thompson she will go to the Prentices for a visit also.

Miss Thompson is giving a luncheon for her guest on Saturday and on Sunday the Vaughan Spaldings will give a luncheon. Mrs. Clifford Rodman has planned a dinner for Friday, the 23d, and on Sunday, the 25th, the Curtis Munsons will be luncheon hosts at a party for the former Elizabeth Goodrich.

The nursery school of Hull House is to receive the proceeds from the Mary Crane league's annual luncheon and style show, to be held today in the Marine room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen is to be the especial guest at the party, at which there will be 1,600 guests. Following the style show a card party will be held.

Herbert Elijah Hydes Present Daughter Today.

Today brings the first debut tea of the 1941-42 season. It is to be a simple country tea from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Herbert Elijah Hydes' home on Church road in Winnetka. Their daughter, Sarah Gilchrist, better known as Sally, will meet part of her parents' friends today, and tomorrow she will meet the others. The last was so long that Mrs. Hyde decided to have two parties instead of one, but she did not designate to which any one was invited, so the guests have their choice.

Assisting will be the Misses Jane Affleck, Katherine Bingham, Anne Callahan, Patricia Cathcart, Mary Everitt, Jane Harshaw, Patricia Harshaw, Linda Meyer, Modrea Mullen, Mary Alice Christian, Martha Stevens, and Evelyn Blackmer of St. Louis, who is the Hydes' house guest. Receiving with the bud and her parents will be her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Luther B. Mann, who returned recently from Florida.

Mrs. A. H. Revell Jr. Giving Debutante Party July 11.

Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr. took Friday, July 11, for a debut party as soon as the William E. Clows changed the date for the dinner-dance they will give for their granddaughter, Frances Clow, from the 11th to Thursday, July 3. Mrs. Revell's party will be a dance at the Onwentsia club for debutantes Anne Boswell and Lana Delke. The Clows' party will be in the garden of their home in Lake Forest. It is possible that the Revells' daughter, Mrs. Samuel Vaughan Jr. of Pride's Crossing, Mass., will be here for the party her parents will give, for she will visit them some time during the summer. The former Joan Revell made her debut last season and was married last February.

The Antiquarian society of the Art institute has invitations out for a spring tea for Mrs. Potter Palmer on Thursday afternoon, May 22, from 3 until 5 o'clock in gallery M 4a of the institute. In addition to honoring Mrs. Palmer, who was president for a number of years and who has done much for the society, the tea will open the society's loan exhibition of European embroideries of the 16th and 17th centuries.

The embroideries, all secular ones,

French Exhibit at Institute to Close May 20

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Only a few days remain to see the unique exhibition of masterpieces of French art at the Art institute. After May 20 the show will be broken up, part of it going to Los Angeles.

This morning at 11 o'clock in Fullerton hall of the institute George Buehr will speak on "Twentieth Century French Painting." The lecture is free and open to the public. Again on Friday evening the institute will be open until 10 o'clock for visitors to see the French exhibition. They also may see Mrs. James Ward Thorne's miniature rooms at that time.

A group of Japanese priest robes of the 18th and 19th centuries has been placed on display in the newly decorated oriental room of the institute.

The exhibition of Lyonel Feininger's work, reviewed last Sunday, is on view at the Katharine Kuh galleries. By mistake the name of the gallery was omitted.

The May exhibition of paintings by members of the South Side Art association opened last Sunday in the galleries of the Hotel Windermere West.

The work of Paul E. Beem of Chicago and of Mattie Lietz of La Grange is on exhibition at the Hoosier Art gallery for the rest of the month.

In Goodspeed hall at the University of Chicago is a show of contemporary art from the countries of the western hemisphere, assembled by the International Business Machine corporation. Closing date, May 29.

The work of a number of American Indians is being shown thru tomorrow at Mandel Brothers. All the paintings are water colors and are fascinating from the point of view of color, line, fine detail, and rhythm of movement. They are highly decorative as well as informative of Indian ceremonials and costumes.

Miss Elizabeth Robertson, director of art in the Chicago public schools, is responsible for an interesting exhibition of the work of Cuban children which is seen in conjunction with that of our own boys and girls in the Crystal corridor at Marshall Field & Co. Miss Robertson took examples of Chicago children's work to Cuba last winter and now Cuba has sent a like show to Chicago.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

By Way of Report.

Carveth Wells' talking jungle bird, Raff, is leaving New York today for Chicago on the Commodore Vanderbilt, attended by his maid, Miss Rebecca Pugh, whom the bird always calls Rebecca. Raff, hero of Wells' new book, Raff the Jungle Bird, who is staying at the Morrison while in Chicago, will appear at a local book department in connection with the publication of his biography. Raff has been able to whistle The Star Spangled Banner for some time, but now is learning My Country 'Tis of Thee.

* * *

We don't know whether Raff will autograph his biography or not, but his appearance at the book department brings to mind the story of Robert Nathan's book The Journey of Tapiola and Tapiola's visit to a New York book store to autograph copies of it. Tapiola was a Yorkshire terrier that belonged to Mrs. Alfred Knopf. His mistress was afraid his slender little leg and foot might be injured by too many impressions of his paw on book buyers' copies, so she had a rubber stamp made of his paw print. All mail orders and telephone orders were stamped with it, and Tapiola's own impression went only on books where the buyers were actually present.

Art Owner.

A visitor in town this week is Paul Rosenberg, Frenchman who has loaned some of his superb art treasures to the current French show at the Art institute, which closes May 20, by the way. M. Rosenberg owns the Corot Woman with Toque; the Renoir Portrait of Gabrielle; the Delacroix Turkish Women in the Bath and a dozen other pictures in the show. M. Rosenberg has in his pocket a cablegram from his secretary in Paris. It announces that some seven hundred French masterpieces he had left behind in France had been confiscated by Hitler, also his bronzes and marbles, and his fine library.

"However, I have my pictures in my brain," said M. Rosenberg.

Paul Rosenberg, who handles all Picasso's output, who owns fine Renoirs by the dozen, and most of them are safely in New York, having been shipped there from his gallery in England at the outbreak of the war, left Paris last December. He tells a little story of another refugee from France, famed Eve Curie, whose French citizenship recently was taken away from her. As soon as the announcement was made Mrs. Roosevelt invited her to visit at the White House. While she was a guest there Henri-Haye, ambassador from the Vichy government, telephoned President Roosevelt to ask for an appointment.

"I will not be able to see you today," President Roosevelt told him. "My few free moments today go to Miss Eve Curie, who is visiting us."

Cuff Notes.

Lily Pons is going into the perfume business. The stopper of the bottle will be a soprano clef and eventually there will be seven perfumes, one for each note of the scale, Lily Pons Do, Lily Pons Re, and so on. . . . Two Chicago newspaper writers, Geoffrey Parsons Jr. and Robert M. Yodor, make their Saturday Evening Post debut this week writing about Blackburn, self-help college at Carlinville, Ill. This time the college believes in being prepared and has opened up a Chicago office to answer all inquiries, having received a donation of $150,000 when an article appeared in another national magazine several years ago. . . . Is there any truth to the rumor, asks Robert L. Lederer, that Hitler recently forwarded Stalin a copy of the popular song hit, "What Cha Know, Joe?" . . . Katherine Dunham is giving a concert in primitive rhythms at the College Inn late Sunday night. . . . Eddie Dowling, in town on his way to New York from Hollywood, recently heard from Bea Lillie in London. Her son, Sir Robert Peel, is a wireless operator on a cruiser; her house in St. John's Wood was bombed. She herself is entertaining soldiers. . . . Rene Clair, the French movie producer, was in town yesterday on his way to Hollywood. . . . Al Copeland understands that the note Hess left Hitler read "I'll be in Scotland afore ye."

Two Artists Presented in Debut Recital

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Songs of the dainty, maidenly sort Miss Harkins did in a timid, eager to please fashion, which was genuinely attractive. Here her small, white voice hardly was a disadvantage at all and her refined, if somewhat tentative, phrasing fitted the music as a glove the hand.

However, in such great romantic songs as Schubert's "Ungeduld" and Schumann's "Widmung" there were wanting the deep absorption and the passionate, believing delivery which are absolutely necessary if a listener is to be properly inflamed. Probably first night nerves were partly responsible for the lacks there.

Mr. Volk, too, seemed hesitant about putting much of himself into his music making. He played with a fine dexterity and an excellent command of tone, but in his Bach-Brahms group at least he did not attempt to communicate warmly to his audience what he himself has doubtless found in the music. Things were much better later in the evening when he was sure the critics had all gone home, and his performance of Chopin's Opus 53 Polonaise had a personal touch which brought it excitingly to life.

The a cappella choir of Valparaiso university gave a concert in Orchestra hall under Richard Schoenbohm's direction. The program consisted almost entirely of sacred music.

The choir has been trained to the point where its execution is of virtuoso calibre. Its precision of attack and release and the easy way in which it executes very complicated dynamic schemes were probably nowhere more startlingly in evidence than in Withol's curious Staccato Etude for Chorus. The director was able to manipulate his choir as a very skilled organist would a modern, instantly responsive instrument.

PIANIST IN RECITAL

BY CECIL SMITH.

Freda Trepel, pianist, played a program of more than ordinary musical interest in Curtiss hall last evening. In addition to the seven Bagatelles of Beethoven and works by Scarlatti, Ravel, Rachmaninoff, Debussy, and Liapounoff she presented what may well have been the first Chicago performance of "Le Festin d'Esope," a theme and variations by Charles Alkan, a nearly forgotten Parisian contemporary of Chopin.

Miss Trepel plays the piano studiously, and with a good deal of technical dexterity. Passages in the four Scarlatti sonatas on the program were accomplished with fluency, and some of the Alkan variations—none of which possessed any great musical worth, unfortunately—were delivered with expressive tone.

Brown Is Still Favored Color in Fur Coats

BY REA SEEGER.

Back stage of a current fur show proves that the fashion for brown fur coats continues. This annual showing of what is to come next fall, features such new pelts as otter, that favorite fur of grandmother's day, worked in the suave 1941 and 1942 silhouettes. And again thick silky beaver is especially worked for the favorite all purpose coat for young and not so young. Some stunning capes and classic swaggers are made of blended Persian lamb in lovely shades of brown, and the spicy dark minks never looked more beautiful.

New arrivals causing all sorts of fashion excitement are the models worked of American opposum. This fur has the long guard hairs. The particularly handsome taupe gray tint is flattering to every one. It's a sturdy pelt; ideal for the daily use of a career girl or for the college wardrobes.

Stunning new ensembles of this American opposum with wool are making fashion talk of capes, belted jackets, swinging swaggers, and straight line hip length jackets all use the wool for contrast. Some of the fur jackets are lined with the wool, the same wool that makes the dress; some are lined with brilliant plaided knitted material, the gay vivid plaids and monotones beloved of the young set.

Many of the American opposum coats and jackets are spectator sports type, but the exceptions are clever convertibles, swanky affairs that double for dinner and dance dresses and even evening gowns. The capes are jaunty and smart, ideal tops for slinky thin wool dinner dresses of bold, clear color or exotic shades like sulphur, palm green amythist, topaz, and henna. The extreme modest price marks are unexpected.

Women Voters Asked to Aid in State Reforms

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Bloomington, Ill., May 13 [Special].—America will be next door to fascism or communism unless a solution of the present financial chaos is found, Deneen Watson, chairman of Gov. Green's advisory tax commission, warned the Illinois League of Women Voters in convention here today.

He asked the organization to help Illinois set an example of a solution of this financial chaos by backing the financial reforms and economies proposed by the commission for the state.

The tax consciousness of the people, Mr. Watson emphasized, will become "tax unconsciousness" shortly at the present rate of expenditure for national defense. Already, he asserted, national defense is costing more than all state and local governments together. He predicted a national debt of 75 to 100 billion dollars by 1943.

"I don't want to frighten you," Watson declared, "but the people should know the facts. If we have a breakdown in the national financial structure we shall be next door to fascism or communism."

Millions of dollars, Mr. Watson asserted, can be saved to the Illinois taxpayers thru the reforms proposed by the commission which he heads.

The reforms, many of which have been urged for years by the League of Women Voters, include a genuine merit system or civil service; no state aid for school districts with less than seven pupils; larger units of assessment; larger units of administration for highways; placing the state on a cash basis, eliminating the tax anticipation warrant racket, and cutting borrowing to the limit; centralized purchasing; stricter budgeting, an adequate auditing system, and periodic public accounting of expenditures.

"Equality of legislative representation" was among the items included on the program adopted by the league today. It was explained that the item was so phrased in order not to recommend a specific type of change.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bradish Gregg of Los Angeles, Cal., announce the marriage on May 3 of their daughter, Charlotte, to Donald P. Ogilvie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Ogilvie of Chicago. The ceremony took place in Knowles Memorial chapel at Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla. Mr. Ogilvie and his bride will be at home in Chicago after July 1.

Mrs. Owen Graham of Tampico, Ill., announces the marriage on April 26 of her daughter, Kathryn, to Dr. William E. Rapp of Chicago, son of Dr. Esther H. Rapp of Urbana, Ill. The ceremony took place in the rectory of Holy Name cathedral. Dr. Rapp, resident physician at Grant hospital, and his fiancée are graduates of the University of Illinois, at which he received his medical degree also.

Mrs. Dorothy Cavanaugh Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Emmet Cavanaugh of Chicago, and Frank Belfort Keogh of New York, formerly of Chicago, were married on May 3 at the Gotham hotel in New York. They will make their home in New York. Mr. Keogh is the son of Mrs. Belfort Delafield of Paris, France, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Francis W. Parker School Opens Drive to Raise $600,000

Officers, trustees, and friends of the Francis W. Parker school, one of the best known preparatory institutions in the country, will meet this evening in the Drake hotel in the opening of a campaign to raise $600,000 for scholarships and building replacements. This is the first time in more than 40 years that the school, located at 330 Webster avenue, has made a general appeal for funds.

The school has no debt. The $600,000 is required as follows: $80,000 for modernizing and replacing classroom facilities for the kindergarten and the first three grades; $60,000 [$20,000 for three years] for scholarships; $145,000 for tearing down old buildings and erecting a new unit including gymnasium, shops, and cafeteria; $240,000 for rebuilding the central portion of the structure and allowing clearance of the lot bounded by Lincoln Park West, Clark street, Webster avenue, and Grant place.

Clay Judson, president of the board of trustees, and Richard Bentley are co-chairmen of the campaign committee. Other officials of the board are John A. Holabird, vice president; Arnold Gingrich, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Polly Root Collier, assistant secretary. Members are Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Flora J. Cooke, Mrs. Edwin J. Eisendrath, Edward D. McDougal Jr., Mrs. William L. Pattison, Perry Dunlap Smith, Katharine Taylor, and Herbert W. Smith.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

RESCUE.

Dave flattened against the side of the building just as he heard a table overturn inside and the heavy tramping of feet. The door was yanked open, and at the same time Dave swung the rifle, butt foremost.

It caught one of Will Usher's gunnies full in the belly and doubled him over like a jackknife. Dave grabbed him before he fell, held him up with one hand, palmed his gun up with the other, and using the man as a shield, stepped into the room.

He had a fleeting glimpse of the room before it exploded into action. Will Usher, his gun half out, was lunging for shelter behind Sholto, who was sitting motionless in a chair by the overturned table. McFee was standing against the wall, his hands raised over his head. And in that split second Dave caught sight of the man flattened against the wall inside the door. He wheeled away and back just as the man's gun exploded. The man Dave was holding jarred with the impact of the slug. Dave stuck his gun in, turned it at right angles, and fired just as the window crashed somewhere. The man fell. Then he lunged inside the room over the two bodies on the floor. A gun boomed from the rear of the room, the slug slapping against the wall behind him.

McFee yelled: "Be careful!" as Dave swung up his gun and sent a shot toward the rear of the place. A door slammed, a body fell heavily, and then it was still.

Dave said swiftly: "Where's Usher?"

"Out the window!" McFee said.

Dave ran for the shattered window, stuck his head out and saw nothing, then turned and lunged out the door. Usher had just dived behind the horses. Dave was out the door, running toward him, when Usher shot over the rump of a horse. The slug whistled by Dave's ear, and he dived for the protection of the two unconscious men in the yard. Usher shot again, this time over his head. Dave grabbed the rifle of one of the men, propped him on his side, laid the rifle across him, and then called: "Come on out, Will. You can't make the break."

"Damn you! Come and get me! I'll kill every horse here if you do." He sent another shot at Dave that went over his head.

There was a long silence. Dave couldn't shoot for fear of hitting the horses, which they needed. And Will Usher knew it.

Suddenly Will bawled: "I'll make a deal, Dave! Get me a horse and let me out of here and I won't shoot the horses."

McFee yelled from the house: "Take him up on it, Dave! There's a man guardin' the canyon below! We can't get out afoot!"

Dave said: "Nothin' doin', Will. I wouldn't trust you. You'd fort up out there and send that man for a posse in Wagon Mound." He paused. "I'm comin' over, Will."

"Wait a minute!" Will cried, real terror in his voice. "I'll ride out with you, Dave! I'll pull that man away and take him with me!"

"I'm comin' after you, Will!"

"Dave! Dave! Listen, you need the horses, and I'll kill 'em all if you start over here! Listen to me! I'll give myself up if you'll give me your word you'll turn me loose at the mouth of the canyon. I'll get you by my man!"

McFee bawled: "Dave, you fool! Take him up!"

Dave cursed bitterly. There was McFee howling like an old woman because he was afraid to be afoot in a country where a posse was likely to ride him down. And now Will Usher, because McFee was afraid, would go free. For one stubborn moment Dave told himself McFee could be damned, but he knew he couldn't let Will kill the horses. What was he doing this for? To get Sholto back and McFee free of his charges. Will Usher would have to wait.

Usher bawled: "Give me your word, Davey, and I'll take you out of here!"

Dave dropped his rifle in disgust. This was twice he'd missed Will Usher. He said shortly: "Come on out. You've got it."

Will Usher walked out from behind the horses, smiling broadly. He had no fear of being killed now, for Dave Coyle's word, to lawman or outlaw, was never broken. He walked over to Dave, his handsome face smiling. Somewhere in the turmoil he had lost his hat, but he was still wearing his dusty frock coat and his soiled gloves.

"Well, well, Davey," he said wryly. "I thought I had a place here that was Coyle proof."

"You'll never have one, Will," Dave said. "When I get thru with this business I'm goin' to spend a little time on you."

They looked at each other a moment, Will Usher's face troubled, his eyes angry. He looked like a gambler who had tried to fill a bobtailed straight and was both surprised and angry that he hadn't. Dave Coyle looked disappointed, too—and grim.

McFee, now that the shooting was over, tramped out of the mill shed, Sholto behind him. Dave looked at McFee and remembering that McFee, instead of warning him of the man inside the shack waiting for him, had stood there with his hands in the air, said sardonically: "I don't know what I'd do without a fightin' partner like you, McFee."

McFee's face was a brick red. "I'm not a gun-fightin' man," he said.

"Why mention gun-fightin'?" Dave sneered. "Here." He handed McFee his gun. "If he says boo, just hold tight and maybe it won't fall out of your hand."

Dave went back into the mill shed. The man behind the door had shot his partner, and they were both lying dead across the sill. Dave went on thru the office to a smaller one and found what he was looking for. The watchman had been bound and gagged and was lying on the floor. Dave untied him.

Afterward he went out to the horses. Usher and McFee mounted first, and Dave swung up alongside of Sholto's horse.

"I've got your wife safe," Dave said to Sholto. "You don't have to go back to Wallace now. We're showin' you to Beal so he'll free McFee, and then you can ride out."

Sholto's eyes lighted up with a faint hope, and he said: "Thanks. You let me get past you that night at the line camp. I pay back my debts."

They rode out of the canyon. Will Usher called down his guard, who was forted up on the canyon slope, and Dave disarmed him and gave him the extra horse.

At the mouth of the canyon Will Usher said: "I'll leave you here, Davey boy," and grinned at him.

Dave shifted in his saddle and regarded Usher with speculation in his eyes. "Aim to high tail it, Will?"

Usher laughed. "I don't reckon. You know why, Davey. Because I think they'll nail your hide to the wall before you're thru here. I aim to help 'em."

Usher laughed, waved agreeably, and headed down the road toward Wagon Mound. Dave and McFee and Sholto cut thru the timber, rounding the base of the Corazon and headed for Yellow Jacket.

It was a long ride and a hard one, and Dave hurried. He wanted more than anything else at this moment to get McFee off his hands. Once that was done, once it was proved to Carol that he was willing to help her father, he would be free to work on what was important. Sholto, after all, was a minor matter, a nuisance, a by-product of the court fight. What was important was the identity of the man behind Tate Wallace.

Darkness caught them far out on the flats west of Yellow Jacket. A chill night wind riding the earth bit into them and gave its warning of winter soon to come. It seemed to Dave, looking over at Sholto and McFee with their shoulders hunched against the cold, that all of them would be glad to part company. McFee was sulky, not even cheered by the prospect of his freedom. Sholto was more quiet than any man Dave had seen. He seemed to be considering something, keeping his own counsel. The three of them were like strangers, not even wanting to speak to each other.

Plea for Tricycle Made in Behalf of Little War Refugee

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Perhaps some south side reader can come to the aid of a four year old war refugee.

"Dear Miss Brown: I've been a TRIBUNE reader for many years and never miss your column. You have brought so much happiness to those who are in less fortunate circumstances that I am hoping you can help me when I lay my case before you.

"Since November of last year I have had my sister and her two children, a girl 13, a boy 4, here with me. They came from Scotland as war refugees. We get along nicely even tho it has increased our family to seven. My husband's work is not very steady, and with three extra mouths to feed there is nothing left for luxuries.

"Almost every child in the neighborhood has a tricycle, and Clifford, my nephew, watches other youngsters of his age playing on them and longs to have one, too, but we cannot at this time spare the money to buy one. [You understand that the father in Scotland is not allowed to send any money to this country, or I wouldn't be writing this letter for help.]

"I'm sure there must be some reader who has a discarded tricycle which could be passed along. It would make him very, very happy. Mrs. G."

$25,000 Given St. Luke's Home for Nurses Fund

A gift of $25,000 by Mrs. Mary Louise Raymond to St. Luke's hospital for its $650,000 nurses' home was announced yesterday by Charles H. Schweppe, president of the hospital. More than half the amount needed has been pledged and a committee headed by Sterling Morton and Dr. Joseph A. Capps has been organized to obtain the balance.

2 Mistakes Wives So Often Make

Because of inward shyness or ignorance, many married women make needless mistakes—risk health, happiness. Why? Generally because feminine hygiene is considered too personal to be discussed. And so many women use over-strong solutions of acids which can burn or scar delicate tissues. Today risks are needless. For science has given womankind Zonite. Non-poisonous, non-caustic, yet kills germs, bacteria on contact. Destroys undesirable odors. Protects personal daintiness. Most important, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. Free Booklet Tells Intimate Facts. Get this frankly written booklet, "Feminine Hygiene Today"—FREE, sent postpaid in plain wrapper. Send name and address to Zonite Products Corporation, Dept. 338C, 370 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

A sharp flavored American cheese makes the best cheese soufflé. A thick white sauce base keeps the fluffy mixture from collapsing when it's taken out of the oven. But even so, the soufflé should lose no time between oven and dining table. It's puffiest and most savory when very hot.

CHEESE SOUFFLE.
[Serves Six.]

4 tablespoons butter
5 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Few grains cayenne pepper.
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup milk
½ pound sharp American cheese, grated
4 eggs, separated

Melt butter in a saucepan and blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk and cook to a very thick sauce. Stir to keep smooth. Add cheese to white sauce. Beat egg whites until stiff, and yolks until thick and lemon colored. Fold yolks into cheese mixture. Then fold in whites. Pour mixture into ungreased casserole, place in a pan of hot water, and bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 minutes, or until puffed, brown on top and firm to the touch. Serve at once, from the casserole.

Even persons who don't care much for cake usually "go for" a fudge cake if it's moist, chocolatey, and tender of texture, and if it has a thick fudgy frosting.

FUDGE CAKE.
[8 inch square pan.]

1¾ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten.
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla or 2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together three times. Cream butter thoroly, add sugar gradually, and beat until fluffy and light. Add egg and beat well. Add chocolate and blend. Alternately add flour and milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Bake in a greased pan at 325 degrees for an hour, or until done. Frost with fudge frosting and arrange halves of pecans or walnuts at intervals across the top of the cake.

FUDGE FROSTING.

2 squares chocolate, cut in pieces
1½ cups milk
2 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons light corn sirup
2 tablespoons butter
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Add chocolate to milk and cook over low heat until blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar, salt, and corn sirup. Stir until sugar dissolves and mixture boils. Cook, without stirring, to the soft ball stage, 232 degrees. Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm, 110 degrees. Beat until mixture thickens to spreading consistency.

Play Clothes for Children

YOUNGSTERS' PLAY CLOTHES.

One of the problems most worrisome to mothers during the summer season is that of outfitting the youngest set in play clothes. The wardrobe must have enough of them so that the fond parent needn't hang over the laundry tub every waking hour, and because children outgrow clothes so rapidly, such outdoor fashions must be inexpensive. We believe that this pattern will find a ready welcome by both mothers and children.

Style No. 3395 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., May 13.—Miss Barbara Fallon of the North Shore Country Day school, Winnetka, Ill., writes that her school is studying the motion picture business and she would like to know a couple of little things. For instance, "What kind of motion pictures should be shown? How many educational, how many for pure enjoyment, how many propaganda?"

The little lady's question is an unfillable order, for every man jerk of us out here would have a different set of answers. Right now, Hollywood seems to be antipropaganda. Most studio heads have come out flat-headed for pure enjoyment, and I think they are right.

Any kind of theater—stage, opera or film—has no business trying to be anything but pure enjoyment. This doesn't mean that it has to be light-headed and silly and cheap. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was pure enjoyment, but it was wonderful propaganda. "The Marriage of Figaro," a classic comedy and a fine light opera, was banned in its time because it was what we now would call communist propaganda. "Purse enjoyment" is about the finest compliment you can pay a theatrical production.

"How many educational?" queries Miss Fallon. And I take it for granted that she doesn't mean "how many animated textbooks?" for the instructive classroom film, like a color motion picture of a superb operation by a great surgeon, is something whose value can't be questioned. I take it for granted that she means how many movies at the neighborhood theater should be educational. My answer is, "None." Most of the educational shorts that Hollywood puts out are great bores because they are not pure enjoyment, and because they are cheaply made by second-rate actors, writers, and directors. Suppose your local theater manager should put on his marquee, "Come and learn something," instead of a double bill like "Nice Girl, Bad Man." People would cross to the other side of the street.

Did you see "I Wanted Wings," Miss Fallon? Not a bad movie. Not great, but not bad. Well, if you saw it you had a pretty good time and you learned a couple of things. You found out how airplanes were operated and how a military air force functions. That's education—and it's correct. Hollywood has had the pants kidded off it since that time it was in diapers, and sometimes Hollywood gets too little credit for trying its level best to be accurate. Hollywood tries at least as hard as a good newspaper reporter to get its facts straight, and straight facts are educational.

Miss Fallon also wants to know, "Should the stars get some private life and how much money should they get in general?"

Stars, young miss, get all the private life they deserve and all they want. Those who want it get it, and those who don't don't. It is possible to earn $200,000 a year and be dull and stuffy. It is possible to earn $300,000 a year and be an honest to goodness highbrow. It is possible to earn $20,000 a year and be a flutter-headed exhibitionist.

How much should they be paid? All they can get. They won't deserve it, but it doesn't do any harm. Gary Cooper and Ginger Rogers get $150,000 for making a picture, which breaks down to about $15,000 a week. They aren't worth it, of course, if you're thinking of the hard work they do, because nobody can do $15,000 worth of work a week. But they might as well get it if they can.

Children Are Confused by Over-Scolding

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

It takes time for little children to assimilate all that we want them to learn. Their young minds don't always react quickly to suggestions, and therefore they can't be expected to understand when told to do, or not to do, a thing that must be done on the minute. Yet so many young parents [and older ones, too] think if they don't demand unqualified, instant obedience under all circumstances that they are making a major mistake, that their children will get out of control as they grow older unless strict measures are employed during the tender, formative years.

Last month I spent a week-end with some friends who have three children, all under seven years, and the thing that impressed me was the quiet, unhurried way in which the children were managed. They weren't unusual children in any way. They got into mischief and were full of vim and energy, and had to be corrected and brought into line, but it was all done with a complete absence of tension and with very few words.

As I have often said in this column, it is wise mentally to count to 10, at least once, before you take action regarding the behavior of your children. If you do so, you'll find that many of the flare-ups have begun to die down even before you've reached a count of five.

Also, here's a fact to admit. Children understand much more than grownups realize. They know how to "get a rise out" of their adults and they find it exciting and stimulating to try it, but they soon tire if they find it doesn't work.

★ THRU THE ★ LOOKING GLASS

The most surprising thing about Yolanda when you see her off stage is her tininess. When she dances she seems tall, almost stately, but she is actually only five feet two, with unusually small hands and feet.

She looks tall, and "feels tall," she says, because she discovered early in her career that holding herself beautifully erect fooled the beholder's eye. The majestic posture became as natural to her as breathing and her lack of stature ceased to be a worry. Her straight back, the lovely set of her head and at least a part of her fluid grace are due to her long established habits of correct carriage.

She is one of the most perfectly groomed women we have ever seen. She shines. Her skin is radiant, her eye sparkling, her hair incredibly polished. Her clothes are perfection in color and line and detail. Always she has the band-box finish.

We'd swear that even her long lashes are better brushed, better oiled than the lashes of any other woman! She's a perfectionist in everything connected with her appearance—and her work.

No feminine member of the vast audiences that thrill to the dancing of Yolanda ever fails to comment enviously on her hair. It reaches to her knees and has never known the snip of the scissors or any treatment other than washing and persistent brushing. It's long because she feels that it thus lends itself more easily to effective draping and twisting and is proof against disarray as she dances. It's a perfect frame for her small, flowerlike face, sleek, shiny, sophisticated, and yet simply arranged. It's so black it seems purplish in some lights, and its luster, heightened by an occasional oiling before her performance, would make satin seem dull by comparison.

Engagements Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Lockheart Brownlee of Itasca, formerly of East Elm street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn Molloy, to Chester A. Martin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin of Arthur, Ill. The wedding will take place on Sunday, June 1, when Miss Brownlee, a freshman at the University of Illinois, and her fiancé, a senior there, and his parents will be spending the week-end with the Brownlees.

The ceremony will take place at the Brownlee home, the Rev. Dudley S. Stark of St. Chrysostom's church officiating. He officiated also at the marriage of Mr. Brownlee and the former Florence de Porter. Mr. and Mrs. David J. Molloy are coming from their Miami Beach, Fla., home for the wedding of her niece and will give a dinner afterward at the Glen View club. Mr. Martin and his bride will return to Champaign for the last week of college. After he has received his degree they will go to Fort Monroe, Va., for the summer. He is a commissioned officer. Miss Brownlee was graduated from Ferry Hall last June. Only the families will be present at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Farwell of Winnetka yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Jeannette, to Timothy James Campbell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell of Newton, O. The wedding will take place in June.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Most contracts reached without competitive bidding are either laydowns or within a trick of that desirable status. In the latter case the declarer has at his command a tremendous variety of trick salvaging plays. Since almost all of these plays develop toward the end of the hand, it is only logical for him to project his mind into the future and to visualize what he would like the last three or four cards in each hand to be. Often, he can control the final holdings, or, at least, strongly influence them. Let us carefully consider the masterly play of the following hand:

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH

♦ 8 3 2
♣ 7 5 4

SOUTH
♠ 7 3
♥ A Q 5
♦ A K Q J 10
♣ A K 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 diamonds	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

North coöperated too enthusiastically in the bidding. His three heart bid was atrocious and led to a slam contract that was none too good.

West chose what I would hardly term a sound opening, namely, the heart jack. Dummy and East played low, and declarer won with the queen.

A brief study made it clear that it was going to be difficult to avoid the loss of one spade and one heart. The opening lead was almost certainly a singleton, which placed East with the K-9 of hearts over dummy's 10-8. The only conceivable chance was that East could be thrown on lead, thus forcing a heart return to the combined tenace.

Since this was the only hope, declarer went about capitalizing it in such a way that the enemy could not visualize what was coming. He first led to the spade ace. Then he ran exactly three rounds of trumps, noting with pleasure the 3-3 break of the suit, and cashed his three clubs. Then, with baited breath, he exited with his remaining spade. East, thrown on lead with the spade king, could return nothing but a heart to the combined tenace.

The salient feature of the play of this hand was not the eventual throw-in [such coups are common], but the exact timing that preceded it. Declarer gauged his problem precisely and saw that an eventual throw-in would be necessary. He also saw that if he were to draw his trumps, cash the clubs, and then lead the ace and another spade, East might easily be able to visualize what was in declarer's mind and ditch his spade king on the ace, thus avoiding the lead. Thousands of players in East's position would be capable of this unblock, but only a supermaster could make this same "avoidance play" when declarer leads to the spade ace at the second trick, with the apparent intention of finessing trumps from dummy.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

May 14, 1941.

Universal day—Make this a quiet day at home or in the country. Get close to nature for inspiration.

Birth years—Those born in the years 1884, 1893, 1902, 1911, 1919, and 1929 have the pleasant number three with which to end their days from the age of around 55 on. This can mean much pleasure thru friends and thru expressing ones talent in an artistic life. This is a gregarious, social number so they will want many friends and to be gay and light hearted. They will seek pleasure and may even be frivolous if they bear down too much on the social angle. It is best to prepare oneself by perfecting a talent that can be given out at this period. Sometimes those with this last period number talk too much and say little, indulging in gossip and being in general scatterbrained. To get the most fun out of these years one should use their personality, ability to talk or write, sing, etc., constructively.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, who plunged into the National league cellar just a week ago, hopped over the Boston Braves and the Cincinnati Reds into fourth place yesterday when they accomplished a 4 to 3 victory in the opener of a two game series with the Braves. Tom Earley, third Braves' pitcher, forced Pitcher Jake Mooty home with the winning run when he passed Hank Leiber with the bases loaded and two out in the seventh. But neither Mooty nor Leiber apologized for the cheap ride, for they had done noble things otherwise. And it was the Cubs' third consecutive victory.

Leiber had knocked a homer off Jim Tobin with one on in the first inning to round out a three run foray.

Vern Finally Falters.

For a spell it appeared these three runs would be more than enough for victory, for Vern Olsen did some handsome pitching before he bogged down in the fifth. He easily retired the first nine batsmen. In the fourth, after Bama Rowell had fanned and Johnny Cooney had flied to Lou Novikoff, Gene Moore became the first Brave base occupant by singling to left. The inning ended immediately. Babe Dahlgren whiffed.

A fumble by Stan Hack touched off the Braves in the fifth. Sibby Sisti came thru with a single, Pinch Batter Don Manno doubled and Pinch Batter Phil Masi singled and the score was tied. When Olsen walked Rowell to have two runners on base, he was given the opportunity to go away and primp for his wedding, which will take place today. Mooty entered the arena, launched a double play and thereby got under way with a swell job of pitching, which earned him his first victory of the year. Jake allowed only three scattered singles, one a scratch, and walked none.

Mooty Is Swell.

Mooty started his way around with the winning run by bashing a single with one out in the seventh and stopped at second on Hack's third hit, a single to right. Lou Stringer walked, loading the bases, and things didn't look so rosey when Phil Cavarretta whiffed on three pitches. Then Leiber stood up to the plate while Early threw four straight wide ones, forcing Mooty across with the payoff tally.

The Cubs might not have had any anxieties if they hadn't knocked out Tobin before there was anybody out in the second inning. Jim sure was a grand man up to the time he went away. Hack opened the Cub offensive with a double to right, and, after Tobin had thrown out Stringer, Cavarretta singled to right, scoring Stan. Leiber then drove the ball into Waveland avenue, scoring Cavarretta.

Tobin Goes Away.

Nicholson and Novikoff flied out to complete the first inning, but as soon as the home second came around Clyde McCullough and Bob Sturgeon knocked singles and that was all for Tobin. Art Johnson went in and Olsen sacrificed, after which Hack grounded to Rowell, who threw out McCullough at the plate, Sturgeon reaching third. Hack stole second, but Stringer was called out on strikes.

Sturgeon, a mystery absentee from Cub lineups most of the time to date, was in yesterday because Bill Myers was suffering from stomach misery. Bob performed snappily at short, knocked singles his first two times up, and narrowly missed on his third try.

It's Springtime.

It's springtime in my heart again,
And it's springtime in the glen;
The trees are dressed in vivid green,
For the robin and the wren.

Varieties of crocus buds
Now raise their innocent heads,
The jonquil and narcissus wink
From prettily bordered beds.

The peach trees are in full blossom,
Down in the orchard below;
A few pink petals fall at times,
As gently as summer snow.

The lilacs in their graceful bowers
Are blooming in palest white,
Buttercups burst into beauty,
With leaves dew-moist and bright.

From dawn to dusk, from dusk to dawn,
There's charm in everything;
The woods and open spaces smile,
The meadows laugh, it's spring.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 13.—The right arm of John Rigney helped the White Sox open their first eastern invasion today in impressive fashion. Possibly because he remembered what the Red Sox did to him in his first 1941 start last week, the River Forest mound expert turned loose all the choice items in his repertoire and thus made off with a four-hit, 3 to 2 decision. Incidentally, it was Boston's first home defeat in seven battles this year and forced the Red Sox to yield second place to the Chicagoans in the American league.

Rigney's performance, while it sparkled, nevertheless had its uncertain moments. He conducted his customary flirtation with the home run ball, much to the delight of both Jim Foxx and Ted Williams. Foxx hit his third one of the year in the fourth, and Williams slammed his fourth in the ninth, making the third he has hit off Rigney this season. Foxx, however, paid dearly for his long wallop. In his three other appearances at the plate Jim fanned, making six times he has had that treatment inflicted by Rigney in two games.

Wright's the Batting Hero.

While Rigney was breezing along to a 16th complete job turned in by a Sox pitcher in 22 games, the Chicagoans weren't exactly boisterous with their own bats against Charles Wagner. Happily for the Chicago cause, Taft Wright shook off a three game slump at an opportune moment. He sliced a single when the bases were filled in the third, thereby fixing up a two run lead. Once Again the Novice Gets a Break

Dick Metz, Oak Park pro, demonstrates shot making at Columbus park to part of the 20,000 golfers who turned out on four courses last night for the first free lesson in The Tribune's annual golf school. Watching Metz is Eddie Bush, his assistant at Oak Park, who helped give the lesson. Scenes like this were duplicated at the Jackson park, Diversey, ad Marquette courses.

Bill Gordon of Tam O' Shanter (left) gives the Columbus park class another slant at proper shotmaking. At the right Dick Metz hands out a few personal pointers to Janet Dorgan of 4850 Adams street. There are three more lessons and prizes for the outstanding pupils. Enroll tomorrow night.

Willis Foland of the North Shore Country club found the fair ones especially eager pupils at the Diversey course in Lincoln park and took special pains to see that they received detailed instruction.

Boudreau Hits Home Run to Beat Yanks, 2-1

New York, May 13 (AP).—Lou Boudreau belted a home run into the right field stands of Yankee stadium in the tenth inning today to give Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians a 2 to 1 victory over the New York Yankees, before 27,130.

It was Feller's sixth triumph of the season against two defeats, but he might have scored it more easily had it not been for a mental lapse by the Indians' infield in the sixth inning when the Yankees made their run.

Until that time the 22 year old Iowa farm boy had muffled the Yankees with one single. Scooter Rizzuto led off the sixth with a double into left center. Red Rolfe bunted toward first and Feller fielded cleanly, but when he turned to throw no one was on the bag. Second Baseman Ray Mack ran over to the base, then moved to make room for First Baseman Hal Trosky. In the confusion Feller threw and nobody caught the ball. Rizzuto scored and Rolfe went to second.

Lake Forest college held its lead in the Illinois College conference race and remained undefeated by trouncing Wheaton yesterday in Lake Forest, 7 to 1. Lyle Johnson pitched seven scoreless innings for Lake Forest, and Jim Borgenson gave up the only run Wheaton scored in the eighth. Gates drove in three runs for the Jaybirds.

CLASSES ON 4 COURSES BREAK 8 YEAR RECORD

Beginners Get Free Instruction.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The ninth annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, No. 1 plan of group instruction in American sports, teed off last night on the four courses of the Chicago Park district. The verb teed really is a case of understatement. Usually it indicates a club foursome or a tournament match. Last night it reached an aggregate of more than 20,000, for that many men, women, and children of the Chicago area, largest in the nine year career of the school, turned out for their first instructions in the fundamentals of the game by members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Harry Cooper.

Last night's record attendance was the largest first night class the school ever has enjoyed. There were several reasons that might have attracted the huge throngs at the Jackson park, Marquette park, Columbus park, and Diversey-in-Lincoln courses. There is the fact that The Tribune school has become the model for similar plans in 200 other cities and golf associations since its inception in 1933. There is the more immediate knowledge that golf has become the most popular participant pastime for every walk of life in the last few years. And it would be unfair at this point not to make a low, sweeping obeisance to the weather man, who broke out in a rash of unwonted generosity last night and presented the school with a heaping batch of the best climatic conditions in years.

Keep on Breaking Records.

The 20,000 who flocked to the first lesson of the 1941 school raised the total number of free lessons provided by THE TRIBUNE in the last eight years to 277,000. With the continued blessing of fair weather this figure is certain to pass 300,000 before the lessons end on May 22, and also the record combined figure of 73,000 lessons for one year, set in 1939.

The second lesson of the school will be given tomorrow night by the same professionals who taught last night, augmented by a number of their associates who were unable to appear because of other commitments. If you missed last night's lesson you may still enroll by appearing at the course most convenient to you with a golf club shortly before 7 p. m. These same four park courses will be the classrooms for the third lesson, scheduled for next Tuesday night, and for the fourth and final of the regular series, set for Thursday night, May 22.

Matt Matteson of Ridge, the lecturer-teacher at Jackson park, found the largest class in the history of the big south side club awaiting him. Matt guided the class of more than 6,000, which required 120 separate lines of pupils, from a platform equipped with a loud speaker. Before going into the rudiments of the grip, first phase of golf's alphabet, Matt made it plain that the school is aimed primarily at folks who never have swung a club before. Those who have played the game for a number of years are welcome to attend the classes in the interests of straightening out their swings, but when the prize pupils for the school's finals, to be decided on Sunday afternoon, May 25, are chosen, they will be selected from the real novices in the classes.

Pupils Stay After School.

Matteson was ably assisted by Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, national P. G. A. president and one of the cofounders of the school; Earle Tilley of Olympia Fields, one of the town's leading golf enthusiasts, and Jack White of the Green Diamond range. Matteson and Walsh conducted a question box for their students that lasted well beyond the allotted hour of the class.

Harry Kinnell of Edgewood Valley, the maestro at the Marquette classes, reported the largest attendance he has seen at the southwest side course since he took over the rostrum there four years ago. Four thousand were present. Kinnell also stressed the in-

DODGERS DEFEAT BUCKY WALTERS AND REDS, 4 TO 3

Hugh Casey Wins Fifth Game of Season.

Cincinnati, O., May 13 (AP).—The Dodgers made it six in a row today and Hugh Casey marked up his fifth straight victory as the National league leaders opened their first western tour of the season by conquering the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3, before a crowd of 5,017.

Casey pitched six hit ball and only twice yielded as many as two hits in an inning. Those were the innings in which the Reds scored, but before they got their first two runs the Dodgers already had nicked Bucky Walters for three and they never were behind. As a result of the victory the Dodgers held their place at the top of the standings and stretched their margin over Cincinnati, tied with Boston for fifth place, to 9½ games. Score:

St. Louis, May 13 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals scored a 3 to 2 victory over the New York Giants today with a run in the ninth inning on an error, a sacrifice, and Jim Brown's line drive single past first base.

Each team made seven hits, but two of the Cardinals' safeties were doubles by Johnny Mize with men on base. They were good for a run in the first inning and another in the third, and built up a two run lead over Carl Hubbell. Walter Brown was the losing pitcher. Score:

RIGNEY AND SOX DEFEAT BOSTON, 3-2; IN 2D PLACE

Rigney's work on defense also figured prominently. He had a hand in the third inning scoring by coaxing a pass from Wagner. Rigney also did his bit in producing the winning run in the seventh. After two were out he doubled past Stan Spence. Billy Knickerbocker did the rest. He sent Dominic DiMaggio in pursuit of a drive, also for two bases, and Rigney skipped home.

Appling's a Busy Fellow.

For the first two innings Appling was the only player of distinction. He hit a single in the first and added to his honors in the third, but this time his effort brought forth results. Rigney walked with one out and, after two were gone, Appling slapped a single into left. Wagner didn't care about the menacing glint in Joe Kuhel's eye, so walked him, filling the bases. Then Wright singled into center, Rigney and Appling galloping home. Dario Lodigiani closed the inning with a tall fly to Jim Tabor.

Rigney started his day's work by walking DiMaggio, but two fly balls and three strikes past Foxx kept DiMaggio from moving beyond first base. Rigney also retired three in a row in the second and another batch of three in the third. He lengthened his string by retiring two men in the fourth. Then, with Foxx up, Rigney wasn't especially careful about his first pitch. When the ball was last seen it was bouncing around on the screen netting which hangs behind the left field wall.

Rigney Stifles Late Threat.

The next Red Sox to survive was Wagner. It was by courtesy of Rigney, who fumbled a bunt with none out in the sixth. Mike Tresh fixed this by picking Wagner off first and the next two men did nothing. There was a slight flurry in the seventh when, after two were out, Joe Cronin singled to center and Bob Doerr walked. This threat was quelled by Myril Hoag, who stepped over to the grandstand and picked off Tabor's high foul.

The next item was Williams' homer to right with one out in the ninth. Foxx then fanned for the third time. Cronin singled again, but Rigney clinched his first victory by fanning Doerr.

IT'S DIETRICH TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 13.—Bill Dietrich, who won the first three of his four starts this season, will try to get No. 4 for the White Sox tomorrow in the final of the series. The Boston pitching will be entrusted to Emerson Dickman.

Tomorrow Is Day Dykes Fires Dykes

Jimmy Dykes.

Dykes, 44 years old, actually has been in undeclared retirement for two seasons. The White Sox manager did not play a game last season and this year has maintained a safe distance from the field of action. At midnight tomorrow the retirement of Player Dykes will become official and even tho he shows up in Yankee stadium in his customary exuberant mood, you can be certain he'll be thinking of the days when he was a player and some one else shouldered the managerial cares.

First All-Star Game Still His Biggest Thrill.

Dykes has said many times his big moment came in 1933 when he played in the first major league All-Star game in Comiskey park, a contest conceived by Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, and conducted by this newspaper.

The man who still is Dykes' idol, Connie Mack, managed the American league team. Jimmy played the entire game at third base against John McGraw's National leaguers and contributed two hits in three times at bat to a 4 to 2 victory.

Chicago also was involved in another of Dykes' red letter days—the 1929 world series. It was in the game which still is a nightmare to Cub fans—the seventh inning of the fourth one—when the Athletics scored 10 runs.

Only Four of Old Mob Are Still Active.

Dykes made two hits in this inning. His first hit, a single, partially blocked by Charley Root, who at 42 still is going strong for the Cubs, scored Jimmy Foxx. Later in the inning Jimmy doubled, scoring Al Simmons and Foxx. Dykes had three hits in that game, which the A's won, 10 to 8. Philadelphia won the championship in the succeeding game.

Of all the players who participated in that memorable game, only Foxx, Bob Grove, Root, and Gabby Hartnett still are active in the majors. All have changed uniforms except Root.

Dykes has shaken off all requests to lug a bat up to the plate for the last time tomorrow in the game against the Yankees.

KNOTT'S 7 HIT PITCHING BEATS BROWNS, 7 TO 3

Philadelphia, Pa., May 13 (AP).—Backing Jack Knott with a 12 hit attack, the Athletics defeated the St. Louis Browns today, 7 to 3. It was the first victory of the year for Knott, who gave up seven hits, one of them a three run homer by Rip Radcliff. Score:

tention of himself and his faculty to concentrate on real beginners, starting off with a question box. His assistants included Chuck Blasgen of Westgate Valley, Mauri White of La Grange, Al Sargent of Hinsdale, and Packey Walsh of Marquette. The Marquette pros got off to a fast start, giving tips on the stance and backswing as well as the grip.

Two of Chicago's leading tournament professionals, Harry Cooper of Northmoor and Dick Metz of Oak Park, put on special shotmaking demonstrations for the students who attended the classes at Diversey and Columbus. Cooper, introduced by Lew Waldron of Keller's Fairways at Diversey, hit every shot in the bag at the north side layout, while Metz did likewise for Bill Gordon of Tam O' Shanter, the head teacher at Columbus.

Attorney Talks on Psychology.

Alex Pendleton, Gary attorney, gave a brief talk on the psychology of the game at Diversey, where 5,000 took the lesson. He will appear at Columbus tomorrow night, at Marquette on next Tuesday, and at Jackson on May 22. Waldron had the fullest faculty of the evening, one that included Dick Dickerson of Mill Road Farm; Jock Anderson of Techny Fields; Bob Ledger of Deerpath; Jerry Glynn of Knollwood; Joe Roseman of Pickwick; Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois PGA; Jerry Cooke of Edgewater; Pat MacDonald of Rolling Green; Willis Foland of North Shore, and Bill Rhodes of Sunset Ridge.

In addition to Metz, Gordon was aided in teaching the grip to the Columbus park enrollment of more than 5,000 by Eddie Bush of Oak Park; Harry Adams and Charley Penna of Medinah; Harold Beer, unattached, an old time Tribune teacher who recently returned from California, and Hank Foley, home pro at Columbus.

Erickson or French to Face Braves Today

The Boston Braves and the Cubs will play the second and final game of their series in Wrigley field today. Manuel Salvo, who was so wild he couldn't survive the first inning of the Cub-Braves game in Boston on April 30, will try again. Larry French started against Salvo in Boston and, tho he had to be rescued in the eighth by Paul Erickson, was credited with his only victory of the season. So French may start today, and if he doesn't, Erickson will.

Open air music lovers, who were so happy when a pipe organ was installed in Wrigley field before the Cubs left on their recent road trip, were chagrined yesterday to find the device removed from the premises.

ILLINI WIN, 16-0, AS WASHINGTON U. GETS ONLY 1 HIT

Champaign, Ill., May 13 [Special].—Chuck Campbell, sophomore pitcher, held Washington university of St. Louis to no hits in five innings today as Illinois won, 16 to 0. Kelsey's single was Washington's only hit. Score:

Illinois	202	641	01*—16	15	0

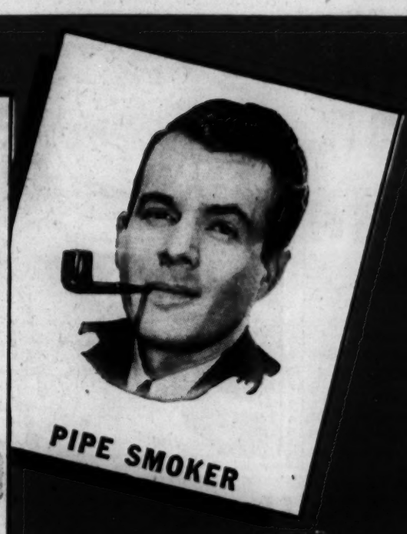
Now try Van Dyck



THE CIGAR THAT SATISFIES ALL THREE!

Don't misunderstand! If your pipe or cigarette satisfies you completely we're not asking you to change. But if, at times, you find yourself actually "smoke hungry" then we urge you to try Van Dyck.

But no matter what you smoke, you'll like Van Dyck because it was deliberately created to please and satisfy the modern taste—your taste. There's mild but superb flavor in this grand 5¢ cigar. It's never flat, heavy or harsh. There's a mellowness which will delight you—a mellowness which comes from Van Dyck's own modern blend of finer long-filler tobaccos; from a smooth, delicate and fragrant shade-grown wrapper. Van Dyck is slow-burning, cool-burning; its aroma is extra-pleasing. It gives you all the comfort of your pipe, the stimulation of your cigarettes, plus a deep-down companionable satisfaction you'll not get anywhere else.

Try Van Dyck today. That's all we ask. Just try Van Dyck and decide for yourself!

LADIES' DAY IS BARGAIN DAY AT SPORTSMAN'S PK.

Longshot Completes Big Daily Double.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Members of the ladies day crowd who went shopping for long shots yesterday at Sportsman's Park found quite a few. Beaver Lake, making his first attempt since last September at Fairmount, dropped his nose across the finish line just before the well backed Wacky Jack caught him. He completed a daily double worth $119.60 and returned $37.80 to those who had played him individually.

Beaver Lake's victory put a wallop in the battle for the daily double, which had started out quite conservatively when Ebon Flag scored by three lengths at less than 3 to 2 odds in the opening event. The second half was close all the way. Beaver Lake forced One Night's early pace, went to the rail and took a short lead at the head of the stretch, then withstood a hard drive and barely lasted long enough to get the decision over Wacky Jack, who had lost considerable ground racing wide.

Di Vernon Wins One.

Di Vernon scored at the substantial odds of 8 to 1 in the fourth race. This 3 year old filly, who had won only once last year and none previously this season, came up to top form under Jack Bainton's training for her six and a half furlong effort yesterday. Tho she got away slowly, she began moving up boldly on the outside approaching the far turn. She went around the contenders on the curve and closed sturdily in the stretch to catch Town Lace in the last few yards. She returned $18.80, $8.40, and $4.40.

The longest shot of the day came charging thru the stretch in the final event when Willie J. got up at better than 24 to 1 to beat a 22 to 1 shot, Grandma's Boy, by half a length. Willie J., sluggish at the start, moved up swiftly in the last quarter mile of this mile and an eighth run. He and Grandma's Boy closed in the stretch to beat out Askaris, who had set all the pace to the last fifty yards.

Juveniles Get Together.

A group of juveniles clashed at 5 furlongs in the fifth race, which developed into a duel between the 3 to 2 favorite, Anna-A-Vish, and the second choice, Miss Cedar. Anna-A-Vish went out to make the pace and disposed of repeated challenges going down the back stretch. Then Miss Cedar began working her way forward swiftly approaching the far turn.

Going around the curve she disposed of all except the leader. In the straightaway, Anna-A-Vish maintained her advantage under a hard drive to the last few yards, then weakened. Miss Cedar got up to win by a nose. In the mutuels she returned $7.80, $3.40, and $2.60.

Illinois Tom Wins.

The program was topped by a seven furlong sprint for horses of the $2,000 class. Illinois Tom, who had tired in his last similar attempt, took command at the start and never relinquished it. Steve Brooks gave him a well judged ride, holding him to the rail on the turns and rating him just far enough ahead of his rivals. King Cotton was his closest pursuer in the early stages, but in the last quarter mile it was Bud On who challenged with determination. Brooks rallied his mount, however, and Illinois Tom went on to win by a length. He paid off at $8.40, $5, and $3.80.

SMILIN' JACK—HOME ON THE RANGE

Hostak Signs to Box Zale for Title May 28

For the first time since he opened negotiations with Al Hostak four months ago for a 15 round middleweight title bout against Champion Tony Zale, Promoter Bill Rand yesterday relaxed. The reason was his receipt from Seattle, Wash., of Hostak's signed contract for the long deferred match with Zale, now scheduled in the Chicago Stadium May 28.

Hostak had been quibbling over terms so long every one, including Rand, had just about decided that Al feared the Gary puncher. The former champion's signed contract calls for 20 per cent of the net receipts. Zale will receive 35 per cent.

Hostak will arrive in Chicago Monday morning. He likely will establish training quarters in Trafton's gymnasium. The champion has been working out there for several weeks.

Patrick Landsdowne and Dizzy Davis, two of the most enterprising entertainers in the wrestling business, will meet in the windup bout of a mat card tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. In other encounters Seeli Samara is paired with Senor Macias, Pierre La Belle with Mike London, Rudy Kay with Bill Canny, and Phil Gruber with Kid Chapman.

FLOREK TO GET KIZER MEMORIAL AWARD TONIGHT

Ray Florek, star full back on Fenger's city championship football squad, tonight will receive the Noble E. Kizer Memorial award at a buffet dinner in the Bismarck hotel. The trophy will be presented by Robert H. Watson, president of the Purdue club of Chicago. Florek was named as the most valuable player in the Public School league last fall.

In addition to Watson, speakers will include Mal Elward, Purdue football coach; Ward Lambert, Purdue basketball coach, and his assistant, Mel Taube, and Chuck Palmer, Fenger football coach. The Purdue club also has presented a similar trophy to the Catholic league's most valuable player, Bill Freewalt, De Paul half back.

END EMERGENCY RELIEF SETUP, BRANDON URGES

Tells Women's Clubs How Change Can Be Made.

Rodney H. Brandon, Illinois director of public welfare, asserted yesterday that the emergency for state relief no longer exists and that the present system of relief should be abolished.

Offers 4-Point Program.

The welfare director offered a four-point proposal to do away with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The program follows:

1. All reliefers should be classified as employable or unemployable.

2. Unemployables should be made the charges of their local poormasters. The township, he asserted, is the traditional agency for poor relief in Illinois.

3. The welfare of poor children should be assured by passage of the aid to dependent children bill now before the Illinois legislature. The bill provides $8,000,000 a year, half to be contributed by the federal government.

4. Employable reliefers should be divided among the counties and a campaign organized like a "liberty loan drive" within each county to find work for the county's quota.

In making the suggestion that the unemployables be turned over to the local poor commissioners, the speaker said: "Pauper relief has become mixed with emergency relief. It is traditional state policy that the poor should be cared for with funds from the property taxes of their more fortunate neighbors."

Brandon said the funds collected for pauper relief should go to the local poormasters.

Favors Plan for Child Aid.

"If all the children in Illinois eligible for support under that bill were taken off the relief rolls," he said, "relief would be reduced $3,600,000 a year."

"The state," he continued, "now contributes $500,000 a year to mothers' aid. If $100,000 of that were retained in mothers' aid as an emergency fund and the remaining $400,000 transferred to the aid of dependent children the state would have the $4,000,000 necessary to support a federal-state program for children's aid."

After providing for the children Brandon then would attempt to provide employment for all employable jobless.

'ADMITS HOUSING FRAUDS; GETS 2 1-10 YEAR TERMS

James M. MacKinnon, accused of swindling 25 persons who gave him down payments on new homes, surprised the state yesterday when arraigned in Criminal court by announcing he wanted to plead guilty and take his punishment immediately. Chief Justice James F. Fardy sentenced him to one to ten years for operating a confidence game and one to ten years for larceny by bailee. The sentences are concurrent.

MacKinnon was in business at 75 East Wacker drive as James M. MacKinnon and Associates. Vernon C. Thompson, assistant state's attorney, said MacKinnon took contracts to build homes, accepting down payments ranging from $50 to $800 from victims. Losses of the victims, Thompson said, aggregated about $10,000. MacKinnon and his attorney, George Bieber, made no denial. MacKinnon is 35 years old. He lived with his wife at 6320 Kenmore avenue.

CHICAGO WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES IN CICERO CRASH

Miss Mary Ansbourg, 25 years old, 403 South Homan avenue, died last night in the Berwyn hospital of injuries suffered Saturday in an automobile accident at Cicero avenue and 36th street, Cicero. She was riding in a car with John McGinnis, 23, of 435 South Leavitt street, and Miss June Elkin, 20, of 6838 South Honoré street, when the car ran into the road parkway and overturned.

Thomas Esterline, 65, of 544 West 60th place, died in St. Bernard's hospital of injuries suffered May 10 when he was hit by a truck at Princeton avenue and 61st street. The driver was Webster Stolenberg, 2509 North Rockwell street.

Frank Yank, 57, an elevator operator, died in St. Bernard's hospital after being run over by the automobile of a hit-run driver Monday in the alley behind his home at 343 West 30th place.

Samuel Wright, 2 years old, colored, died in the Provident hospital of injuries inflicted by the automobile of a hit and run motorist on Sunday at 48th and Federal streets.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 316 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 237 were killed in Chicago, where 8,034 were injured in the same period.

PROF. R. ROGERS DIES; A DEFENDER OF COLLEGE SNOB

Cambridge, Mass., May 13 (AP).—Prof. Robert Emmons Rogers, 53, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who achieved fame in 1929 when he told his students to "be a snob—it's just as easy to marry the boss' daughter as a stenographer," died tonight of a heart disease at his home.

Rogers' widow, the former Marie Leahy Baer, of Philadelphia, is a first cousin of Admiral William D. Leahy, ambassador to Vichy, unoccupied France.

19 YEAR FUGITIVE WHO MADE GOOD IS SPARED PRISON

Gov. Green Bars Return to North Dakota.

Springfield, Ill., May 13 (AP).—Joseph A. Zettle, 51 years old, a construction foreman, whose home is at 6535 South Peoria street, Chicago, will not be compelled to return to the North Dakota state penitentiary from which he escaped 19 years ago while serving a two year sentence on a conviction for the theft of two horses.

Joseph Zettle in old and recent photos.

Gov. Dwight H. Green denied today the request of North Dakota authorities for the extradition of Zettle to that state, contending Zettle has been a law abiding citizen since his escape and that "no good purpose can possibly now be served by returning this man to prison."

Employed on Powder Works.

Zettle now is employed as a construction foreman at a government powder works under construction at Wilmington, Ill. When he took that job he was finger printed and thru the prints was identified as the man who escaped May 31, 1922, from the honor farm at the state prison near Bismarck, N. D.

Counsel for Zettle presented testimony at a hearing before representatives of Gov. Green that Zettle had reared a family of two children, acquired property in Chicago, and supervised construction of numerous public buildings in Illinois. Zettle contended also he took the team of horses by "mistake," thinking they were his own.

Plea Supported by Letters.

"Numerous letters were received from former employers of the fugitive and from responsible people who were well acquainted with him, and all these letters indicate that he is a law abiding and industrious citizen," said the report of the extradition board which Gov. Green accepted."

FINE COUPLE, JAIL SON IN MOTHER'S DAY AUTO CRASH

A Mother's day dinner had its aftermath in Safety court yesterday when a son was sent to jail for 20 days and his mother and father were each fined $5.

The son is William Slovenskas Jr., 21 years old, of 1444 West 74th street. He was returning with his parents from a dinner in his mother's honor when his car collided at 95th street and Ashland avenue with an automobile driven by Robert Fiat, 7151 Yale avenue.

Policeman Patrick J. Kearney told Judge Oscar S. Caplan that Slovenskas drove off after the collision. Kearney said he tried in vain to halt the car by climbing on its running board. He then alighted and gave chase in his squad car. He overtook the automobile near the Slovenskas home, where, he said, he was beset by all three Slovenskases. Judge Caplan sentenced the son to 10 days for driving while intoxicated and 10 days for reckless driving and fined him $5 for resisting an officer. Slovenskas' mother, Harriet, and his father, 55, were fined for disorderly conduct.

Adolph Sillman, 39, of 7758 Wabash avenue, was sent to jail for 10 days on drunken driving charges.

SALUTE DU SABLE HIGH SCHOOL ON CITIZENS SERIES

Du Sable High school, which serves Chicago's south side Negro community, last night was saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N. Six hundred pupils gathered in the audience studio for the program, which was broadcast at 8:30.

The Du Sable High school chorus, directed by Mrs. Mildred Bryant-Jones, sang the spiritual "I Want to Be a Christian" and gypsy chorus from "The Bohemian Girl." Chauncey C. Willard, principal, spoke.

Philip Maxwell of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who conducts the program, announced the addition of three more names to the Roll of Honor. They are Robert Young, North Side High school, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Mary Elizabeth Monger, Tuscola, Ill., and Mary Gordon Davis, Du Sable High school.

Twenty-seven pupils from the La Harpe, Ill., High school, accompanied by one of their teachers, Miss Pauline Starkey, also attended the broadcast.

6 Friends on Horseback at Rites for Mrs. Sonja Moore

Six women friends on horseback headed the procession yesterday at the funeral of Mrs. Sonja Moore of 6049 Ridge avenue when she was buried in the Maine township cemetery, west of Park Ridge. Her horse, David, bedecked with flowers, was led riderless to the grave. Mrs. Moore, the wife of Fred Moore, was president-elect of the Bit and Bridle club of Park Ridge. She died on Friday.

HOGS MAKE BEST GAIN IN 5 WEEKS TO TOP SINCE '38

Average Climbs 20 Cents at $8.90 Per Cwt.

The sharpest advance in five weeks carried the average price of hogs up 20 cents to $8.90 a hundred pounds yesterday, the highest level since July, 1938. It was the highest May average in four years, showing an increase of $3.10 or 53 per cent compared with the same day last year.

The range of prices was about as narrow as it has ever been. The average stood only 10 cents under the $9 peak, which was paid freely for about 35 per cent of the day's total offerings. Numerous loads weighing 190 to 250 pounds brought the top figure, which also was paid for a few consignments weighing only 180 pounds and some that averaged 281 pounds.

U. S. Program Main Factor.

Members of the trade attributed the rise chiefly to the federal program to support the market around $9. There were reports that a $10 support level was being considered to compensate farmers for anticipated increased feeding costs. Since the government first announced its intention to increase farm returns from hogs to encourage heavier production early last month, the market for the various classes at the stockyards has advanced unevenly 80 cents to $1.50, with the biggest gains in stock over 240 pounds in weight. This is the class that the government is showing preference in making pork purchases.

Yesterday's gains ranged from 10 to 25 cents, with the heaviest hogs again leading the upturn. Heavy stock moved closer to the top. Most butchers weighing 290 to 340 pounds brought $8.80 to $8.90.

Lambs Steady to Strong.

Slaughter lambs brought steady to strong prices. Packers and eastern order buyers gave the $11.50 a hundredweight top price for Colorado wool stock. Stock shorn of fleece brought from $9.65 to $10, depending on the new growth of wool and flesh of the stock. Old sheep were scarce and steady. Top old ewes were quoted up to $5.25.

Steers and yearlings settled back to a steady basis after a slightly higher opening yesterday. Heifers sold strong to a little higher. Firm prices prevailed for beef cows, canners, cutters and bulls. Calves sold steady.

MINES AND OIL.

I have received a letter from a stock broker suggesting Newmont Mining as an inflation hedge. I would like a description of the company's business and its dividend policy.—J. P.

Answer: Primarily a holding company, with large interests in mining and oil companies, the Newmont Mining corporation, New York, employs its funds also to finance and develop new ventures. For its development work the company maintains a staff of geologists and engineers. Its investments in the oil industry have increased in recent years.

The investment portfolio includes not only subsidiaries, but stocks in important oil, copper, gold, silver, zinc, and other companies in the extractive industries.

Income of the company is derived mostly in the form of dividends from subsidiaries and investments. Profits, however, depend not only on the volume of dividends and interest received but also on the profit or loss from the sale of assets, and development costs.

1936	$2,020,106	$3.80	$3.75
1937	2,867,841	5.39	13.00
1938	2,422,105	4.56	3.00
1939	2,243,462	4.22	3.50
1940	1,869,820	*1.76	$2.50

*Based on twice the number of shares outstanding in previous years as the result of a 100 per cent stock dividend in June, 1940. †Plus 1/10th share of Phelps Dodge common stock. ‡Plus 100 per cent stock dividend.

Stockholders of the company have received dividends every year except in 1932 and 1933. A quarterly payment of 37½ cents a share was made March 15. The company has outstanding 1,063,292 shares of $10 par common stock.

Net asset value of the company at the end of 1940 was $46,344,604, equal to $43.59 a share, against $52,424,269, or $49.30 a share, computed on the same basis. Net asset value last March 31 was estimated at $40.95 a share.

FORGINGS.

Answer: An offering of 29,658 shares of common stock of the Pennsylvania Forge corporation from the holdings of minority stockholders last November was the first public distribution of the stock in its history. The company has outstanding 240,000 shares of $1 par common stock.

At plants located in Tacony, North Philadelphia, Pa., the company makes forgings from steel, bronze, monel metal, and stainless steel, and, in recent months has received substantial government orders for heavy ordnance forgings.

Agree on 10 Per Cent Wage Boost for Shirt Makers

New York, May 13 (AP).—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' of America [CIO] announced today that the shirt institute had agreed to provide a 10 per cent wage increase and vacations with pay for 15,000 shirt workers in New York, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts. The union said that employés were paid currently from $16 to $45 weekly in varying operations, and that the proposed increase would total $1,250,000 annually.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

Sprouting Time.

May 13, 1941.

SPRING planting at the farms has progressed at a normal rate, and the seeds have responded rapidly to the rain and well prepared beds. The oats are up at both the Fox river and Du Page county farms, and the young sprouts look strong and healthy.

The small grains suffered no apparent damage from the cold weather last week. The only harm occurred in the vegetable garden at the Du Pafe county farm where several rows of early sweet corn were ruined. The corn was put in early as an experiment to see whether it was possible to get a head start on the normal season. The rows will be spaded up and more sweet corn will be planted.

Young Corn Up.

At the Fox River farm young field corn is showing in more than 70 acres. The cold did not harm the plants and they look promising. At the Du Page county farm 60 acres have been seeded to oats and legumes, and work is under way on the corn land to fit it for planting.

The field that was overgrown with quack grass has received an effective treatment. The farm manager said that he turned sheep into the field and let them graze the grass down. Sheep will eat quack grass almost to its roots. As a result the roots are shortened, the grass is clipped low, and the weed has no chance to increase or spread.

After the sheep were taken off the field, the two bottom plow moved in and turned the ground over, exposing the roots to the sun. The land will be worked until the last minute and then will be put into corn.

Wool Clip Sold.

The wool buyer has visited the farm and the wool clip has been sold. The shearing went well this year, the sheep yielding almost a pound a head more than last. The entire clip from the 83 sheep weighed 517 pounds. This was an average of almost six and a quarter pounds per head—a good clip for Southdowns.

The long wool sold for 40 cents a pound, with 250 pounds grading long. There were 232 pounds of short wool that sold for 30 cents. Thirty-five pounds of long wool were kept for private sale.

The wool clip at the Fox River farm came to 567 pounds and sold for an average of 38 cents a pound. The sheep averaged about six and a half pounds of wool.

The flockmaster has spotted a few ticks on the sheep and is waiting for warmer weather to dip the flock. Dipping each year is essential as it helps to keep the flock clean of parasites and bugs. It is a general practice to run the sheep thru the dipping tank before putting them on clean pasture. This lessens the danger of infecting the soil with diseases that would be picked up by next year's flock.

HOUSE ADOPTS BOOST IN FARM LOANS TO 85%

Food Costs to Rise; Extent Debated.

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—The house today overwhelmingly approved higher loans to farmers on this year's crops of wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, and rice, with stiff penalties for exceeding marketing quotas. Department of agriculture officials had estimated that the higher loans would increase food costs to consumers by 10 to 20 per cent but Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation denied these contentions.

Edward A. O'Neal.

O'Neal said that "the increased cost to the consumer would be of very little consequence" and estimated that pork would go up 5 per cent, bread one-sixth cent a loaf and cotton 1.6 to 1.8 per cent.

By a roll call vote of 275 to 63, the house approved and sent to the senate a compromise bill to require the government to make loans of 85 per cent of parity on the five crops.

Predict Full Parity.

Farm members said that if a farmer chose to put his crop in the new loan program at 85 per cent of parity, his soil conservation benefits and cash parity payments would result in an approximate yield of full parity—a goal which has not been reached in many years. [Parity prices are those which would give farmers purchasing power, in terms of other commodities, equal to that of 1909-1914.]

The legislation would require loans as follows: Wheat, 96.22 cents a bushel; corn, 69.87 cents; cotton, 13.49 cents a pound; flue cured tobacco, 19 cents a pound; rice, $1.96 per 100 pounds. Current market prices are approximately as follows: Wheat, $1; corn, 77 cents, and cotton, 12.30 cents. Rice at present is virtually at the parity level. Current prices of flue cured tobacco are not available. None has been sold since last December and the new crop will not be marketed until next fall.

With prices rising—and considered certain to rise still more when the price-pegging loan program becomes effective as the crops are marketed—predictions were made in the house that small quantities of all commodities actually would be placed in the loan because they could move more easily in the markets.

Expect President to Sign It.

Altho it was assumed in both the senate and house that President Roosevelt would sign the new legislation, some members said a veto would mean that they might have to fall back on outright parity appropriations to maintain farm prices.

They said a veto would pave the way for final approval of a 450 million dollar parity fund voted by the senate in the agriculture department supply bill, despite administration opposition. The house, adhering to the President's budget estimates, approved 212 millions. Senate and house conferees probably will not attempt to reconcile the difference until after the President has acted on the loan bill.

The latter bill, which the senate will consider tomorrow, represented a compromise. The house raised the marketing penalties and voted originally for loans of 75 per cent of parity. The senate, without having voted on parity loans before, then boosted the rate to 85 per cent. The compromise retained the 85 per cent rate and boosted penalties for marketing above-quota production to 50 per cent of the basic loan rate.

CHEESE FUTURES BREAK CHICAGO MARKET PEAKS

Cheese for November delivery yesterday advanced 0.25 cent a pound to 21.75 cents, a record price for any contract since trading in the commodity began on the Chicago Mercantile exchange six years ago.

Distant deliveries of butter and eggs lost early gains after reaching new peaks. In the cash markets butter was raised ½ cent a pound to the highest levels, with the exception of one grade, since mid-December, and eggs were unchanged.

Dollar Volume of Retail Food Sales Reported Rising

New York, May 13 (AP).—The upward trend of food sales and food prices has swelled the dollar volume of food distributors' sales substantially in May, the American Institute of Food Distribution, Inc., said today. Reports of members indicate retail food sales are running close to 15 per cent above 1940, the institute said.

Harvester Gets Gun Contract of 12 Millions

Army ordnance officials announced yesterday that a $12,120,000 contract for a "new" type of artillery has been awarded the International Harvester company, Chicago. The guns will be built in the company's St. Paul, Minn., plant. Included in the contract is $3,750,000 to cover the cost of remodeling the plant and purchasing new equipment.

The announcement was made at the Minnesota club, St. Paul, by Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the Chicago Ordnance district, at a breakfast attended by Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota and a number of Twin City business men.

Work Already Authorized.

Harvester officials were authorized several days ago to proceed with plans for making the intermediate caliber weapon. The plant eventually will employ 1,500 men and women, and the company soon will open an employment office in St. Paul. The order raises the company's armament orders to date to more than 40 million dollars.

Army spokesmen said that for military reasons no details of the new artillery would be made public.

Secrecy Is Army's Aim.

"We want to keep our newly developed arms secret," an official said, "so that when we use them the enemy will be caught without means of defense. That's a major feature of successful campaigning. Therefore you will find further secrecy as to any description of the materials we will be contracting for in volume from now on."

It is believed probable that the new gun is for installation in aircraft. International Harvester officials said preliminary work on the guns already had begun.

U. S. SEEKS HELP OF SHIP BUILDERS ON GREAT LAKES

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—The feasibility of building ocean-going cargo vessels in shipyards on the Great Lakes is being studied by the maritime commission. The commission disclosed this today in announcing that officials of six Great Lakes shipbuilding companies which operate 11 yards have been invited to a conference here tomorrow.

The officials will discuss the feasibility of building cargo vessels not over 450 feet long and taking them thru the Illinois waterway to the Mississippi river and into the Gulf of Mexico.

The commission said the conference was an outgrowth of surveys for the purpose of utilizing all possible American shipbuilding facilities in connection with the national preparedness and aid to Britain program.

COASTAL LINES TO TURN OVER 40 VESSELS TO U. S.

New York, May 13 (AP).—Intercoastal shipping operators meeting with maritime commission officials said today they would turn over approximately 20 ships to the government within the next 30 days and 20 more by mid-July to rush supplies to Egypt along the recently reopened Red Sea route.

The ships will return with materials for armament production from the Netherlands East Indies, operators said.

Lines represented at the conference included the American Hawaiian, American President, Arrow, California and Eastern, Calmar, Isthmian, Luckenbach, Luckenbach-Gulf, McCormick, Quaker, Weyerhauser, and Union Sulphur.

COMMODITY MARKETS WARNED TO RESTRICT PRICES OR BE CLOSED

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—Following up recent warnings against "excessive" speculation in farm products, the department of agriculture today asked commodities futures markets to adopt new and more stringent regulations on trading lest they become "targets of public criticism" and be closed as a consequence.

J. M. Mehl, chief of the department's Commodity Exchange administration, sent letters to the markets asking them to appoint committees immediately to report on new regulations.

This action was taken after recent rather sharp advances in some commodity futures, particularly cottonseed oil and soy beans. It was the third warning in less than a week against "undue" speculation.

Mehl, in his letter, said the markets faced two "major" problems: [1] That of holding speculation to a minimum; [2] "a frank recognition of the changed conditions that have come about" as a consequence of federal crop programs designed to stabilize prices and supplies of farm products.

SOUTHERN ROAD ORDERS CARS TO COST 12 MILLION

The Southern railway, in a step following by one day the Association of American Railroads' announcement of a large equipment buying program, yesterday placed orders for $12,275,000 of freight cars for delivery as rapidly as builders can produce them. The purchases, covering 4,025 all steel cars, were spread among three companies, according to R. B. Pegram, Southern vice president.

Mount Vernon Car Manufacturing company, Mount Vernon, Ill., received the largest of the orders. It will build 2,500 at a price of $7,500,000. Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company's Bessemer, Ala., plant will make 1,500 of the cars for $4,200,000, and St. Louis Car company, St. Louis, Mo., will construct 25 baggage-express cars to cost $575,000.

The navy department announced award of eight contracts totaling more than 2½ million dollars for textiles, fire extinguishers, and other items. Included was a $268,000 order let to Independent Engineering company, O'Fallon, Ill., for acetylene cylinders.

CANADA, ENGLAND ARRANGE RECORD DEAL IN WHEAT

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13 [Special].—What was described in the house of commons today as the largest single wheat transaction in the history of the world's grain trade has been concluded between the negotiators of the Canadian wheat board and the United Kingdom ministry of food.

J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, said the amount involved was 120 million bushels of wheat futures for delivery during the next 12 months.

The British ministry of food, MacKinnon said, had asked that the price paid should not be disclosed and that the market should remain open during the period of the transaction.

PLACE U. S. WOOL DEMANDS AT 259 MILLION POUNDS

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—The government will require about 259 million pounds of wool during the year beginning July 1, Donald M. Nelson, director of defense purchases, said today. The estimate includes requirements of the army and navy, the WPA, and the Red Cross.

Nelson made public the estimate after wool growers had said they would be helped substantially if they could know, before they marketed their clip, the amount of wool which the government was likely to need.

ANOTHER TIEUP OF COAL MINES IS THREATENED

Lewis Seeks Pact in Southern Field.

New York, May 13 (AP).—John L. Lewis tonight threatened to stop again production of 70 per cent of the country's soft coal unless southern operators and the CIO United Mine Workers reach immediate agreement on a new wage contract.

Implying that renewed negotiations with the southerners were collapsing for the third time in two months, Lewis, head of the UMWA, said he would recommend that the union withdraw the 330,000 miners from the eight states Appalachian field—probably by May 21—unless a pact was agreed upon this week.

A similar stoppage began last April 1 when the old two year Appalachian contract—basis of nation-wide contracts—expired, and resulted in a four week production paralysis.

Back at Work Two Weeks.

Production was resumed two weeks ago after northern Appalachian operators met the union demands and southern operators agreed to resume work under a tentative plan pending further negotiations. These negotiations were resumed yesterday.

CANADA TO OFFER 3D AND LARGEST WAR LOAN JUNE 2

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13 [Canadian Press].—Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley today announced Canada's forthcoming victory loan would be for $600,000,000, third and largest since the war started. Subscription books will be opened June 2.

Bonds will be available in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000 and may be purchased on easy terms over a period of six months.

"These arrangements will enable every Canadian to give the greatest possible support to this loan," the minister said. His statement did not give the interest rate nor term.

House Rejects Restrictive Amendments to Slum Bill

BY THOMAS FURLONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—The slum clearance bill was advanced to third reading in the Illinois house of representatives today after the members rejected a series of amendments that, in the opinion of the bill's sponsors, would have destrbyed the effectiveness of the measure.

The successful fight against the restrictive amendments was led by Representative Arthur W. Sprague [R., La Grange], one of the sponsors of the bill. Other sponsors are Edward J. McCabe [D., Chicago] and Harry L. Topping [R., Kankakee]. The successful fight against the amendments was due in large measure to the support marshaled by Joseph L. Rategan, Chicago Democratic leader.

The first 10 amendments that were approved by the sponsors of the bill were adopted by the house, after which separate votes were taken on the other amendments offered by Representative Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago].

Aid in Assembling Sites.

The measure, known as the neighborhood redevelopment corporation bill, would give limited power to condemn slum property to redevelopment corporations operating under the supervision of a municipal commission. At present it is impossible to assemble sites for large scale building projects because of the involved status of much of the slum property and the obstructionist tactics of some minority property owners.

The most important amendment offered by Jenkins proposed that 40 per cent of each redevelopment project undertaken under the bill should be operated on a nonprofit basis. This amendment was tabled by a vote of 60 to 26 on the motion of Sprague.

A second amendment would have written into the bill a provision requiring that redevelopment corporation accept tenants "on the basis of qualifications applicable to all alike without discrimination as to race, color, or creed." The house voted, 59 to 45, against its adoption.

Reject Other Amendments.

After these amendments were rejected Jenkins offered four more which would have placed various restrictions on the operation of redevelopment projects. One provided that the property condemned under the act should revert to the city in 50 years. Another would limit earnings of redevelopment corporations to 7 per cent. Each amendment was voted down by a voice vote.

Today's action assures that the bill will come up for final vote in the form in which it was advocated by various civic organizations in Chicago. The bill was originally sponsored by the Chicago Building congress and has the support of the Chicago Plan commission, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and a number of other organizations.

It is expected that the bill will be called up for a final vote next week by Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

Copper Supply Up in April, First Gain Since Last July

New York, May 13 (AP).—Domestic copper stocks totaled 97,761 tons at the end of April, compared with 89,873 tons at the end of March, the copper institute reported today. The increase was the first since July, 1940.

STANDARD OIL (N. J.) NETS 123 MILLION IN YEAR

Air Line Shows Much Larger Loss.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey reported yesterday consolidated net income for 1940 of $123,886,346, compared with $89,218,756 in 1939. United Air Lines, in marked contrast, disclosed that its operations during the first quarter of this year resulted in a net loss four times that of the first 1940 quarter as a result of higher operating costs.

W. S. Farish.

Standard's 1940 total was exceeded only by the record $147,993,147 earned in 1937. Last year's profit was equal to $4.54 a capital share, against $3.26 in 1939 and $5.64 a share in 1937.

W. S. Farish, president, said that the war had reduced sales abroad, but "was largely responsible for a spurt in business at home."

The City that Meat helped to Build!

MEAT PACKING is one of America's greatest industries. And the meat capital of the nation is Chicago.

Chicago's packing plants have an annual output valued at more than four hundred and fifty million dollars—by far the greatest of any city in the world.

Meat packing gives employment to one out of every 20 wage earners in Chicago, to say nothing of the thousands who owe their jobs indirectly to the packing industry.

Many gigantic industries support the life of the nation's second city. Others, too, have aided its growth. But Chicago, as in fact the entire midwest, lives better because of the industry that is based on meat.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company takes pride in signalizing the achievements of another of the truly great industries to which Chicago and this bank owe so much.

STOCKS WOBBLY AT CLOSE AFTER MILD RALLY TRY

Traders Ponder Delay in President's Speech.

New York, May 13 (AP).—The stock market struggled feebly to maintain a mild early rally today, but light selling after midday converted gains of fractions to a point or so into declines in many cases at the close.

A restraining influence, brokers said, was the postponement of the President's scheduled speech tomorrow. Not being able to find an answer to this, the inclination was to trim commitments or keep purchases at a minimum.

Some bidding was attributed to favorable business items but more labor controversies threatening armament work served as an offset.

Sales Slightly Smaller.

Steels and rails weakened at the last with United States Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, New York Central and Southern Pacific among the worst losers.

Du Pont was up 2 points and lesser improvement was shown for Westinghouse, Electric, American Can, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Western Union, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Kennecott. General Motors and Chrysler were unchanged.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Closing prices were irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Turnover increased to 20,000 shares from 15,000 Monday. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader in transfer of 2,050 shares, was off ⅛ at 25⅞.

Midland Utilities 6 and 7 per cent prior lien stocks set new highs for the year at 7½ and 7¼, respectively, the former closing up 2 points. Midland United preferred advanced ⅛ to 5¼. A new move toward settlement of the companies' conflicting claims prompted the renewed buying interest.

Swift International was the only dually listed issue to record a change from the New York close during the trading from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, closing at 18½, off ¼.

VOTE REPUBLIC STEEL COMMON DIVIDEND OF 50c

SHIP SHORTAGE HAMPERS TRADE WITH S. AFRICA

Observers Blame British Aid Program.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 13.—Record breaking trade between the United States and South Africa, which has assumed unprecedented importance because of the European war, is being hampered seriously by the shortage of American shipping as a result of aid to Britain, commercial observers agreed today.

Shippers are reluctant to make estimates on the pileup of freight, but some observers place it at more than 50,000 tons on each side of the Atlantic.

Nearly every cubic foot of cargo space is booked until July, with "strategic" materials filling most of the west bound space. Of the 22 commodities on the government's list of primary materials needed for national preparedness, 11 are being obtained in South and East Africa.

More Ships in Africa Service.

Similarly, South Africa is heavily dependent on the United States for supplies of iron, steel, chemicals, and machinery of all kinds formerly obtained in Europe and England.

Where there were less than 80 sailings a year from the United States to South Africa and about 30 direct return trips prior to the war, ship operators estimate 110 to 140 sailings in each direction this year, depending on whether scheduled deliveries of new vessels are made and whether some now owned or chartered are taken over by the government.

Ships now carry full loads, compared with slim prewar cargoes. American operators handle the entire listed trade, airplanes and munitions alone being taken by British controled ships in irregular sailings.

Export Trade Up Sharply.

United States exports to South Africa totaled $23,912,000 in the first two months of this year, compared with $12,832,000 in the same period last year. Imports were $7,406,000, against $5,756,000. Sharper import increases are expected. For all of 1940, exports were $104,000,000, compared with $69,000,000 in 1939. Imports were $47,000,000, compared with $29,000,000.

The American South African Line estimates its current business at 4½ times prewar volume and double a year ago. The Robin Line [Seas Shipping company] estimates its gain at 50 to 100 per cent over last year. These two principal carriers each hope for 40 to 50 round trips this year. The States Marine corporation and the United States Navigation company, depending more on "several" charters apiece, hope to make about 20 trips each.

Seven fast new ships to be delivered during the next nine months offer the major hope of expanded service.

British Get Dock Priority.

In addition to actual ship shortages, operators pointed out, deliveries have been delayed badly in recent months by jams at overcrowded African docks, where British convoys receive priority.

Importance attached to the trade by the government is indicated in the recent chartering of several maritime commission ships to Robin and A. S. A.—on the proviso that each carry at least 5,000 tons of specified materials.

The 11 essential materials coming here are chrome ore, manganese, copper, asbestos, corundum, diamonds, hides, pyrethrum, sisal, tungsten, and wool. Chrome and manganese, formerly sent to Germany in large quantities in return for steel and railway equipment, suddenly have jumped to the ranks of major United States purchases. Wool shipments are setting records. Diamonds, both cut and industrial, are moving in large quantity. Pyrethrum is a little known toxic agent obtained from African daisies for use in insect-killing preparations.

People and Events

William S. Knudsen, director general of the Office of Production Management; Edward R. Stettinius Jr., director of OPM's priority division, and his consultant, Philip D. Reed, chairman of the General Electric company; Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company and president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Robert M. Gaylord, Rockford manufacturer and president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, will be among the speakers at a national preparedness rally to be held May 26 in the Stevens hotel.

A testimonial dinner honoring John R. O'Connor, former state director of the Federal Housing administration, was held last night in the Blackstone hotel. The dinner was given by 75 of the active FHA mortgagees in the Chicago area.

The Scientific Apparatus Manufacturers of America reëlected President J. M. Roberts of Chicago and all other officers at the 23d annual meeting in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Frederick Post of Chicago was named to a vacancy on the board of directors created by the retirement of Thomas Gord of Chicago.

L. J. Fletcher has been appointed director of the newly created training and public relations department of the Caterpillar Tractor company, and W. H. Franklin has been named assistant controler.

Frank McNair, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, will speak on the industrialization of Latin America tomorrow at a luncheon meeting of the Export Managers' club of Chicago in the Hotel Chicagoan.

The insurance firm of Rollins-Burdick-Hunter company will move its offices, effective May 19, from the Insurance Exchange building to the Continental-Illinois National Bank building.

"Standard Oil company, as an American corporation, owes its first duty to the United States," Farish then declared. "It has kept the department of state fully informed and has coöperated closely with the department in all matters of foreign policy.

"So long as this country maintains normal relations with the rest of the world, the company must also carry on its operations in a normal manner. It cannot constitute itself judge of the rights and wrongs of international problems."

Ready to Make Chemicals.

Farish said the company, thru its research program, is ready with production of new oil-chemical products such as synthetic superfuels for aviation, alcohols, toluol for explosives, and synthetic rubber.

Passenger and cargo traffic of United Air Lines in the first quarter of 1941 was larger than in the corresponding 1940 period, but the company had a larger net loss because of increased operating expenses, W. A. Patterson, president announced. Net loss rose to $1,014,272, from $238,951.

Increases in taxes and prices of commodities purchased, larger expenditures for training pilots and mechanics, and additions to personnel were the major factors causing operating expenses to climb, Patterson said.

Pilot Sources "Drying Up."

The company's former sources of new pilots and mechanics are "drying up" as a result of the armament program, Patterson reported. He said also that the number of persons employed in various ground capacities had to be increased to insure adequate training for men to replace those who may be called into military service.

Operating expenses and taxes for the quarter were $4,147,064, compared with $3,176,744 in the first three months of 1940. Revenues from passenger traffic and excess baggage charges rose to $1,839,507, from $1,646,598. Mail revenues were $929,468, against $984,995, and express revenues $165,389, against $124,572.

GRAIN, SOY BEAN, AND LARD PRICES RESUME ADVANCE

Grain, soy bean, and lard markets executed an about face movement yesterday, gaining as much as they had lost on Monday. Announcement that house and senate conferees had agreed on a mandatory 85 per cent loan on the 1941 wheat and corn crop in the face of department of agriculture opposition encouraged commission houses and professional traders to take the buying side. News of house approval of the conference report came after the close of the markets.

Wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were up over 2 cents a bushel at the opening and soy beans soared more than 3 cents before profit taking caused a reaction from the top. The markets showed a strong undertone thruout the day and closing prices were only slightly below the best.

Beans Up 3⅛ to 3⅝ Cents.

Wheat futures finished at gains of 1¾ to 2 cents. Soy beans were 3⅛ to 3⅜ cents higher, with October at a new seasonal high. Corn was ⅞ to 1⅛ cents higher.

Houses which represent eastern interests were buyers of lard futures and strength in cottonseed oil had considerable influence on the lard market. Closing sales were 7½ to 12½ cents per 100 pounds higher.

England has bought 120,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in the form of futures, Trade Minister J. A. MacKinnon announced. He said it was the largest single sale of grain on record. England took 100,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat futures last August, and is believed to have exchanged the bulk of its holdings for cash grain since that time.

Harvest to Start Soon.

While the grain trade is paying all of its attention to developments at Washington the new winter wheat crop in the southwest is making rapid progress toward maturity. Harvesting of early maturing varieties of winter wheat is expected to get under way in Texas and Oklahoma shortly after June 1. Crop Expert C. M. Galvin, with James E. Bennett & Co., reporting from Wellington, Kas., said the crop in that area was in excellent condition.

A slow shipping demand was reported for corn. Cash grain handlers say that this is due to the fact that the Commodity Credit corporation has shipped about 1,500,000 bushels from Duluth to Buffalo and the demand is expected to remain slow until the grain has been disposed of. Cash corn at Duluth was quoted at a discount of ½ cent a bushel as compared with the CCC asking price for Chicago grain. The latter is offered at 3½ cents a bushel over the July delivery.

Guatemala Can Provide Drugs Lost Thru War, Says Standley

The little Central American country of Guatemala, with American capital to develop its rich lands, could go a long way toward providing the United States with drugs and spices now cut off by the European and Asiatic wars, Paul C. Standley, curator of the herbarium at the Field Museum of Natural History, declared yesterday.

Paul C. Standley.

He warned, however, that American drug manufacturers must act quickly. The German colony of more than 5,000 persons is buying new plantations every few months, he said, and already growing large quantities of spices and drugs.

Prices of Many Rising.

Standley, who returned this week from a seven months' expedition to Guatemala, said almost every essential medicinal drug can be produced in the plains and mountains of the little nation.

Drug dealers recently revealed that they were feeling the effect of the war blockade. Prices of many drugs have climbed as much as 200 per cent during the last few months. There are shortages of digitalis leaves, henbane, belladonna, atropine, and many other less widely known drugs.

All these can be cultivated in Guatemala, Standley said. Within a few years, he declared, if drug manufacturers pour capital into the country, the United States would not be dependent upon foreign supply.

Developments in the far east may at any time shut off the supply of quinine. Guatemala, Standley said, has climate conditions in many ways superior to the Dutch East Indies for the growing of the cinchona trees from which quinine is derived.

Great quantities of cinchona trees already are being planted on Guatemalan plantations, most of them owned by Germans, he asserted. Within a few years they will produce enough quinine for export.

The German colony near Coban is operating the only commercial tea plantation outside the orient, the botanist declared. At present the Germans are raising almost all the tea used in Guatemala.

Rains Favorable for Tea.

"Tea grows best in a damp climate," he said. "In some sections of Guatemala, as the natives say, it rains 13 months of the year."

In addition the Germans are exporting spices never before extensively grown in Central America, Standley said. Last year they shipped out hundreds of thousands of pounds of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, cardamom, and black pepper.

Daily Crude Oil Flow Rises During Week of May 10

Tulsa, Okla., May 13 (AP).—Crude oil production in the United States increased 250,115 barrels daily to an average of 3,748,735 barrels during the week ended May 10, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. The change reversed the trend of the preceding week, during which production declined 236,320 barrels daily. Illinois output rose 745 barrels a day to 324,045.

Week's Imports of Gold Total Nearly 9½ Millions

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—Gold imports of $9,451,281 were reported today by the department of commerce for the week ended May 7. Principal shipments were $3,727,984 from Canada and $3,505,332 from South Africa. Silver imports amounted to $734,609, including $410,504 from Mexico, $128,720 from Canada, and $111,123 from Peru.

Middle West Corp. Approves Pension Plan; Earnings Rise

Middle West corporation's stockholders yesterday approved a pension plan for officers and employés of Middle West and three wholly owned subsidiaries at the company's annual meeting, at which an increase in consolidated profit for the first 1941 quarter was reported.

Directors of the corporation declared a dividend of 20 cents a share, the first since an initial dividend of 25 cents was distributed last December. A statement issued on behalf of the board said that "the matter of a further dividend would be considered toward the end of the year in the light of the then existing conditions and the corporation's earnings."

Pensions Up to $6,000.

Pensions ranging up to $6,000 a year for some of the top executives are provided for under the adopted program. Funds amounting to $338,478 will be paid over to an insurance company to establish the plan. The company will pay two-thirds of the cost thereafter, and the employés one-third.

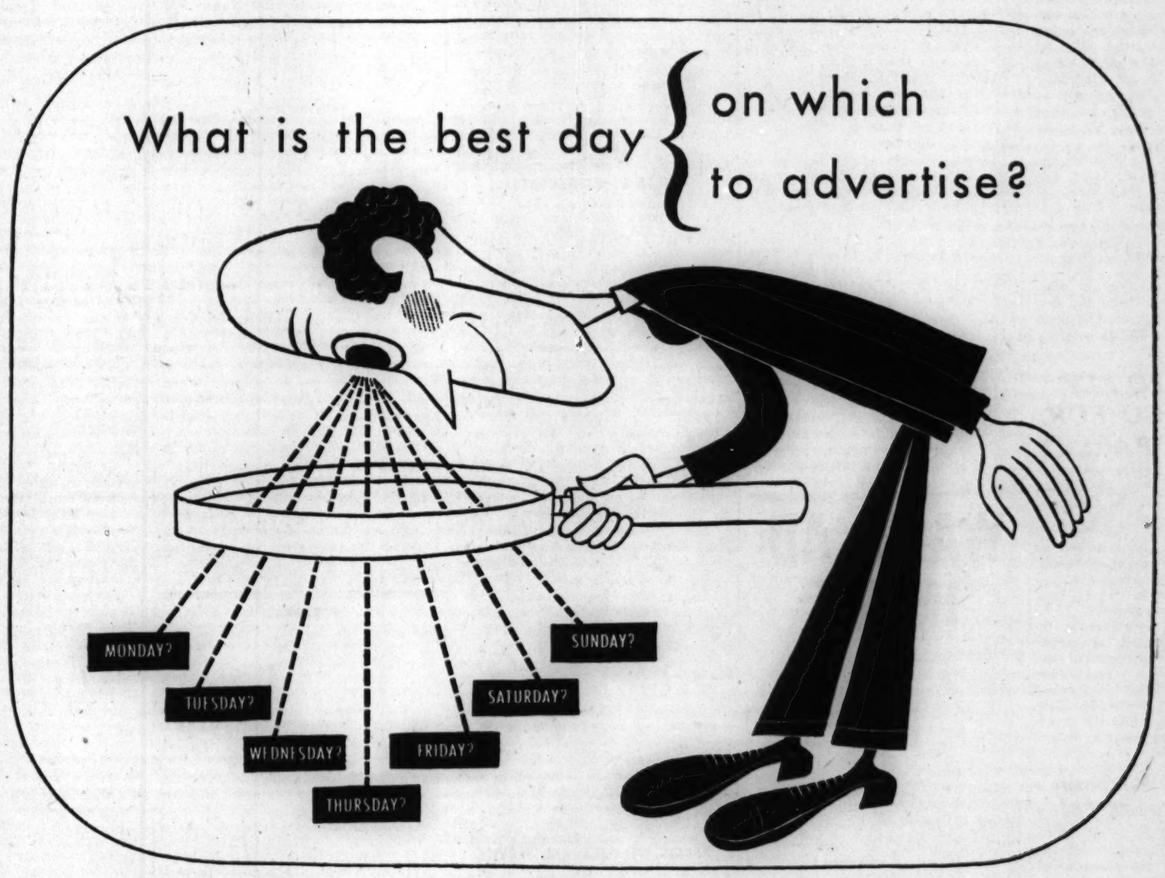
Officials said 97 per cent of the shares represented at the meeting, held in Wilmington, Del., were voted in favor of the plan. More than 74 per cent of the total outstanding shares were represented.

The stockholders reëlected the Middle West directors and also approved the management's suggestion that Arthur Andersen & Co. be retained as auditor for 1941.

Purcell L. Smith, president, told the stockholders that most of the operating companies in the system have "continued to show improved earnings" in 1941. Consolidated net income in the first quarter rose to $1,119,617, equal to 33 cents a share on Middle West stock, from $858,336, or 26 cents a share, in the corresponding 1940 period. However, the stockholders were told that earnings for the 1941 period probably will be adjusted downward because of federal legislation providing for additional income taxes.

Parent Profit Is Smaller.

The parent company alone had first quarter profit of $286,039, equal to 9 cents a share, compared with $370,573, or 11 cents a share, in the first 1940 quarter. Smith said that dividends are received from subsidiaries' common stocks at irregular intervals and that it is expected that such dividends will approximate the total received in the 1940 quarter.



On which day of the week does advertising produce the best results? Which day best fits the buying habits of your prospects and the selling plans of your dealers?

Regardless of the answer, you have at your disposal in Chicago an advertising medium which permits you to capitalize every special advantage of the individual tempo and rhythm of your sales setup.

EVERY DAY OF THE WEEK, net paid total circulation of the Tribune is in excess of 1,000,000. On weekdays, this is from 590,000 to 630,000 more than delivered by other Chicago daily newspapers. And on Sundays, it is from 270,000 to 730,000 more than delivered by other Chicago Sunday newspapers.

Right in metropolitan Chicago, Tribune net paid circulation on weekdays is 450,000 more than delivered by other Chicago daily papers. On Sundays it is from 385,000 to 460,000 more than delivered by other Chicago Sunday newspapers.

The Tribune is the only newspaper with circulation volume equivalent to majority coverage of all families in the city and suburbs. On weekdays the Tribune has more circulation in the metropolitan area than any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined.

On Sunday it has more than the two other Chicago Sunday newspapers combined. In addition, of course, the Tribune is read by hundreds of thousands of prospects in the rich adjacent territory.

EVERY DAY OF THE WEEK, this assured constant audience reassembles in voluntary session to get the news of the day, guidance in personal affairs, information about fashions and finance . . . and buying ideas.

This friendly contact, day in and day out, creates and perpetuates the special relationship between readers and the Tribune which contributes to the greater returns enjoyed by Tribune advertisers.

The Tribune is the medium from which the men and women of this great market are accustomed to do most of their buying. Proof of this fact is to be found in the advertising practice of Chicago retailers who, regardless of whether they sell to men or to women, place a larger share of their budgets for advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

NO MATTER WHAT is your preferred day on which to advertise, you can sell more in Chicago by building your advertising program around the Tribune whose seven-days-a-week customers are your best prospects. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

ANOTHER TIEUP OF COAL MINES IS THREATENED

vania, Ohio, Michigan, northern West Virginia, and Maryland agreed to increase wages from $6 to $7 a day. The union sought an increase in the south from $5.60 a day to $7, thus making the $7 wage basic pay for the industry, but southern operators said they could not eliminate the 40 cents a day differential because the north had marketing and producing advantages.

Tie Up Arms Factory.

Other developments on the nation's strike front today included:

HARTFORD, CONN. — Production of machine guns and small arms for the United States and British governments in the Colt's Patent Fire-arms manufacturing plant ceased when a reported majority of the 5,600 employés went on strike.

Robert F. Mintz, CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers' spokesman, said the employés were asking a flat 20 cents an hour increase in pay, time and a half for overtime and a week's vacation with pay. Dwight Phelps, Colt's vice president, said an offer of a 10 per cent wage increase was rejected last night. The wages of hourly rate employés run from 50 cents to $1.20 he said.

RAVENNA, O.—A wage dispute which slowed down construction on the government's 30 million dollar arsenal for eight hours ended late today after carpenters obtained a 25 cent hourly wage increase. Officials of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction company, contractor on the shell loading plant, said a new rate of $1.37½ an hour would be paid carpenters, effective tomorrow.

Ask Roosevelt to Act.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—An appeal was telegraphed to President Roosevelt asking immediate action to reopen the 11 yards where half a billion dollars' worth of navy ships are being constructed. The telegram, sent by Walter A. Haas, of the chamber of commerce: The shipyard strikers—AFL and CIO machinists—are asking $1.15 an hour and continuation of double time for overtime. They are now receiving $1 an hour."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The defense mediation board began its tenth day of negotiations to prevent a strike in 60 General Motors plants. The CIO has set its strike deadline at 7 a. m. Thursday. Principal demand is a blanket wage increase of 10 cents an hour. The company has offered a minimum increase of 2 cents with other raises of 3 to 5 cents for certain classes of skilled labor. The present average wage scale is slightly more than $1 an hour.

HILLMAN TO FLY TO CHICAGO FOR TRAINING PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—Sidney Hillman, co-director of the Office of Production Management, will fly to Chicago late tomorrow to confer with Illinois labor and management groups on coördination of vocational and plant training in the armament program. The conferences will be held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Hillman is to be accompanied by Eric Nicol, administrative assistant; Channing R. Dooley, director of the training-within-industry program; Floyd W. Reeves, director of labor supply and training; Dr. W. H. Alexander, director of the minority group section, and Herbert Harris, industrial relations adviser.

Offer Stock of Wisconsin Utility at $96.75 Today

New York, May 13 (Special).—Public offering of 58,710 shares of the 4¾ per cent series preferred stock of the Wisconsin Electric company will be made tomorrow by Dillon, Read & Co. and associated underwriters at $96.75 a share. The shares were owned by the North American company.

Kraft Protests Income Tax Payment of $59,737

Protest against payment of $59,737 in income taxes was made yesterday to the tax appeals board in Washington by attorneys for James L. Kraft, president of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation of Chicago. Kraft contended the treasury erred in not allowing certain deductions.

COTTON FUTURES SOAR $2.50 A BALE TO BEST LEVEL FOR FOUR YEARS

Cotton futures soared more than $2.50 a bale yesterday to the highest levels since May, 1937. Heavy buying orders from domestic and foreign trade sources and speculators were prompted by news that house and senate conferees had agreed on government loans on basic crops at 85 per cent of parity.

Spot cotton closed .50 to .72 cent higher with New York, 13.26 cents; Houston, 12.50 cents, and Galveston at 12.47 cents a pound. Futures prices follow:

ATTORNEY URGES EXCESS PROFITS TAX ON PAY HIKES

Suggests 1936 to 1939 as Base Period.

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—An individual excess profits levy, taxing wage and salary increases and other additions to income, was proposed to the house ways and means committee today by A. Harding Paul, Washington attorney.

Paul, testifying in connection with treasury proposals to raise $3,500,000,000 additional revenue, suggested a levy similar to the corporation excess profits tax.

Based on 4 Year Average.

"Normal" income for the purpose of the tax, under his plan, would be 95 per cent of average earnings during 1936-'39, inclusive. The levy would be 33 1-3 per cent on the first $25,000 of excess earnings and 66 2-3 per cent on all above that amount.

"Only by an excess profits or pay roll tax," Paul contended, "can there be an adequate recovery by way of taxes of some of the billions being spent for armament."

George C. Lucas of New York, executive vice president of the National Publishers Association, Inc., said that large magazines and metropolitan newspapers should be charged with only a small part of the $85,000,000 deficit reported by the postoffice department for second class mail, the classification publications use.

Calls Pamphlets Main Factor.

The joint congressional committee on taxation had recommended that second class mail be placed on "a paying basis." Lucas asserted that small pamphlets and nonprofit publications accounted for a high percentage of the reported deficit.

The National Association of Credit Jewelers, representing 700 retailers, urged that a proposed 10 per cent jewelry tax be collected from manufacturers rather than stores which sell directly to the public. Ralph Roessler of Marion, Ind., the association's president, said this method would avoid many administrative difficulties and collection costs.

ASKS DISMISSAL OF SUITS AGAINST INSULL, OTHERS

Two suits against directors of Corporation Securities company, defunct Insull investment trust, were resumed yesterday before Judge Peter H. Schwaba in Superior court after a lapse of more than a year.

Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, representing the defendants, began arguments for the dismissal of the suits on the ground that no cause of action exists; that Sam Howard, trustee of the bankrupt company, has no right to bring suit, and that the cash settlement with New York and Chicago banks in 1938 released other parties. Arguments will be continued tomorrow.

Howard brought both suits in 1934. Seeking to recover $65,000,000 from Samuel Insull Jr. and four others, Howard charged that mismanagement by the defendants forced the company into bankruptcy in April, 1932. The other defendants are H. L. Stuart, C. W. Sills, F. K. Shrader, and C. T. MacNeille. Howard also seeks recovery of $12,877,000 from Insull, Halsey, Stuart & Co., and directors of Corporation Securities, charging improper actions in connection with the sale of Middle West Utilities stock to Corporation Securities.

ICC Refuses to Reconsider M. & St. L. Plan Approval

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission refused today to reconsider its decision approving a plan of reorganization for the long bankrupt Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company which calls for dividing its properties into two systems. Without comment, the ICC denied petitions of the state of Minnesota, the Railroad and Warehouse commission in Minnesota, the Railway Labor Executive association, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and of certain preferred claimants.

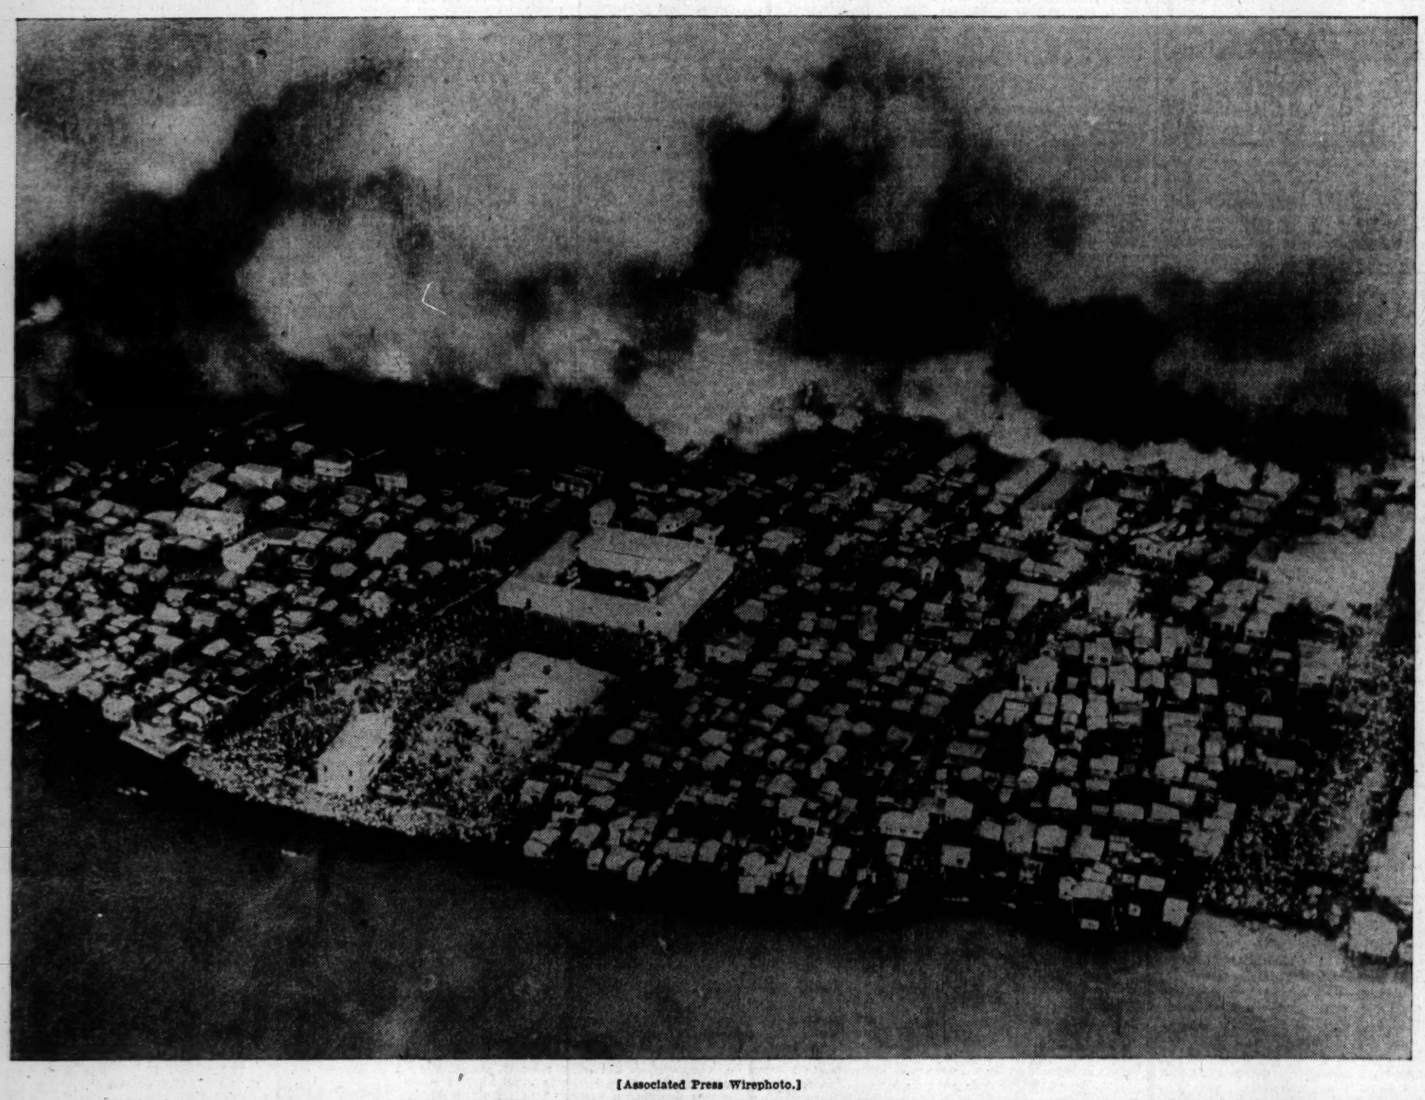
Spectacular Picture of Crowded Beaches During Manila Fire—Ships Await Convoys at Canadian Port



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Aerial view of fire in Manila, Philippine Islands, which destroyed 3,000 homes and left between 20,000 and 30,000 persons homeless on May 5. As the fire swept thru the Tondo district (background), thousands of citizens rushed to the shores of Manila bay (foreground) to escape heat and possible death.
